U. S. Taking Families of Its Military Out of China

Embassy Warning Civilian Nationals To Leave Sectors Menaced by Reds

Nanking, Nov. 5 (AP).—The 1000 wives and children of United States military personnel in China are being sent home and all other American civilians are being urged by the embassy to leave the Shanghai-Nanking area for fear of Communist invasion.

In addition, Vice Admiral Oscar C. Badger said in Shanghai that he might shift some Marines from the Tsingtao base to Shanghai, "but only as a protective force."

[The United Press reported from Nanking that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, in an unprecedented move, had granted General Fu Tso-yi full power over military operations in North China in an order so sweeping it makes the nationalist commander a "virtual dictator" in the area.

[A source close to Chiang was quoted as saying that Fu was given carte blanche in the conduct of the war against Chinese Communists after a dusk-to-midnight meeting at which the two men discussed China's critical military situation.

[The action came at a time when the Chinese capital was threatened by the onslaught of powerful Communist armies to the north and south of here. Chiang's move confirmed the belief that, due to recent Communist successes, the Generalissimo has been persuaded to relax his personal control over national affairs.—Editor's note.]

$225,000 Horse Kills Self in Plane On Way to U. S.

London, Nov. 5 (AP).—Djelal, a high-strung French stallion, went mad with fright on the first leg of an air trip to the United States today and killed himself in frantic efforts to kick his way out of the plane.

The 4-year-old horse, winner of races in both France and England, was sold recently to an American syndicate of breeders for $225,000.

Djelal was sold to the United States group of Marcel Boussac, a leading French owner.

He won the Knights Royal Stakes at Ascot this year and the Diadem Stakes at Ascot and the Select Stakes at New Market—both high-class 3-year-old tests—last year.

The syndicate of American breeders which bought Djelal included William Woodward, banker and chairman of the New York Jockey Club, who races regularly on both sides of the Atlantic.

The horse was covered by insurance.

Young Woman Attacked in Street; Near Collapse

A 28-year-old woman told police early today that she had been raped in the 200 block of 12th st. se. about 12:30 a. m.

She described her assailant as being a Negro and wearing a tan jacket. The woman, who is white, was taken to Gallinger Hospital for treatment.

Police said the victim was unable to give a full account of the attack as she was near collapse.

U. S. Agencies Ordered To Aid Pollution Fight

President Truman yesterday ordered all Federal agencies to cooperate with State and local authorities in keeping the Nation's streams free of pollution.

5 D. C. Men on Plane Lost In Newfoundland

A B-25 twin-engine bomber with six men aboard, five of them Washingtonians, was reported missing last night and is believed to have crashed near Argentia, Newfoundland.

Capt. William J. Lookadoo, public relations officer at the Bolling Air Force base here, said identity of the men is being withheld until more information about the missing craft is obtained.

Of the five District men, Captain Lookadoo said four were officers and one a corpsman airman.

The plane left the Bolling Air Force base at 7:53 a. m. yesterday. After stopping over at Westover Air Force base in Massachusetts, it took off for Harmon Field, Argentia, at 11:41 a. m. It was due at Harmon Field at 3:11 p. m. When is left Westover it had 6½ hours fuel supply.

Officers said the plane was last heard at 4:12 p. m. (EST) when it attempted a ground control landing at Harmon Field.

A report from St. John's NFLD., said a United States plane was reported to have crashed tonight within a 100-mile radius of Argentina, the American Navy base in southern Newfoundland.

Chest Drive Reaches 59% Of 1949 Goal

Contributions to the 1949 Community Chest drive yesterday crept to a grand total of $2,703,212.33, only 59.19 per cent of the $4,566,790 goal.

The intake, representing 235,850 gifts, amounts to a boost of 3.79 per cent over contributions turned in at the last report meeting Wednesday.

At yesterday's luncheon, in Hotel Washington, some 200 volunteer workers heard General Chairman Chauncey G. Parker warn that "our coverage is slow and far from complete."

He urged solicitors to "see this thing" over the three million dollar mark by Tuesday's meeting.

The general report yesterday showed only a few units over the half-way mark. These were:

Business No. 1, 53.14 per cent of the $1,785,271 goal; Government, 80.41 per cent of the $1,524,557 goal; Residential, 55.90 per cent of the $482,479 goal; Alexandria, 53.19 per cent of the $74,495 goal. Alexandria, however, did not make a new report.

Totals for other units stood at:

Business No. 2, 29.89 per cent of the $364,390 goal; Arlington, 23.38 per cent of the $70,767 goal; Fairfax, 23.28 per cent of the $44,775 goal; Montgomery, 40.46 per cent of the $159,733 goal; Prince Georges, 28 per cent of the $60,323 goal.

The special gifts unit, which, like the Government unit, got a head start, reported 82 per cent of its goal.

Earlier, Leon Chatelain, jr., president of the Board of Trade, made public a statement to members, urging them to exert greater efforts in behalf of the Red Feather campaign.

Truman Train Took on Look Of Bandwagon

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

President Truman came back to town yesterday on a bandwagon that had rolled through 1061 miles of countryside lush with ardent Democrats.

It was a happy contrast to the businesslike campaign train which, six days before, had deposited Candidate Truman at Independence, Mo., to await the landslide that would sweep his party out of office. Then the correspondents on the train had speculated at every stop on who would come aboard and who would stay away. The appearance of oldline Democratic politicians on the train or on speaking platforms was the signal for frantic scribbling in notebooks.

Since Mr. Truman, President again by virtue of his own fighting spirit, left Independence Thursday morning there had been no need for speculation. They were all there; everybody was a Democrat on this trip and all the Democrats had to get aboard and be seen.

At every stop they filed into the President's private car, many of

Barkley Wants To Make His Job Important

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Vice President-elect Alben W. Barkley, subject to President Truman's approval, is going to take a fling at smashing the old "Throttle-bottom" legend.

The 70-year-old Senator from Paducah, Ky., who used to like to jest about vice presidential ignominity, took the job pretty seriously yesterday in his first post-election press conference.

He already has been invited to sit in with the Cabinet come January 20. There are a lot of other important jobs he thinks he can do besides "feather-dusting" the Senate rostrum.

Predicts T-H Act Repeal

Not the least of them is bridging that long mile between the White House and the Capitol to get some new "teamwork" between Congress and the President.

Meanwhile he warmed up by predicting the next Congress will:

1. Repeal the Taft-Hartley Act by replacing it with a new law "involving some modifications" in the New Deal's original Wagner Act.

2. Give President Truman "stand-by" price controls and some of the anti-inflation authority Congress refused him.

3. Extend rent controls before the March 1 expiration date set by the GOP Congress.

4. Continue the foreign aid program.

He said he hadn't discussed the civil rights program with the President but assumed the Democratic Party will fulfill platform pledges.

Senate Democratic Whip Scott W. Lucas (Ill.), apparently slated

President Tells Throng U. S. Faces Great Issues

Note of Affection Uppermost as He And Barkley Ride From Union Station

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman came back to Washington with a new four-year lease yesterday, and found he had carried this voteless city, too.

Riding from Union Station to the White House, he was acclaimed by a crowd estimated officially at 750,000. Once again the prognosticators were wrong; they had figured on 500,000.

Mr. Truman, with Vice President-elect Alben W. Barkley at his side, sat up on the back of an open car in Lindbergh fashion, smiling and waving to the great throng along the way.

Note of Affection

It was not a tumultuous, wild-with-joy welcome that the Chief Executive got here in the National Capital. The dominant note was affection—affection and admiration. It was a warm and happy salute to a gallant fighter who had everything against him but the people.

Mr. Truman, in a little talk from the north portico of the White House, said:

"I thank you from the bottom of my heart."

He recalled the welcomes he got in Mexico City, Ottawa and Rio de Janeiro, and those he got in the big cities of this country during the 1948 campaign. None, he said, had been any better than the one here in the Capital City of "the greatest Nation on earth."

He promised to work hard in the Presidency in the next four years. He made no promises of wizardry, however.

Face Big Issues

"I shall look forward to the help and cooperation of all the people," he said, "because we are faced with great issues now, which I think we can bring to a successful conclusion. At least, we will do everything in our power to bring them to a successful conclusion."

Vice President-elect Barkley talked in the same tone, but first he made an observation on the great upset of last Tuesday.

"There is one thing that this

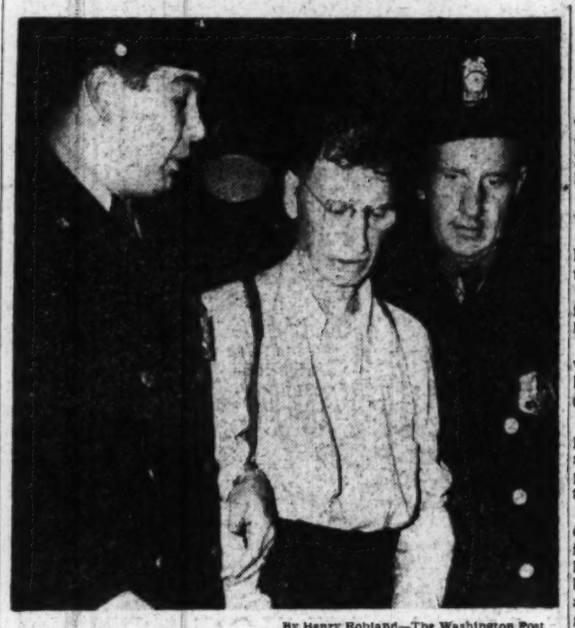
Divorcee Shot Dead; Uncle Held



By Henry Rohland—The Washington Post

Ex-Rancher Caught After Being Disarmed By Victim's Son

A self-described retired rancher was arrested last night in connection with the shotgun slaying of Mrs. Mary Jane Frei, 48, in her home at 4609 Polk st. ne.

Mrs. Frei was blasted to death with the shotgun at about 9 p.m.

Orval Norton Jackson, who gave his age as 41, was arrested less than an hour later.

Police said Jackson was too befuddled with alcohol to tell a coherent story.

Mrs. Frei, police said, was a divorcee. The city directory describes her as an adjudicator with the Civil Service Commission.

Police said they pieced together part of the story from Mrs. Frei's son, Harold J. Frei, 27, of 280 37th pl. se., who was in the house at the time of the shooting.

According to police, the son was downstairs when the fatal shot was fired. He ran upstairs and found his mother's body slumped on the bathroom floor. One charge from a double-barreled 16-gauge shotgun had ripped into the left side of her throat.

The son, police related, said he grappled with Jackson for possession of the shotgun and during the struggle a second charge was sent into the floor.

After the son had gained possession of the weapon, according to the police, Jackson ran from the house in his shirt sleeves. The son called police and said his mother had been shot and probably killed.

Police said that Jackson ran to the home of Francis A. Del Balzo, Capitol policeman, at 4554 Lily Ponds dr. ne., where he asked permission to use the telephone to make a long-distance call to Montana.

But before he could make the call, police said, he pulled a penknife from his pocket and tried to stab himself in the chest. He inflicted only a slight scratch.

The Capitol policeman called Metropolitan Police and said he was holding a man who had tried to stab himself.

Dulles Warns Red Bloc U. S. Is Rearming

Paris, Nov. 5 (AP).—John Foster Dulles told the Russian bloc today that the United States has stopped disarming and "intends to be strong" so long as fears grip the free peoples of the world.

From the tone and manner of his speech it was apparent that a firm American policy in the United Nations Assembly is shaping up quickly after last Tuesday's presidential election.

Dulles, the Republican Party adviser on foreign affairs, thus indicated the election had not changed in any way the general foreign policy supported by both Republicans and Democrats.

Denounces Red Falsehoods

He denounced as "vicious falsehoods" Russian charges that the United States aims for world mastery. Dulles told the U. N. Political Committee:

"Our growing national strength no doubt displeases some; but it does not, I believe, frighten any. I ask each delegate to search his own mind and come to his own conclusion as to who and what his nation fears. I shall be satisfied with a silent verdict, for I know

President Truman Nearing Majority Of Popular Vote

By The Associated Press

With the count still incomplete, the vote for President last night stood:

Truman	23,079,060
Dewey	21,094,756
Wallace	1,094,877
Thurmond	925,226
Total	46,193,919

The total includes votes from 126,576 of the Nation's 135,864 precincts. This will be augmented by the remaining precinct count, plus the vote for minor party candidates which usually requires weeks to tabulate.

May Have Been 'Phantom Killer'

'Murdered 4,' College Student Confesses in Taking Own Life

Fayetteville, Ark., Nov. 5 (AP).—A University of Arkansas freshman ended his life here today and later a note was found in his room in which he admitted committing two "double murders" at Texarkana in 1946. A wave of unsolved slayings in the Texarkana area—there were five in all—were attributed to a "phantom" killer.

Sheriff Bruce Crider of Washington County said the student was H. B. (Dooty) Tennison, 17, a member of a widely known Texarkana, Ark., family.

He said the youth took poison. A poem found on a dresser said that if the puzzle it contained could be solved, it would disclose how to open a strongbox in Tennison's room. Authorities, instead, broke up the strongbox by force. The note was inside.

Sheriff Crider said the note read:

"Why did I take my own life? You may be asking that question? Well, when you committed two double murders you would too. Yes, I did kill Betty Jo Booker and Paul Martin in the city park that night, and kill Mr. Stark (Virgil Stark) and tried to get Mrs. Stark."

Miss Booker, 15, and young Martin, 17, were the third and fourth victims of the so-called "phantom" killer, who kept Tex-

Stocks Fall $1-$14, Wall St. Fear Hampering Legislation

New York, Nov. 5 (AP).—Stock prices dropped drastically today in the broadest market on record.

Brokers said it was a renewal of the postelection plunge fed by Wall Street fears of restrictive legislation affecting business.

Total market value of all shares on the New York Stock Exchange has gone down nearly five billion dollars since the reelection of President Truman.

Today's declines were $1 to more than $8 a share with extreme losses going to $14. Most of the selling was at prices around $2 to $7 below last night's closing quotations.

Hardest hit were steels, motors, rails and oils, although there was hardly a section of the market unaffected. Utilities and airlines were among the few groups withstanding the severe selling waves that at times swamped the floor of the Stock Exchange and forced the quotation ticker tape as much as four minutes behind action transactions.

The volume of trading was 2,530,000 shares, compared with 1,530,000 yesterday and 3,230,000 Wednesday. There were 1174 individual issues traded, the largest number on record. The previous record was 1163 traded July 19.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks declined $2.70 to $75.70. The net decline in the three days since the election is $4.90 on the average.

Suit Filed to Give Alabama to Truman

Montgomery, Ala., Nov. 5 (AP).—Gov. James E. Folsom filed a suit in Federal Court today to force Alabama's 11 Democratic electors to cast their votes for President Truman.

Attorneys for the Governor filed an injunction to restrain the electors from voting for any other candidate than Truman and asked that the court order them to support the President.

Alabama gave its popular vote support to Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, States' Rights candidate. Alabama was the only State in which Truman's name did not appear on the ballot.

Royall Warns of Action With Basis of Prejudice

Greensboro, N. C., Nov. 5 (AP).—Army Secretary Royall today said "Any Southern movement based on prejudice or injustice will not very long succeed."

Such a movement, he added, "can only work a disservice to our Southland and to our entire Nation."

Dixiecrat Elector To Vote for Truman

Sparta, Tenn., Nov. 5 (AP).—A Tennessee Democratic elector who had pledged his support to the States' Rights Democrats today said he will cast his vote for President Truman in the electoral college.

Malcolm Hill of Sparta said his decision was made after he received a telegram from K. D. McKellar, senior Tennessee Senator, who supported Truman.

Barkley Wants Big Jobs to Do to succeed Barkley as Senate Democratic Leader, struck the same new party harmony not in a separate press conference. Lucas predicted Democrats will unite behind "a constructive program, satisfactory to the people."

Details of the program and even Democratic organization of Congress will be discussed with the President at Key West, Fla., next week, it was indicated. Barkley will go to Key West Tuesday, and former Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.) is expected to join them there.

Barkley plans to hold on to the Senate leadership reins right up to his inauguration as Vice President on January 20. Lucas said merely that he will be "available" for the post when the Senate Democratic caucus meets to elect Barkley's successor. The caucus is expected to name Lucas. Another movement is developing to name Senator Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.).

Dewey Pledge Recalled

Barkley's serious talk about some of the "important" things a Vice President "with legislative experience" can do reminded newsmen of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey's pledge, if elected, to make Gov. Earl Warren of California "a full partner" in any GOP administration.

The Kentucky Democrat said he certainly doesn't expect to head up any administrative agency. But in addition to presiding over the Senate, as the Constitution prescribes, he said he will be "available for any other service" the President suggests.

During the campaign Barkley loved to tell the story about the man who had two sons. One of them went to sea. The other became Vice President. It seems nothing more was ever heard from either one of them.

Smilingly, he told newsmen yesterday that he certainly "expects to be remembered."

A reporter asked if Barkley expects that the house Republicans proposed for the Vice President will be built in time for him to occupy it.

"I don't know," replied Barkley, "but I talked to the President about it. I told him: 'If they build a 2½-million-dollar home for the Vice President nobody will want to be President!' "

Spars on Some Points

A woman reporter asked the Kentucky widower who his official hostess will be.

"That's a personal matter," Barkley began, then he grinned: "There've been a lot of applications."

He sparred a bit on some points in the Democratic program, saying he hadn't talked to the President about them.

Would there be a tax bill?

"Not before January 20," he said.

Will the President revive the excess profits tax?

He didn't know the answer to that one.

Would they put through any "reforms" disturbing to business?

"I don't know what they are afraid of," said Barkley. "Nothing in our campaign was unfair to business—honest business anyway."

Would there be any reprisals against Dixiecrats?

"We'll cross that bridge when we get to it. It may not be a bridge when we get to it."

How did he account for Tuesday's vote?

"The people rose up like receiving the benediction and did their own thinking and voting."

Then he said these factors were chiefly responsible for Tuesday's upset: (1) The high cost of living, (2) the failure of the Eightieth Congress to do anything the President asked, (3) the fact that most people are "getting along pretty well, (4) the dissatisfaction of the farmers, and (5) the fear that any change would be misunderstood abroad.

McKellar Out For Repeal

Other returning Senators reflected the new "close ranks" movement among Capitol Democrats.

Senator Kenneth McKellar (D., Tenn.), who voted to override the President's veto of the Taft-Hartley Act, said he would now vote to repeal it "in accordance with the expressed will of the people."

Senator O'Mahoney, who stuck by the President in every split, said there will be no reprisals: "That all will be forgotten. We'll have real unity in Congress, including support from most of the liberal Republicans."

"I think we'll have harmony," agreed Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.). Johnston fought Mr. Truman's nomination but supported him in the campaign and joined yesterday's Union Station rush to shake his hand.

them wearing freshly printed "Truman" labels in their hats. They pumped his hand, reminded him who they were and struggled to be seen with him on the rear platform.

Between stops they crowded the lounge cars, bought $1 highballs without a thought for the future, and filled the dining car to bursting. Then they got off to make room for others and to travel back home for four more years of unselfish public service.

They were all there, except the fellow in faded blue overalls and battered hat who had left his fields long enough to stuff his ballot in the box.

At St. Louis and Cincinnati, where the train made long service stops, they all but wept when howling crowds blocked the way to the President's car. There were plenty of good Democrats when the bandwagon was rolling.

Nor had Democrats alone seen the light. Nearly 40 newspaper reporters and radio commentators were aboard the train during the last week of campaigning from Chicago through New England to New York. When the train left New York for the wake at Kansas City, it was two cars lighter and reporters and commentators had dwindled to 22.

One or two more left Kansas City election day. Those who remained went through the kind of night reporters live for, and crowded the next day into the President's suite to add their presence and their voices to the hysterical bedlam in the small living room. They forgot their pessimistic forecasts in the overwhelming miracle that had occurred and even paid their bets with a lightheartedness uncommon in such matters.

New faces began to appear in the pressroom on the fourth floor of the Muehlebach Hotel and later on the train. Candidate Truman suddenly was top news again.

And likewise, President Truman again was the Great White Father of the Democratic Party, high on the box of the bandwagon with the reins in his hands.

Boning Up for the 'Quizdown'

The Washington Post

WHAT'S THE ANSWER?—Preparing for their appearance today on The Washington Post's first "Quizdown" broadcast over Station WTOP, students of the Lafayette School puzzle over the question written on the blackboard. They are (from left) David Grether, 10, of 3319 Legation st. nw.; Patricia Hubbard, 9, of 6318 32d st. nw., and Nicholas Hopkins, 9, of 3280 Chestnut st. nw. Nicholas seems to have the answer. In the program, 10 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., a team from Lafayette will compete with a team from Horace Mann School.

10 Bands Were Busy, So Were Wisecrackers

Washingtonians showed Harry S. Truman they were happy over his unexpected victory yesterday—and they showed it with music.

From the time his victory special backed into Union Station and the 42-piece Metropolitan Police Band under Capt. Charles Benter struck up "I'm Just Wild About Harry," to the more official greeting at the White House of "Hail to the Chief," by the Police Band and the Air Forces Band, the President was regaled with brass and drums.

Turning out were the Navy Band, Quantico Marine Band, Marine Band Orchestra, Army Band and outfits from the Metropolitan Police Boys Club (Delaware and Constitution aves.), St. John's College High School (4th and Constitution), National Guard (10th and Pennsylvania), Washington Lodge No. 15 Elks Boys Band (7th and Pennsylvania) and Howard University (14th and Pennsylvania).

As usual, it was first come—first served. Those that came downtown between 9 and 10 a. m. and "reserved" themselves places on the curbing along the line of march were not to be pushed aside by newcomers. "Too bad, Mac," said one such early one to a pusher in the rear ranks at Lafayette Park, "maybe you should have got on the bandwagon earlier."

But the late ones were not without resource. Some brought folding chairs to sit—or rather, stand—on, while a few smarties even had folding stepladders; which became jammed with quickly found acquaintances.

Perhaps the most ingenious were the girls and women who, particularly in the level terrain of Lafayette Park, devised "periscopes" from mirrors in their compacts. Turning their backs to the parade, they held the mirrors over their heads.

"How does it work?" one miss was asked by a mirrorless male. "Not very well," was the reply, "but it's more interesting than looking at the back of somebody's neck." Another frequent remarks from craning bystanders was, "Well, we can say we were here, anyway."

Election wisecracks were all over the place in the good-humored crowds. As newsreel camermen took movies of the throng which practically filled Lafayette Park, just after the President passed, a shout went up, "Swing the camera over this way, I'm a Republican." The spectators roared, and roared louder when another wag quipped, "There's the only honest man in the crowd!"

Wisecrackers who noted two or three empty autos in the parade immediately dubbed them "Dixiecrat cars," but the more generally accepted explanation was that they were some of the vehicles provided for the press. A number of reporters grabbed cabs to speed to their offices and file the first stories on the arrival at Union Station.

* * *

Americans for Democratic Action were out along the route with placards reading "Truman Galluped to Victory," "Trust the People, Not the Polls," and the like. One such sign was grabbed out of a surprised ADA man's hands and broken up by an irate man who said he couldn't see, and besides, he declared, "I was for Truman on Guam back in April, 1945, long before some of these late converts."

He showed a policeman what he had done with the sign, and asked if he'd like to arrest him for it. The cop said he was too busy protecting public property.

* * *

For the ladies' information, Mrs. Truman was wearing a brown fur coat, blue hat and dress, while daughter Margaret was attired in gray coat, fur scarf and what looked to a male reporter like a peach-colored hat. The two sat on jump seats during the presidential victory ride in the open car.

* * *

Truman and "I Told You So" buttons were on sale, but comparatively few people used the plastic evidences of the election upset, perhaps in keeping with President Truman's own humility at the outcome. One vendor admitted he had a handful of Dewey buttons in his pocket—left over from the 1944 campaign, he insisted—"just in case a Republican tries to get tough with me."

29 Collapse Along Route Of Parade

They came from sick beds, they came without breakfast, but they came, these thousands who welcomed President Truman back to Washington yesterday.

Along the parade route, 29 persons collapsed. The Red Cross treated 24 persons at two first-aid stations. Five others were taken to Emergency Hospital.

The Red Cross said 11 of the 24 persons it treated suffered from fainting spells. Some were in weakened condition because they had left sick beds, others because they had hurried downtown without breakfast. Three persons were treated for cardiac conditions.

One little boy watching the parade somehow got a piece of metal in his ear. A man was kicked in the head when he bent over.

Treated at Emergency Hospital were Yvonne Antonelli, 14, of 1935 Lincoln rd. se.; Jerry Spears, 6, of Greenville, Tenn.; Dorothy Broadus, 21, of South Arlington, Va.; Mary L. Adams, 23, of 1315 New Hampshire ave. nw., and Kitty Oaks, 54, of 1634 D st. ne.

The Metropolitan Police Department had 1000 men detailed to the welcome parade. This force was augmented by 450 men borrowed from the Fire Department.

Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett issued an order complimenting his men on their work and sent a letter to the Fire Department expressing thanks for the assistance.

7473 War Dead Sail Today

Paris, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—The bodies of 7473 American soldiers who fell in western Europe will start home Saturday aboard the Carroll Victory. To date, 55,426 United States war dead have been returned from Europe.

Crowd Was Surpassed Only By That for Ike and Nimitz

The crowd of 750,000 persons that greeted President Harry S. Truman yesterday, according to police estimates, almost—but not quite—set a record in Washington welcomes.

Washingtonians turned out one million strong to welcome home two heroes of World War II—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, on June 18, 1945, and Fleet Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, on October 5 of the same year.

About 200,000 persons greeted Franklin Roosevelt on November 6, 1936, after his reelection, when the Capital's population was 600,000 compared to recent figures of 898,000.

Crowds of 200,000 hailed Roosevelt on November 7, 1940 after his reelection for a third term, and about 333,000 persons turned out in the rain on November 10, 1944 to salute him after his fourth reelection to the Presidency.

Roosevelt's funeral procession on April 14, 1945, was witnessed by a solemn crowd of half a million persons.

Other rousing welcomes were accorded King George VI and Queen Elizabeth on June 8, 1939, when 500,000 persons cheered the English monarch and his wife, and Mexican President Miguel Aleman, who was hailed by more than 600,000 persons.

THE CHEVIOT SUIT

The rich colourings of these long-wearing cheviots have unusual appeal. The University model carries natural shoulders, a straight-cut back, and plain trousers. One of these suits is now displayed in our west window. We favour cheviots for that all-purpose suit.

Crowd of 750,000 Welcomes President election has demonstrated aside from partisan or personal victory," the Kentuckian said, "and that is that the American people do their own thinking and their own voting on the day of the election."

The Presidential Special hove into view at Union State at 10:55. It came in backward, and Mr. Truman could be seen standing on the rear platform of his private car, the Ferdinand Magellan. It was from this platform, at a thousand whistle stops, that he had fired his volleys and "mowed 'em down."

The Chief Executive was wearing a blue topcoat over a gray suit. He was waving a gray hat and smiling for all he was worth.

A whoop that sounded like "Yee-ow!" went up from the crowd. Mr. Truman held up clasped hands in the familiar greeting of the prize ring.

The band of the Metropolitan Police Department, led by Charles Benter, broke into "I'm Just Wild About Harry" and a grin rippled all through the train shed.

A woman with red hair, one of about 300 persons who boarded the train to shake hands with the President, tried to translate the song into action. She tried to kiss her hero, but he ducked her—twice.

The next strangest sight came when United States Senator Olin D. Johnston of South Carolina boarded the train with his 11-year-old daughter, Sally Lee. He said he voted for Mr. Truman on election day, but last winter he was way off the reservation. It was he who bought a table for the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner at the Mayflower, and then kept it vacant throughout the meal—this being his way of showing his displeasure over Mr. Truman's civil rights program. Later Johnston said he has not change his mind on civil rights.

From the standpoint of laughter, the highlight of the day for Mr. Truman came as he passed Post Square on the way to the White House.

As he rode under a V-for-victory arch formed by slanting fire ladders, he spotted a large colored sign on the facade of The Washington Post Building.

"Welcome Home from the Crow Eaters," it read, and under the words was a picture of an oversize crow on a platter.

Mr. Truman nudged the Vice President-elect and one could imagine him saying, "Hey, Alben, look!"

The two men looked over at the sign, laughed heartily, and waved to the crow-eaters.

The sun, which had come out from behind the clouds as the presidential train arrived, was bright as the motorcade moved along the mile and a half route. It glinted on the horns of the bands as they played "Missouri Waltz," on the flags that lined the way, on the toy balloons and on the myriad signs held aloft for Mr. Truman to see.

One placard, noted in the crowd near the White House, read "Truman—Old Hickory of 1948." Consciously or otherwise, the girl who carried it had compared Mr. Truman with his boyhood hero, President Andrew Jackson.

Truman campaign buttons, which had been a glut on the market here up to Wednesday, were all over the place yesterday.

Blue "I Told You So" buttons also were popular, and there was a sneaking suspicion that not all who wore them had the same keen vision on Tuesday.

A similar suspicion existed in the case of some who clambered aboard the train to greet Mr. Truman on his arrival.

The man who was standing alongside the President as the train rolled in, however, was a member of the board of directors of the "I Told You So" Club. He was Matthew J. Connelly, a White House secretary, who not only said the boss was going to win but listed most of the States he would carry.

Another who kept the faith was United States Senator J. Howard McGrath of Rhode Island, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. When he boarded the Ferdinand Magellan yesterday, Mr. Truman gave him a handshake and a smile that must have made up a lot for what he had gone through, beginning with the "dump-Truman" movement.

Still another was Secretary of the Navy John L. Sullivan, who was convinced that the polltakers had gone to the wrong houses.

The first man to board the Ferdinand Magellan after it had come to a stop was Police Superintendent Robert J. Barrett. He later headed the motorcade to the White House and gave out the crowd estimate of 750,000.

The second man to greet Mr. Truman was Maj. Gen. Harry H. Vaughan, the White House Army aide, who is reputed to have cleaned up on the election.

Then came two men, one of whom probably will take Barkley's place as leader of the Senate—Senators Joseph C. O'Mahoney of Wyoming and Scott Lucas of Illinois. They were followed by the aging Senator Kenneth McKellar, who defied Boss Ed Crump of Tennessee and stuck by the President.

Senator Herbert O'Conor of Maryland was next in line. The President, in greeting him, recalled something that happened back at the 1944 convention, when O'Conor withdrew from the battle for the vice presidential nomination. This action, and O'Conor's announcement that the Maryland delegation was for Mr. Truman, started a bandwagon rush.

Mrs. Dorothy Vredenburgh of the Democratic National Committee, was next, and then came faithful Leslie Biffle, who in January will be reinstalled as secretary of the Senate.

District Commissioner J. Russell Young boarded the train along with Commissioner Guy Mason and Lieut. Col. Kenneth E. Madsen, Assistent Engineer Commissioner.

Others in the welcoming group, aside from Cabinet officers and White House aides, were the dean of the Diplomatic Corps, Wilhelm Munthe de Morgenstierne, Ambassador from Norway; the Ambassador from France and Mme. Bonnet, Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Baseball Club and Arch MacDonald, who broadcasts the games and plays Maryland politics on the side; Undersecretary of State Robert A. Lovett, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Edward H. Foley, Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, chief of naval operations; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and other representatives of organized labor.

In the touring car that carried President Truman and Vice President-elect Barkley from the station to the White House were the First Lady and Miss Margaret Truman, Mrs. Max O'Rell Truitt, daughter of Barkley, and Senator McGrath.

The next car bore Commissioners Young and Mason, and also Charles Stofberg, special assistant to Young, and A. L. Wheeler, chairman of the Democratic Central Committee of the District of Columbia.

A partial list of others in the cars that followed were:

Melvin D. Hildreth, Democratic national committeeman from the District; Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, Democratic national committeewoman; Mrs. Ernest K. Lindley, alternate national committeewoman; Tilford E. Dudley, alternate national committeeman.

Arthur Clarendon Smith, former Judge W. L. Houston, C. F. Preller, Gerhard Van Arkel, Harlan Wood, James William Bryan, Mrs. Hugh Thomas, Mrs. Estelle Pearce, J. C. Turner, Joseph Rauh, Samuel Bagnam, James J. McConnell, Schell Hoye, Thomas P. Morgan, jr., Benjamin C. Sigal, Edward Williams, Harold V. Boisvert, Frank Cahill, Dr. Thomas Evans, Frank J. O'Connor, all members of the local Democratic Central Committee.

George Meany, secretary-treasurer, AFL; Harry Bates, president, Bricklayers Union, AFL; Cyrus Anderson, Railway Labor's Political League; Allen Haywood, director of organization, Congress of Industrial Organizations; John Brophy, assistant director of organization, CIO; David J. McDonald, secretary, United Steel Workers of America, CIO.

Col. Louis Johnson, former Assistant Secretary of War; Welburn Mayock, general counsel, Democratic National Committee; William Boyle, Democratic National Committee; Mrs. India Edwards, chairman, Women's Division, D. N. C.

Secretary of the Treasury John W. Snyder, who came in on the train with the President; Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, Attorney General Tom C. Clark, Postmaster General Jesse M. Donaldson, Secretary of Interior Julius A. Krug, Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan, Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer, Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin, Assistant Secretary of State John E. Peurifoy, Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed.

Federal Works Administrator Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming; Frank P. Douglass, chairman, Natioanl Mediation Board; Raymond M. Foley, administrator, Housing and Home Finance Agency; Cyrus S. Ching, director, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service; Paul M. Herzog, member, National Labor Relations Board.

Representatives Aime J. Forand (R.I.) and Lansdale G. Sasscer (Md.); Arthur E. Cook, assistant architect, Capitol; District Court Judge Edward M. Curran; Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, commanding officer, District National Guard.

Dixie for Him, Tydings Says

Baltimore, Nov. 5 (AP).—Maryland's Senator Millard E. Tydings today told how he turned down "a good chance" to get the Democratic Party's presidential nomination last summer.

Tydings said Senator Richard B. Russell of Georgia called him the day before the Philadelphia convention and guaranteed him 200 Southern convention votes if he would be a candidate against President Truman.

"I told him I was for the President, and the Maryland delegation was instructed for President Truman," Senator Tydings said today.

"I really had no home at the convention," Tydings went on. "I didn't see eye-to-eye with the Southerners and I didn't agree with what others were trying to do to them. I was in the middle."

Near Insolvency Confronts Oregon; Bonds Go Begging

Salem, Oreg., Nov. 5 (AP).—Oregon offered two million dollars worth of bonds for sale today, and nobody would buy them.

For the first time in years, not a single investment house bid on the bonds. Oregon—for the moment—is ranked as a potential deadbeat.

It's all because the voters apparently didn't understand what they were doing. They approved a $50 monthly old-age pension which would cost three times what is now spent on all State functions put together.

But they didn't approve any way to finance the pension. And they refused to authorize spending a 40-million-dollar income tax surplus—presumably in the mistaken belief the measure meant more taxes.

Bewildered State officials plan to put the old-age pension to a court test. But in the meantime:

Truman Accepts Casual Invitation To N. C. Church

New Bern, N. C., Nov. 5 (AP).—A young preacher's casual invitation to "come down and worship with us some time" will be accepted Sunday by President Truman.

The Rev. Thomas Waitt Fryer, 40-year-old pastor of First Baptist Church here where the Truman family will attend services, said he extended the invitation when he visited the President two months ago.

Negro Due to Head Major House Group

By The Associated Press

An outright race issue confronts the new Democratic majority of the House—a Negro is in line to head a major committee of Congress.

Dawson

He is Representative William L. Dawson of Illinois, Georgia - born Chicago attorney who was re-elected Tuesday to his fourth term.

Dawson actually is only the second ranking Democrat on the Executive Expenditures Committee. But the No. 1 man—Representative John W. McCormick of Massachusetts—is slated to return to his job of majority floor leader. And the majority leader customarily does not have any committee assignments; he never has carried the burden of a major chairmanship.

Democratic committee assignments in the House are arranged by the party's members of the Ways and Means Committee. This group's recommendations are submitted to caucus of all House Democrats, then to the entire House.

The Ways and Means members' recommendations usually are approved by the caucus, since they are worked out with the party's leaders and committee chairmen. Acceptance by the House is just a formality.

Almost without exception, chairmanships are decided on committee seniority; that is, on how long a man has been on the committee, rather than how long he has been in Congress.

If tradition is followed in his case, Dawson will be the first modern-day Negro Congressman to head an important regular committee. The only other present Negro House member is Representative Adam C. Powell, jr., of New York who won reelection to his third term on the Democratic and American Labor Party tickets. He ranks fifth on the Labor Committee.

Last Headed by Hoffman

The Expenditures Committee has broad authority to look into all the executive departments of the Government. Its jurisdiction covers any activity involving the spending of Federal money.

Under the chairmanship of Republican Clare E. Hoffman of Michigan, this committee during the past two years has probed the State, Commerce, Justice, and Agriculture departments, as well as the Federal Communications Commission and housing agencies.

Among the nine hold-over Democrats on the Ways and Means Committee, with six to be added in line with the party's new majority status, four represent Southern States where President Truman's anti-discrimination civil rights program provoked a storm of protest.

Four Backed Civil Rights

They are Representatives Robert L. Doughton (N. C.), Jere Cooper (Tenn.), Wilbur D. Mills (Ark.), and A. Sidney Camp (Ga.), all from States Mr. Truman carried easily despite the States' Rights uprising. A fifth member is Representative Noble J. Gregory of border-State Kentucky, which also landed safely in the Truman column.

The other four Democratic members of the committee actively supported Mr. Truman's Civil Rights program. They are Representatives John D. Dingell (Mich.), Walter A. Lynch (N. Y.), Aime J. Forand (R. I.), and Herman P. Eberharter (Pa.).

PLANE EARLY—Linda Darnell not only is prepping early for Christmas, but she's also doing her gathering by plane. Which ought to give you an idea of the Larger Life as practiced in Hollywood. Linda will be seen next with Rex Harrison in "Unfaithfully Yours"

Victors Hold 263 House Seats To 171 for GOP, One for Labor

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

A check by Democratic and Republican campaign committees yesterday showed that 263 Democrats, 171 Republicans and 1 American-Laborite will comprise the new House when Congress meets January 2.

These figures are subject to possible change pending the outcome of election contests over three or four seats. It is possible, also, that in California, where several races were very close, absentee ballots might change one or two results. According to California election laws, absentee ballots may not be counted until 10 days after the election.

Democratic politicians noted, in compiling returns, that in those cases where candidates ran as Democrats but received the indorsement of Henry A. Wallace they also went down to defeat at the hands of Republican opponents.

In their victorious sweep back into control of the House, the Democrats picked up 77 seats held by Republicans in the Eightieth Congress and 1 that had belonged to an American-Laborite.

They lost only two seats, both in California, to Republicans.

In the new House, the Democrats thus will have an easy working majority of 91 votes over the Republicans and the one American - Laborite, Representatives Vito Marcantonio (R., N. Y.).

This is the largest actual majority either party has held in at least 10 years.

Film Censorship Neatly Unmasked

By Richard L. Coe

BEFORE I FORGET: The Columbia network's Wednesday night broadcast on "The Hollywood Picture" was impressive in the thoroughness of its coverage on the complexities of movie-making, but disappointing in its gee-whiz tone . . . If you missed this one, it concerned the labors which went into the creation of "The Best Years of Our Lives," including Sam Goldwyn's initial thought, MacKinley Kantor's story, Robert E. Sherwood's screen play, the financing, the exhibiting problems and the Breen Office (censorship) . . . This meant Writer Pete Lyon had to squeeze in references to everything from the commercial beginnings of the movies to the latest Supreme Court ruling against studio ownership of the theaters . . . It was just too much for an hour, but you couldn't help admiring the section describing script changes ordered by Code Authority Joseph I. Breen, who disapproved of the character motivations which led Teresa Wright into the arms of Dana Andrews and who wanted the word "belch" changed to "hiccup." . . . It was interesting, too, to learn that all correspondence from the Breen Office ends with the sentence: "You are, of course, free to accept or disregard these suggestions." . . . Which is the old baloney, for if you disregard them, you don't get the seal of approval, which means no first rank theater will show your picture . . . So, while Lyon's script oozed with honey about the folksy genius of Sam Goldwyn, it did make a vital point about the shenanigans of imposing the moral standards of one part of the audience on another part of the audience.

GENE FORD, the wisecracking managing director of the Capitol, is recuperating slowing after a serious heart attack . . . The other day he sat up for 15 minutes and already he's looking forward to getting back to F st. . . . May it be soon, Gene, and while you're being coddled by Kay, why don't you compile a joke book? . . . Another Capitol man is on his way back from a Florida fishing junket, Carter Barron, whose ruddy cheeks no doubt are still flushed with the results of the Sensational Second . . . He's stopping off in home port Atlanta over the weekend, but I'll bet he's sorry he wasn't here to shake the hand of his friend, Senator Barkley.

"CURIOUS" wants to know why, after my tepid reception of "The Red Shoes," I'm quoted as saying the picture is "surprisingly lovely—imaginative and beautiful." Strictly speaking the ad quotes are okay, for those are the words I used to describe the dancing in the film . . . But for the record I must say I disagree with the New York daily reviewers on the film as a whole and side with the Time and New Yorker critics, who found the story and its handling poor . . . And I still think the offstage Technicolor makes most of the actors look like carrots and tomatoes.

BOSTON last night saw the opening of a repertory company at the old Copley Theater . . . The play, staged by Gerald Savory, who was out at Olney last summer, is Sherwood's "The Road to Rome," and the cast includes Polly Rowles, another Olney visitor, Frances Bavier, Robert Harris and Hugh Franklin, a C. U. thesp . . . It'll be interesting to see what happens to this Boston venture; it's got popular prices, good Hub support and an advance sale of $4500, which is fine for a two-week run . . . Next on the Copley boards will be "Heartbreak House," with Mady Christians and Philip Bourneuf in the leads . . . If Washington only had a spot for a similar try (the Copley seats 1200), this new effort 500 miles away might mean more.

MARY STABLER, who's whacking a giddy career out of selling out-of-town theater seats to Washingtonians in her booth at Lubar's, 1300 G st., reports a good time was had by all on her special excursion to Maurice Evans in "Man and Superman," at Ford's, Baltimore . . . Her special busload left at 7 (officially, that is; it waited for some 20-minute latecomers, but never again!) and rolled back down 16th st. at 5 past midnight . . . For this package deal and others in the future, Mrs. Stabler charged $6.22 (orchestra seats-transportation).

MARION VENABLE, of whose trip to Hawaii to pick up new dance routines I relayed you from her cards, did considerably more. . . . She up and got married. . . . In Honolulu she met Harold Conner Lundburg, the soft drink king of the islands, Love Dawned and, clang-clang, so did wedding chimes.

CORRECTION: In yesterday's review of "Sealed Verdict," after three critical paragraphs, this writer was made to say in the fourth: "Paramount's people evidently really believed in their theme after all." . . . What I wrote was: "Paramount's people evidently really DIDN'T believe in their theme, after all." . . . It's quite a difference, even if the proofroom didn't think so.

UPCOMING: "Henry V" returns this afternoon to the Hippodrome, four showings a day . . . A suite from the new musical, "Magdalena," by Brazil's Villa-Lobos, is programmed by the National Symphony in its Markova-Dolin ballet evening next Tuesday; that's one way of catching what the theater's doing ELSEWHERE . . . The Howard Players of Howard University have chosen their plays for the season: Ibsen's "The Wild Duck," to play the 16th through the 20th at Spaulding Hall on the campus; and, later, Saroyan's "The Beautiful People" and O'Neill's "The Great God Brown" . . . Maryland U. opens its drama doors Monday night for a week's run of "Our Town."

DOWNGOING: Sunday night brings the finale of E. M. Loew's Open Air drive-in down on the Richmond hwy., with the New England race track, night club, theater boss down for the windup . . . The night's bill will be "Tough Guys in Society" and "Jack London," and only engagements elsewhere keep the Marine Band from making the closing official . . . Of the two other drive-ins, Sidney Lust's at Beltsville will wind up a week from tonight, but the Airport denies there is such a thing as snow, sleet and fog.

BEGINNING TOMORROW IN

The Washington Post

The story no American can afford to miss!

GENERAL EISENHOWER writes his own story!

"CRUSADE IN EUROPE"

This is a personal story of the war . . . by the man who above all won the respect and admiration of the world.

Because of the man who wrote it and because of the stirring events Eisenhower tells about, "Crusade in Europe" is certain to be one newspaper series no American can afford to miss.

In it Eisenhower describes what it is like to shoulder responsibilities as great as those ever thrust on any man. He takes you into his office, onto the battlefields, into conferences with the world's top statesmen.

You'll see the side of General Eisenhower that, until now, the world has not known. You'll learn of his thoughts during the crucial moments of the war years . . . you'll get his opinion on personalities you've known only through the headlines . . . you'll be told about opposition Eisenhower faced, not only from the enemy, but from powerful people in sincere but obstinate opposition to his plans.

From your reading a new view will emerge of Eisenhower and the times you live in. For gripping reading, for your own enlightenment—you owe it to yourself not to miss a single installment of one of the top stories of our time, "Crusade in Europe."

Home-Coming

Washington became Mr. Truman's home town when the office of President which he has enjoyed hitherto by inheritance became his by virtue of election. And the Capital rose to the occasion by giving him a greeting as if he were its most distinguished son. Washington was the destination of a triumphal train from Independence which the local Democratic worthies made into a bandwagon at every whistle stop. Here, however, there were no expectant officials, as the Chinese would call them, along the route from Union Station to the White House. They were all neighbors, and the President got a resounding demonstration of neighborliness. Mr. Truman knows the city as few Presidents have known it, and has become a familiar figure in the streets—though only to those who get up early enough—and at local functions.

The Capital of late years has become a little blase about the comings and goings of the world's renowned, but it acted yesterday as if the President's return to town was something extra special. And wasn't it? A man who in six months or so made a party out of the cinder of the Democratic conflagration, and then rode it to victory, is a person to hail. Welcome home, Mr. President!

Next Vice President

Senator Barkley is a veteran campaigner whose slashing methods of attack resemble those that President Truman employed with such signal and unexpected success. If those preelection addresses reflected his true character, there would be considerable reason to distrust his ability to do the duties of the Senate's presiding officer with the dispassionate firmness that the position requires. For the Senator played upon sectional prejudices and appealed to the cupidity of his audiences in his energetic search for votes. For instance, he told the Southerners that only a Democratic Administration would do anything for the South, and studiously ignoring the civil rights issue, reserving that question for receptive Northern audiences. Westerners heard about Republican plots to deprive them of the benefits of Federal support of reclamation and power projects, and in agricultural districts the Republicans were denounced as enemies of price support. Everywhere the Senator took credit in the name of the Democrats for high incomes and wages at the same time that he denounced his political foes for failure to combat the inflation that produced those record incomes.

To Senator Barkley, the seasoned old-style campaigner, these distortions and half truths no doubt appeared to be legitimate weapons of assault. But as leader of his party in the Senate, he has shown himself to be a different kind of man, able to combine service to his party with a due regard for the interests of the country. Unquestionably he will prove to be a good presiding officer and his genial personality, political contacts, and seasoned wisdom will prove extremely valuable to President Truman. The only reason to regret his elevation to the Vice Presidency is that the Senate will be deprived of his service as majority leader—an exacting job, the duties of which he discharged most efficiently during a critical and trying period. That he came through that period with flying colors and distinguished himself in the subsequent turbulent period of democratic minority representation in the Senate and that his party rewarded his services by giving him an unsolicited nomination for the second highest office—these facts testify to his sterling personal qualities and general competence.

Keep Trying

The U. N. General Assembly has overwhelmingly seconded the decision on atomic energy negotiations achieved two weeks ago by its Political Committee. With the six nations of the Soviet group in opposition and another 12 delegations absent or abstaining, a majority of 40 lined up behind the amended Canadian resolution. Under its terms the United Nations now stands committed in favor of the control proposals originally advanced by Mr. Baruch, and the position of the United States throughout the negotiations is vindicated.

Thanks to some of the smaller nations, however, the way is still open to seek a way out of the deadlock. For this fortunate circumstance the United States can take little if any credit. Whether a compromise can actually be worked out seems very dubious, of course. Mr. Vishinsky's negative indicates that the Kremlin is not yet thinking of receding in the least, and a chance of change of heart in Moscow on this matter, is, as we have said before, probably not great. But no stone should be left unturned, no effort slighted, no possibility overlooked that might lead away from the catastrophe of an atomic war—even one in which the United States held all the atom bombs.

Pressure In Palestine

Whether the White House and the State Department are in accord on the latest action on Palestine seems in dispute. The action is a 9-1 vote creating a group to study sanctions against either party which does not retire to positions held on October 14 and which does not subscribe to the truce authority of the acting mediator, Mr. Bunche.

The move is aimed at the Israelis. They have gone beyond truce lines in the Negev, the immediate purpose having been to afford protection to 24 Jewish settlements in northern and central Negev. In the circumstances Israel's purpose in so doing is, it seems to us, understandable. The Security Council refuses to empower the United Nations with enough force to prevent, either by its presence or by its strength, a breaking of the peace. Surrounded as they were by the Egyptian forces, how could the Israelis, in the present Jew-Arab atmosphere, feel that their settlements would be safe? In addition, a deeper reason exists for the Israelis' misgivings. And that is that they are afraid that the truce lines, which roughly correspond to the boundaries set in the Bernadotte Plan, are intended to be permanent. This is the impression left in their minds by Secretary Marshall's unfortunate statement (subsequently repudiated in effect by President Truman) accepting the Bernadotte Plan "in its entirety" and Britain's insistence that the Bernadotte Plan is the limit of its "concessions."

This newspaper's allegiance to the United Nations stands over and above any other consideration in respect of Palestine. But in this case, as we have pointed out before, the United Nations is at odds with the United Nations. To be sure, the Security Council is authorized to keep order, but it has nothing to do with the settlement of Palestine. This is within the jurisdiction of the General Assembly. What the world is witnessing, bluntly, is an Anglo-American effort, under pretext of the implementation of the truce, to bypass the General Assembly. From the Assembly's point of view, its resolution of November 29 still stands; here is the starting point in the quest for a solution. However, the British and the Americans have tried to prevent the Assembly from taking up again the matter of its Palestine resolution, though the United States at least has held that it has virtually the force of law. The Assembly naturally resents being sidetracked. Not one of the members, so far as we can determine, feels that in all the circumstances its resolution is the last word. In view of the interim conflict, this would be foolish in its entirety. But the members do feel aggrieved over the covert Anglo-American effort to supersede it.

A solution in the final analysis depends upon Arab-Jew understanding, as the Security Council on October 19 suggested. But to start the sanctions machinery at this time is not the way to promote negotiations, but, on the contrary, is the way to stifle them. It is said that the Egyptians, feeling that the election of Mr. Truman was a victory for the November 29 resolution, have made feelers to Tel Aviv. The Egyptians in Paris deny the reports. Why should they not deny them in the light of the possibility implied in the Security Council resolution of a Bernadotte Plan solution for Palestine? At present the Egyptians are located within the territory set aside for Israel by the Assembly resolution; they will not retire so long as there is any chance left of retention.

It is a fair deduction that such considerations must have been in the minds of both the Canadian and the French delegations in Paris. Both pleaded for a short delay. They wanted time to study the resolution. The reports on the latest move are cloudy and contradictory, nevertheless the inference is that the resolution was a hasty job, and the wonder will be created as to what was the reason for the precipitancy. The Canadian delegate happens to be Lester B. Pearson, Canada's new Foreign Minister, and a man who has a justifiably high reputation for common sense and for regard for the United Nations. It is his part in the discussion that persuades us to ask why the rush took place before President Truman had time to catch his breath?

Successor To Thomas

It will be ironical indeed if the frenetic J. Parnell Thomas has been tumbled from the chairmanship of the House Un-American Activities Committee only to have the committee revert to the old Wood-Rankin type of leadership. Yet that is precisely what may happen if committee chairmanships in the new Congress are parceled out on the antiquated seniority system. Representative Wood of Georgia and Rankin of Mississippi are the ranking Democrats on the committee. It is hard to see much distinction between the noise the committee made under the leadership of these gentlmen prior to 1947 and its exploits under the Thomas regime, except that Mr. Thomas managed somehow to get more headlines.

We earnestly hope that the Democratic leadership of the new House will find a way to put an effective quietus on the kind of tactics the committee has employed. One way is open in the selection of new committee members. Three seats are vacant—that of Representative Mundt, who was elected to the Senate, and those of Representatives McDowell and Vail, who were defeated for reelection. Proper care in the choice of new members could assure at least some balance on the committee, whatever the complexion of its directors.

An overhauled Un-American Activities Committee also has an opportunity to rectify some of the injustices perpetrated by the Thomas mentality. Representative Hebert, himself a committee member, has felt compelled to protest publicly the Thomas tactics in the case of Dr. Edward U. Condon. A new committee can partially redeem itself by affording Dr. Condon the long-promised public hearing to enable him to answer the smears which the committee has thrown at him. It can, in similar vein, refrain from leaking biased information, slandering reputations and prejudging cases before they are heard.

Congressional politics being what it is, a revision in the seniority system may be too much to expect at this time. But if Messrs. Wood and Rankin are to be reinvested with power, then the House Democratic leadership must take pains to exact from them a pledge of restraint and accountability consistent with the mandate given the Democrats for a Government concerned with civil rights and human dignity.

Maryland Returns

In every presidential election since the 1880s Maryland was to be found on the winning side. It was not so this year; although the final margin of votes for Governor Dewey over those for President Truman is relatively slight. Thus the deciding factors were the 9000-odd votes for Mr. Wallace, cast mostly in Baltimore City, and the 2400-odd persons who went to the trouble of writing in the names of Messrs. Thurmond and Wright. All this, however, had little or no effect on the returns from the congressional districts, and the delegation to the House of Representatives remains four Democrats to two Republicans. Thus, despite its aberration, Maryland remains a predominantly Democratic State.

Mr. Truman's plurality in Baltimore City was large enough to counteract Governor Dewey's plurality in the counties. The defections to Mr. Wallace or to Mr. Thurmond account for this only in part. Evidently the labor interests, which are now claiming so much credit for the national result, gave much less effort to promoting Mr. Truman's candidacy than to promoting the causes of the congressional candidates deemed favorable to them. In the counties, however, Mr. Truman evinced much greater strength than had been expected. He carried among others Alleghany and Calvert Counties, which was more than Mr. Roosevelt had been able to do in 1944.

In many places interest in the presidential election was secondary to interest in various local questions, as, for example, in the case of the Montgomery County charter. In Baltimore the ballot contained 14 referenda questions, besides eight constitutional amendments voted upon throughout the State. Most of them had to do with loans for various public improvements and most of them carried; but whether all the voters understood the additional tax burdens they were imposing on themselves is not clear. However, the proposal, much favored by hotel, restaurant and taxicab interests, to construct a great new sports stadium, was defeated, though this refusal seems to have been for other reasons than mere parsimony.

One of the constitutional referenda was a proposed amendment to prohibit members of political organizations deemed subversive from holding State jobs. In the opinion of many lawyers, the amendment had been very badly prepared, and there were warnings that it might one day be used for other purposes than those for which it was designed. Nevertheless, the great bulk of the voters approved it, and now it becomes part of the organic law of the State.

An amendment to end the tenure in office of the Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, Mr. Elgin, so that Governor Lane might appoint somebody more to his liking, was voted down by thumping majorities. This appears to have been less out of affection for Mr. Elgin than out of resentment against Mr. Lane, as inspirer of the unpopular sales tax. Governor Lane's "poor boxes," meaning the little jars or containers into which merchants deposit the pennies levied on every purchase involving an expenditure of 15 cents or more, have become a far more familiar symbol of life in the Maryland Free State than beaten biscuit, or diamondback terrapin, or Chesapeake oysters, or good rye whisky. Thus the moral seems to be that while Marylanders have no particular objection to being taxed, they prefer that it should be by less ostentatious and tangible methods.

Everybody's Job

How much of the lag in the Community Chest campaign may be attributed to a sort of tacit undercutting is hard to determine. The extension of the drive has become too normal in recent years to permit of pessimism over the tardiness of contributors. However, the approximately 60 per cent of the goal reported to date is hardly a conspicuous success. Federation Director Edward J. Keyes was indubitably right when he put the drive up to businessmen. Chest solicitation at places of business is by no means a monumental burden, but it is infinitely to be preferred to the more difficult and less thorough method of contacting employes in their homes. Cooperation in this respect is a small thing to ask of business executives, especially since the success or failure of the Chest depends particularly on the efforts of the business community.

It may be unfair to suppose that the dissident groups which have attempted to exclude certain agencies from the Chest have been sitting on their hands during the drive. One of those groups, the Federation of Citizens Associations, holds elections tonight. In any event it would be the part of good citizenship if the administration of the federation chosen tonight were to affirm in unmistakable terms its support of the campaign, regardless of past differences. Magnanimity is necessary in this respect in order to get a united effort in putting the Chest across. Even beyond the realm of conscience, every Washingtonian has a direct personal interest in the continuation of community welfare services on an ample scale.

Latin Intervention

Mr. Raoul J. Diaz, in his letter of November 2, answered an article of Sumner Welles and deplored the conditions in Nicaragua, Honduras, and the Dominican Republic. He then took issue by condoning the virtued intervention by Costa Rica, Guatemala, and Venezuela, and chastized Mr. Welles for condemning such action. Unfortunately Mr. Diaz is neither logical nor consistent.

Mr. Diaz condemns Smoza's intervention in Costa Rica, yet would condone the same action by Costa Rica, Guatemala, and the Dominican Republic. If he protests that the facts differ, I say the circumstances do not matter: intervention is intervention regardless of circumstances. Circumstances may mitigate, but never absolve.

Mr. Welles justly advises Costa Rica, Guatemala, Venezuela to abide by their contractual obligation of nonintervention. Mr. Diaz retorts that such an obligation entails an "undue burden." He contradicts himself, for in his own words," a contractual obligation that eliminates due process of law cannot be observed or compiled with by civilized people."

By justifying the proposed unilateral action on the grounds that Nicaragua, Honduras, and the Dominican Republic are threats to the hemispheric peace, he must concede these states could attack their enemies for threatening their national security and distrubing the peace of the hemisphere.

Because of past unilateral action, the Inter-American Conference for the Maintenance of Peace (Buenos Aires, 1936) promulgated "A Declaration of Principles of Inter-American Solidarity and Cooperation," declaring: (1) that the American nations proclaim their unrestricted respect for their several sovereignties; (2) that every act susceptible of disturbing the peace of America affects each and every one of them, and justifies the initiation of the procedure of consultation provided for in the convention; and (3) that the following principles are accepted: (a) no acquisition made through violence shall be recognized: (b) intervention by one state in the internal or external affairs of another state is condemned: (c) any difference or dispute between the American nations, whatever its nature or origin, shall be settled by the methods of conciliation, or full arbitration, or through operation of international justice.

Would Mr. Diaz as willingly condone intervention in the United States by a foreign power because we too have graft, discrimination and segregation, lynchings, and because residents of the District, himself included, are denied the democratic right to vote? Are these basic threats to the peace of the hemisphere? Would we not protest and fight any such intervention?

"Bad Precedent"

With the best possible intentions it would seem that The Washington Post is doing a great disservice to the residents of Washington in its "Dorothy Kilmer Aid Appeal."

Dorothy Kilmer is entitled to aid. But this most certainly should be in terms of "deserved compensation," and not as a "generous response." This serves only to relieve our civic conscience, and gives us a feeling of smug satisfaction at having "so nobly contributed to a worthy cause."

What "bad precedent" is Police Chief Robert Barrett afraid of if Congress authorizes a fair and honorable compensation? Afraid that it would reflect discredit on the police force? To my knowledge policemen are not supposed to "playfully point guns" at people. That is indeed a bad precedent. Having committed the crime (or isn't it a crime when a policeman is involved?)—by what process of logic or law should the responsibility be shirked? Another bad precedent!

JANET N. NEUMA.
Washington.

Editor's Note: This is precisely the point that The Washington Post made in its editorial of October 29, "Precedent For Shooting."

Haworth's Advice

"J. K.s" letter of October 29 chastises The Washington Post's Columnist Mary Haworth for indulgent criticism regarding her readers and for possessing far less ability than her work indicates.

Miss Haworth implies from time to time that the submitted letter had been condensed for publication for a variety of obvious reasons. Thus, "J. K." may have overlooked the fact that Miss Haworth was working with many more facts than appear in print which supply her with foundation material sufficient to diagnose problems.

I have read Mary Haworth for over four years, enjoying every minute of pleasure her column provides. In all of the U. S. daily and weekly publications, she has seemed unequaled in her ascendency to the top of this field of work.

Monopoly In Europe

It seems to this writer that most of the trouble in the Eastern Hemisphere is the result of a fixation that the choice is strictly between private and public monopoly. To a large extent, the peoples of Europe and Asia are still hung over from centuries of economic power concentrated in the hands of the few. The terrible tragedy of the old countries is that their modern reformers have furnished only one big simple answer to the breaking up of private monopoly and that is the creation of a far greater public or government monopoly which is as repressive as it is coercive.

In the case of Russia, the architects of public monopoly have done such terrible things to the citizenry that the ruling Russians no longer dare permit their people friendly contact with the outside world. Marshall Plan countries such as Britain, France and Italy now show production figures well above prewar levels. Yet the strictures of socialism and government controls have so paralyzed the normal fluidity of distribution that the actual condition of the people is but slightly improved.

American public spokesmen vaguely proclaim that we must combat a bad idea with a good idea. How? It is certainly true that our global welfare workers could advocate abroad the non-monopolistic methods which have given America such towering strength. But many of our political intellectuals are busily filling up books and the "think" magazines with the propaganda that the American people are also being exploited by some ancient regime and that we, too, must be saved by government expansion of power.

Predicting Elections

Lest it be thought that the upset in Tuesday's election represents also an upset of the validity of all forecasting, no matter how judicious, I would like to direct your attention to some prescient statements in Louis Bean's book, How to Predict Elections, as follows:

Page 9—"It has been observed that, in the 90 years from 1856 to 1946, the party that gained control of Congress in a midterm congressional election usually placed its presidential candidate in the White House two years later. When in 1946 the Republicans captured the Congress, many people expected them to win the Presidency in 1948. My analysis indicates that this midterm formula should not be accepted blindly. Indeed, there is no guarantee that the elections in 1948 and after might not give us the reverse, a Republican President and a Democratic Congress." (We were quite close to this eventuality.)

Page 159—". . . we are led to conclude that the Democratic Party at the beginning of 1948, as far as popular opinion was concerned, had recovered from its setback in 1946 and had an excellent chance—without taking into account the possible effect of the third-party movement—to win the election, and . . . to start on the first phase of a new and predominantly Democratic tide of the 1950s."

Page 162—"My summary of developments in the first year following Republican return to power in Congress will indicate why I conclude that 1946-7 may mark a turning point. To begin with, numerous signs at the end of 1947 pointed to another presidential term for the Democrats, the fifth in succession since 1932 . . ."

It is true that Mr. Bean was somewhat shaken in this forecast by his respect for the Gallup and other polls and for what "everybody" was saying. For example (on page 165) he says, "The Gallup polls revealed the effects of this political turmoil (discussed in a previous paragraph) in a decline in Truman's popularity in relation to possible Republican candidates." Whether this was really a revelation or merely a claim is now open to question.

Furthermore, Mr. Bean admonished against his own forecast with typical caution (page 163): "The projected course of our typical tide is not so much a forecast as a stimulus to political speculation. It is not to be taken as anything more than one of several possible developments in the two-party or three-party fight for control of the Eighty First to Eighty Fifth Congresses. It is not a prediction of the shape of political things to come." Nevertheless, since a resounding Republican victory would have led to derogation of his projections, it is only fair that the actual turn of events should be put down as a mark in his favor.

But that is not the main point. The main point is that President Truman was not the only correct forecaster. While, of necessity, there must be a monopoly in the Presidency, we can't allow that in the forecasting business. If we look around we may find others who were not quite as far off from the event as the most prominent pollsters and newspapermen. However, since I was not one of them, I shall say no more.

Bucking Up France

By Malvina Lindsay

Cold War Pivot

AMERICANS who have complacently relaxed into letting "the Marshall Plan do it" in Europe may be disconcerted to learn they face a new challenge on the Seine. The need for people of this country to use their personal aid and influence in bucking up France in its present crisis—much as they did Italy before its elections—is emphasized by returning visitors from this pivotal cold war battleground.

As Communists seek to sabotage the Marshall Plan, break the French government, and throw France into civil war, they also turn loose their big guns of propaganda. They plaster the country with "share the land" posters, talk long and loudly of the wheat the Soviet sent France two years ago, and through their intellectuals, sneer at American life and culture.

What is the most effective reply that can be made to this? This question was asked an American who recently spent several months living among the French people. The answer was prompt: "For some person who has never received a package to get one from an American."

Contents of such packages, whether food, clothing, books or writing materials, describe a wide arc of influence, and cause much talk of "our American friends." They are more tangible than promises made on posters or soap boxes.

MANY A taxpaying citizen here may wonder why the Marshall Plan hasn't taken the Europeans off his shoulders. But in France, as elsewhere, the official American aid goes to the government. It may be used to buy needed products, but these are sold, not given, to the people. Marshall Plan aid isn't charity—it's reconstruction.

The people of France now face a cold winter because of the coal strike—it will take months to make up for what was lost in production. Also the struggle to live presses harder and harder because of depreciation of currency. A scrub woman may earn 150 francs a day, but she has to pay 900 francs for her work dress, 250 francs for a pair of house slippers. Even necessities are bought in the black market. French labor is poorly paid in terms of purchasing power.

The struggle for food and clothing, the scarcity of books and other things that nourish the spirit and the overshadowing fear of the encroachments of Soviet totalitarianism have put the people of France into what Anne O'Hare McCormick, writing in the New York Times, calls a "gray and passive mood." Hence French people now especially need the direct personal interest and encouragement of Americans. The mayor of one French town told an American visitor, "Send us books instead of food." Textbooks in French are an urgent need.

THE PERSONAL letter can help greatly in interpreting American life. Unlike England, where 8 per cent of the people have at one time been in the United States, the French people know little of Americans at home. D. W. Brogan, British writer, estimates that no European people, excepting possibly those of Spain, have so little first-hand knowledge of American life as do the French. French writers who are Communists or fellow travelers take advantage of this to give a derogatory picture of American tastes, habits and government.

Although Americans generally had what might be called a "crush" on France during the First World War and through the 1920's, there is much present indifference to France's needs. There is much ignorance here of the extent of France's war sufferings. Few Americans realize that in the liberation of France—by her friends—90 per cent of her cities suffered some wreckage, and that numerous persons, including children and the aged, are helpless cripples because of war's bombings.

Sentiment entered strongly into American enthusiasm for saving France in the First World War. The "Lafayette, we are here" spirit and the love of Paris and all that it symbolized were powerful spurs to American interest and generosity. Today the strengthening of France is more of a hard-headed matter. For France is an outpost of American ideological defense and of western individual liberty. What Americans do personally to fortify the French spirit for the crucial months ahead may greatly affect the answer to the anxiously asked question, "What's going to happen in France?"

History Repeated

Among the grievances listed against the then King of Great Britain by the Declaration of Independence—1776, which were "submitted to a candid world" to prove the attempted "establishment of an absolute tyranny over these States" appears the following:

"He has erected a multitude of new offices and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance."

Who said that history does not repeat itself?

Washington Calling

By Marquis Childs

Truman Unbeholden

A HEALTHY political custom deeply rooted in tradition requires officeholders named by appointment to submit their resignation after an election has been held. This applies even though the incumbent President is returned to office.

Childs

It should certainly apply from top to bottom in the Truman Administration. The President has an unparalleled opportunity to bring in new men chosen solely for their capacity.

The votes of organized labor and organized farmers weighed more heavily than any other factor. President Truman now must carry out the pledges he has made on housing, price controls, social security, public health, and aid to education.

But this is not a personal debt of the kind incurred by most presidential candidates. There are no fat cats waiting on the doorstep of the White House to collect on the contributions they made to the party. The fat cats made all their contributions to the Republican Party from which they expected to receive handsome favors.

Ordinarily these fat cats are paid off with Ambassadorships and even with Cabinet posts. Too often in the past they have received their reward regardless of fitness.

WITH THE resignation of every Cabinet member, every Ambassador and a host of other resignations on his desk, the President has a chance to begin anew. It is almost as though a new party were coming into power. Appointments can be made not for money or for prestige and face but for ability.

Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of Defense Forrestal and Undersecretary of State Lovett have long indicated that they wished to return to private life. They had made heavy sacrifices under the continuing burden of responsibility in a crisis. As soon as a transition can be effected without damage to business in hand, their wishes should be respected.

The President has kept on other men in important posts out of a mistaken sense of loyalty on both sides. They have considered that they were being loyal to a friend in a bad spot and they did not want to be accused of deserting the ship in distress.

The President's extraordinary victory has relieved them of any further responsibility. They can accept the lucrative private jobs that, according to their own wistful account, they have been refusing. Nor is the President under any further obligation to keep on old friends for loyalty's sake and past association.

THAT ERA ended on Tuesday. The Nation today has a new President who owes nothing to his cronies. He is no longer the accidental heir of a political philosophy and a political organization.

During his years in the White House, the President's most frequent lament was that he could not get good men to accept office at Government salaries. The reasons were obvious. No one believed that the Truman Administration was anything more than an interim, caretaker Government. And Government salaries are a serious handicap which the Democratic Congress can remove by approving moderate salary increases.

The same reasons do not apply today. The President has four years before him with a clear mandate and a Senate and a House owing their majorities in no small part to him. Able men will serve if the President approaches them in the right way.

There are reservoirs of ability and knowledge that have not been tapped. In the universities, in such organizations as the Foreign Policy Association and the Council on Foreign Affairs are skilled experts who can take responsibility.

They would come to Washington not because they want to take big houses and entertain in a showy way. They couldn't afford that even if they wanted it. They would come out of a sense of duty to work hard and earnestly.

It is possible, if President Truman only wills it, to bring an entirely new atmosphere to this Capital. It would not be the naive, "roll up our sleeves and make over America" atmosphere of Rexford Tugwell and the early New Deal. Too many sobering realities have intervened to induce such wishful illusions.

But a new Truman Administration could introduce the kind of expertness that Governor Dewey talked so much about. Efficiency alone is not enough, but neither are warm-hearted good intentions.

U. S. Arming, Dulles Says that some fear even to express their fear."

Americans, Dulles said, make no apology for their decision to stop disarming "because our strength is not for ourselves alone." He added: "It is our purpose so to unite and strengthen the forces of freedom that they will not have to fear."

U. S. Has No Fifth Column

Dulles spoke in a debate on the Balkans. He said Americans had organized "no disloyal groups, no fifth columns, to do our will" in Europe after withdrawing all but a fragment of the huge armed forces which fought in the war. He said this was proof that the United States has no aggressive ambitions.

Elsewhere in the U. N.:

1. Britain said she would ask the Security Council to extend to all of Palestine the Council's order to Jews and Arabs to give up positions in the south won during the U. N. truce.

2. The Budgetary Committee agreed to advance five million dollars out of the U. N. working capital fund as part of a relief program for some 500,000 refugees in the Palestine war.

The debate in the political committee centered around the report of the U. N. Special Commission on the Balkans. That report accused Yugoslavia, Bulgaria and Albania of helping Communists-led guerillas fighting the Greek government.

The United States, Britain, China and France have urged approval of the report by the Assembly and an extension of the life of the commission. Russia has called on the Assembly to discontinue the commission. Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky has described the committee finding as a "pile of garbage."

Australia introduced a resolution asking the Assembly president and the U. N. secretary general to call a meeting in Paris of representatives of Greece, Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia to "explore the possibilities of reaching agreement among themselves as to methods and procedures" to settle their dispute.

Dulles gave qualified approval to the proposal.

American informants said Secretary of State Marshall has accepted an invitation to receive an honorary degree from the University of London on November 18.

Work to Start On Atlantic Arms Treaty

Paris, Nov. 5 (AP).—The Brussels alliance will begin next week the outline and perhaps the actual draft of a proposed North Atlantic pact with Canada and the United States, British and French sources said tonight. The object is to have the treaty ready to submit to Congress in January.

This development followed disclosure that the United States already has reequipped three French divisions in Germany from surplus material. The Russian-licensed press in Berlin termed this action the implementation of a new "Truman doctrine for France," a reference to American military aid for Greece and Turkey to prevent the spread of communism.

Arrangements for alliance talks were speeded up by the reelection this week of President Truman, French and British informants said. Whether a go-ahead from Washington actually had been received was not disclosed.

They said, however, the Brussels pact powers expect to be ready for a formal full-scale conferences with the United States and Canada to be called in Washington early in December. The ambassadors of the five countries would head delegations to the conference which would include military and political experts.

Airlift Gets Third Berlin Landing Field

Berlin, Nov. 5 (AP).—The first airlift plane landed at the new Tegel Airport in the French sector today.

The airport is the third to be used in the expanding shuttle of food and fuel into the blockaded city.

The first plane was an American C 54 Skymaster with 20,000 pounds of cheese and it was met by a welcoming committee of high military and German officials and a band.

The British today barred Communist trade union organizers from Gatow Airport, where airlift planes land, in their sector.

The British said the Free German Trade Union Federation, which asked to send organizers to the field, opposes the airlift.

The anti-Communist press in Berlin recently charged Communists were trying to sabotage the unloading of planes and were circulating antiairlift propaganda leaflets among workers building Tegel Field.

American authorities today placed military guards around two stores of railroad equipment in the United States sector near the Soviet boundary. The Americans said they had reports the Russians wanted to remove the equipment to their zone.

Egyptians Flee Pocket Near Tel Aviv

Tel Aviv, Israel, Nov. 5 (AP).—The Egyptians have pulled out under cover of darkness from their coastal pocket at Majdal, 30 miles below Tel Aviv, an army spokesman announced today.

The withdrawal liquidated the Egyptian coastal spearhead which at one time menaced Tel Aviv from Isdud, 20 miles away, and gave the Jewish Army full control almost as far as Gaza, except for one remaining Egyptian pocket at Faluja.

Israeli forces occupied the Majdal area at dawn after about 3000 Arabs pulled back to Gaza, 40 miles south of Tel Aviv. The Jews now hold an almost solid ring within 4 miles of Gaza.

Perhaps as many more Egyptians were surrounded at Faluja, 13 miles inland from Majdal and once the anchor of the Arab line cutting Jewish communications to the Negev Desert settlement. Their supplies were believed short and their situation desperate. The Egyptians were cut up into pockets when the Jews mounted their October 14-21 offensive to relieve the settlements.

Britain Would Give Negev to Trans-Jordan

Paris, Nov. 5 (AP).—A British spokesman said today Britain still holds that the Negev Desert, awarded to the Jews by the U. N. in last year's Palestine partition plan, ought to be given to Trans-Jordan.

This was after the spokesman had announced Britain will propose that the Security Council extend to all Palestine its call for the Jews and Arabs to withdraw from positions won in fighting during the truce.

Israel Fears Revolt If It Yields Negev

Jerusalem, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—Israel is expected to refuse the demand of the United Nations that it evacuate territory it has seized in the Negev, preferring to risk possible penalties rather than face the threat of an army revolt, well informed sources said today.

Informants said that army spokesmen told the Israeli government pointblank that it would have a revolt on its hands if it gave up the Negev territory.

War About Over, Weizmann Declares

Rehovoth, Israel, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—Dr. Chaim Weizmann, President of Israel, said today that recent events in the Negev and Galilee areas had virtually ended the war in Palestine.

"Now that the fighting is practically at an end," he told the United Press, "we must make haste with peace plans. Israel will become a big country—not geographically—but through development of cultural values, the arts and sciences."

In both the Negev Desert sector in the south and the Galilee area in the north, the Israeli army scored big victories before the latest cease fire went into effect last Saturday.

Czechs Turn Down State Dept. Protest

The Czechoslovakia government has in effect turned down a State Department protest against arms shipments to the Palestine fighting areas, officials disclosed yesterday.

The United States had requested that the flow of weapons from Czechoslovakia to Israel be stopped because, it contended, this violated a United Nations ban.

Government officials termed the Czech reply "vague and unsatisfactory," but declined to make public the official Czech position.

Red Airlift Arms Israel, Paris Hears

Paris, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—The United States, Great Britain and France have received detailed intelligence reports that Israel is getting arms, airplanes and army recruits over a secret aerial supply route from Communist Czechoslovakia, it was disclosed tonight.

Some of the information has been turned over to Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, U. N. mediator for Palestine. So far neither Bunche nor Allied officials have been able to verify the reports.

There is as yet no indication whether the Security Council will act on the reports, as implying a violation of the Palestine truce. Some quarters thought it unlikely as such action might open the way to a bigger investigation involving the possibility that Arabs also were receiving arms.

First reports to the Allied intelligence agents indicated Russia was supplying arms to Israel over the secret air route.

Later it was said that there was nothing to connect Russia with the maintenance of the air route, though one Israeli deserter said that Jews had received substantial help from Russia in operating the route.

Weapons being flown from Czechoslovakia originate at the great Skoda arms works there, it was said. The planes have come, by a devious system of sale and resale, from as far away as the United States and Latin America, it is reported. They are said to be flown from bases in Italy and France to Cezhoslovakia. Army recruits likewise have come from numerous countries, it was said.

Several deserters from the Israeli forces have filed sworn statements of the alleged arming, informants said. At least one man, who says he deserted after flying the supply route for several months, is now being hidden by American agents somewhere in Paris to protect him from possible reprisals.

Aubrey Eban, Israeli representative here, visited Bunche late today after finding that Trygve Lie, U. N. secretary general, was not in his office.

Asked about the airlift reports, Eban said:

"The story is probably as nonsensical as it sounds. I know nothing about it."

The Security Council meets Saturday on Palestine.

Schacht Slated For 3d Trial as Nazi Offender

Stuttgart, Germany, Nov. 5 (U.P.). Hjalmar Schacht, "financial wizard" of the Hitler regime, will be tried for a third time as a "major Nazi offender," a German official announced today.

Erich Koranski, denazification minister of Wuerttemberg-Baden state in the United States zone, told a press conference that a verdict completely clearing Schacht of Nazi guilt had been voided because the court "failed to consider several points."

Koranski said the case would come to trial again in Ludwigsburg early next year. He said it was not yet certain whether Schacht could or would be compelled to appear.

The famed banker and financial juggler laid the foundations of Hitler's economic program in the mid-thirties, but later fell from favor and during the war was jailed by the Nazis.

Get Harmony

Young Fliers Strike Note Of Discord

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Young Air Force and Navy fliers are huddling at parties here these days to harmonize on a couple of new songs which poke fun at the interservice rows of their elders.

One, entitled "The 80,000 Tons That Disappeared," satirizes the Navy's new superaircraft carrier. Written by a junior USAF officer, it forecast the fate of the giant ship when she "tangles with some Yaks."

Theme of the other—from the pen of a youthful Navy pilot—is the Air Force's huge B-36 bomber, which Navy men say is a flop. "Our Bomber Flies Ten Thousand Miles" recounts USAF claims for the B-36. Each verse is followed by the chorus: "Here comes another big lie."

The carrier song, chanted in officers' clubs to the tune of the "Strip Polka," goes like this:

"Mr. Forrestal designed her, Mr. Sullivan concurred.
"United States Steel and GE loved her, even tho' Hoyt S. demurred.
"But while racing o'er the sea to Davy Jones she was 'referred,'
"She's the 80,000 tons that disappeared."
"She's got armor plate and speed and range and ice cream sodas, too,
"And her pilots live in splendor but her days are all too few.
"Three years it took to build her and three minutes to snafu,
"She's the 80,000 tons that disappeared."

Here's a bit from the B-36 song, sung to the tune of the "Gay Caballero":

"Our bomber flies 10,000 miles,
"Our bomber flies 10,000 miles.
"But a bomb like a cherry
"Is all it can carry,
"When our bomber flies 10,000 miles.

"Our bomber goes 10,000 miles,
"We claim it, but only with smiles.
"While crashing the barrier
"We pooh-pooh the carrier,
"Which really goes 10,000 miles.

While lampooning each other's controversial new weapon—focal points of the top-level dispute over Air Force and Navy war missions—the songs also succeed in laughing at the whole dispute.

One verse of the bomber song is apt:

"We know what we're saying is true,
"We've got it directly from Stu.
"We love the blue yonder
"But sometimes we wonder,

Man Leases Wooden Leg Lost on Election Bet

Connersville, Ind., Nov. 5 (AP).—Starr Brown was so sure of Tuesday's election that he wagered his wooden leg. He lost it to Mayor Glen Henderson, but he has it back on lease from the Mayor at 30 cents a year.

Senator-Elect Of Minnesota For D. C. Rule

Hubert Humphrey, mayor of Minneapolis and successful Democratic senatorial candidate in Tuesday's election, declared for home rule for the District of Columbia last night.

Speaking on a "Meet the Press" program, originating at WOL in Washington and in Minneapolis, Mayor Humphrey said he could see no reason for making a fight to extend suffrage in the States while withholding it from the people of Washington.

Humphrey reiterated his support for a civil rights program in general, but did not think all other legislation should be held up until civil rights bills could be passed.

He indorsed a Western European Union, but was doubtful on rearmament and on universal military training.

He advocated repeal of the Taft-Hartley act and the writing of new labor legislation with the advice of both labor and business.

Humphrey was interviewed by a panel including Elizabeth Mae Craig of the Portland Press Herald, Phelps Adams of the New York Sun, Kenneth C. Crawford of Newsweek, and J. R. Wiggins of The Washington Post.

Pepper Calls Russian Newscaster a Liar

Tallahassee, Fla., Nov. 5 (U.P.).—Senator Claude Pepper, (D., Fla.), today called a Ruussian newscaster a "liar" for stating that Pepper had asked President Truman to send Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson to Moscow for talk with Premier Josef Stalin.

At the same time, the Senator called on the Soviet government to meet Mr. Truman halfway in building "a new and honorable peace based on justice, democracy and freedom." In view of the past, he said, Russia should make the first move toward this goal.

U. S. Civilians Leaving China

the United States western Pacific Fleet, said "the Marines hold special status and can land on a foreign shore without constituting an act of war. They are recognized by international law as international policemen."

He said he had no intention of abandoning the Tsingtao base on the north China coast but was prepared to evacuate Americans and citizens of friendly nations "on a humanitarian basis."

(Pacific Fleet headquarters at Pearl Harbor said the American civilian evacuation did not apply in Tsingtao, where there are 1015 Americans, mostly dependents of servicemen. Admiral Badger has said he could take them all off in a few hours on a single ship if the need arises.)

It appeared that the American steps were taken only after the embassy's military staff advised it that the Chinese government no longer had the physical power to keep the war away from the national capital.

Both Nanking and Shanghai are south of the broad Yangtze River, but both could be cut off from the sea.

Maj. Gen. David G. Barr, director of the United States joint military advisory groups in China, said all the groups' dependents would be returned to the United States as rapidly as water transportation becomes available. With the United States West Coast strike tying up a majority of ships that normally ply to China, accommodations may be hard to get.

General Barr said military personnel all were remaining.

Three Red Brigades Smashed, Chinese Say

Peiping (Saturday), Nov. 5 (AP).—The government today asserted three Communist brigades were smashed in a Nationalist drive on Shihkiachwang, railway center 170 miles southwest of Peiping.

Shihkiachwang is the main Communist base and the administrative center of Hopeh province. If three brigades at full strength actually were smashed, that is a loss of 30,000 Red troops.

Eric Johnston Offers World Industry Plan

Des Moines, Iowa, Nov. 5 (AP).—Eric Johnston tonight proposed that the United States underwrite a world-wide program of industrialization to raise living standards and thus combat communism.

Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, made his proposal in a speech before the Iowa State Education Association. He returned recently from a 10-week trip to Europe during which he visited Soviet Russia and a number of other countries behind the Iron Curtain.

"The democratic world at the moment is not winning in the struggle against international communism," he cautioned.

"Industrial and agricultural production has materially risen in Western Europe. But many of the basic causes of communism still remain.

"I have come home intensely aware that international communism is not withering away. It is on the ascendency. . . . The missionaries of Moscow number in the millions. They are in every country.

"I should like to see us set up a permanent world economic development corporation. This would mean a fusion of government funds and the capital of private enterprise.

"Such a program would involve a permanent budget item for us—an item accepted as a necessity, just as we accept the permanent budget item for our armed services. Both are security measures. One is prevention; the other protection."

Antarctic Proposals Of U. S. Rejected

London, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—Argentine Foreign Minister Juan Atilio Bramuglia in a meeting with British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin tonight rejected United States proposals for the internationalization of Antarctica, Argentine sources reported.

They said Bramuglia reaffirmed Argentina's claims to the Falkland Islands and stressed that any solution should be reached on a bilateral basis.

Lodge Leaving Today on Month Tour of Europe

Representative John Davis Lodge (R., Conn.) leaves today on a month's tour of Europe, the House Foreign Affairs Committee announced yesterday.

He will study the foreign aid program, effectiveness of the State Department's cultural relations program, including the "Voice of America" radio broadcasts, and general economic and political conditions in Europe, a committee staff member said.

Representative Chiperfield (R., Ill.) and four other committee members will leave later this month on a trip to South America. The congressmen will make a general survey of economic and political conditions, and report to the full committee later on United States relations with South America.

Assigned to go with Chiperfield are Representatives Gordon (D., Ill.); Lawrence Smith (R., Wis.); Jarman (D., Ala.), and Jonkman, (R., Mich.).

Ohio Governor Vote Tops President Total

The votes cast by Ohioans in the Lausche-Herbert contest for Governor exceeded those cast in the Truman-Dewey presidential race by 301,045 ballots, Associated Press returns showed today.

The combined vote for Governor was 3,005,546. The votes cast for President Truman and Gov. Thomas E. Dewey totaled 2,704,501.

Three Events Set For Armistice Day

Three special events commemorating Armitice Day have been planned for the coming week.

On Sunday the Organized Bible Class Association will place a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier at 4 p. m. Dr. William B. Adams, former U. S. Army chaplain, will be the speaker at the service.

The Rev. Thomas B. Ehlers will give the invocation, and Page McK. Etchison, president of the organization, will place the wreath on the tomb. Clark Poling American Legion Post will serve as guard of honor.

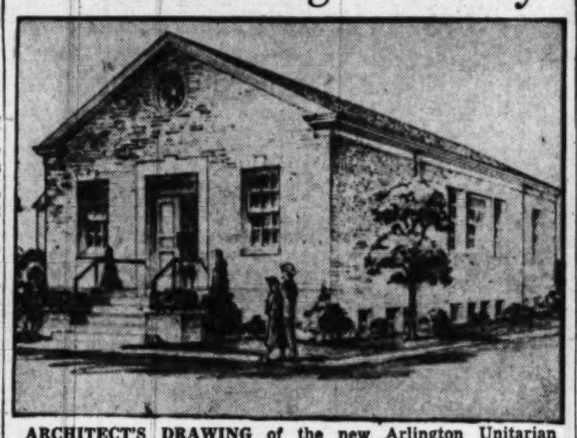
A city-wide corporate prayer service is scheduled for noon on Armistice Day, Thursday, at Shiloh Baptist Church, 9th and P sts. nw. The service is sponsored by the Christian Emphasis Committee of the 12th st. branch of the YMCA, of which the Rev. A. F. Elmes is chairman. Dr. Orris G. Robinson, pastor of Calvary Methodist Church, will give the meditation.

Members of St. Francis branch of the Acolytes Guild will participate in a corporate Communion at 9 a. m. Armistice Day at Ascension and St. Agnes Episcopal Church, 12th st. and Massachusetts ave. nw. The Rev. Virgil Wood, chaplain of St. Francis branch, will be the celebrant.

Church Turkey Dinner

Eldebrooke Methodist Church, River rd. and Wisconsin ave., will have its annual turkey dinner and bazaar from 5 to 8 p. m. Tuesday.

Arlington Unitarians to Hold Ground-Breaking on Sunday



ARCHITECT'S DRAWING of the new Arlington Unitarian Church, for which ground will be broken at Lee blvd. and Pershing dr. at noon Sunday. The church grew from a small organization to its present 117 members in less than two years.

The Rev. Gilbert A. Phillips, minister of the Arlington Unitarian Church, will almost achieve the distinction of being in two places at once when ground for his church is broken Sunday.

While he is appearing at All Soul's Church (Unitarian), 16th and Harvard sts. nw., at 11 a. m., his wife will speak to his own congregation at Kate Waller Barrett High School, Arlington. Both will give similar talks.

At the conclusion of Mr. Phillips' appearance at All Souls, he will drive to Arlington, where he will meet the congregation at the site of the ground-breaking, Lee blvd. and N. Pershing dr., at 12 noon.

The Arlington congregation came into being several years ago when members of All Souls' Church, of which Dr. A. Powell Davies is pastor, began meeting socially in Arlington.

In February 1947 Mr. Phillips was named Arlington minister of All Souls church, and in April of that year the group was organized as a fellowship, with a membership of 42.

The following April, with the encouragement and support of All Souls' Church and the American Unitarian Association, it became the Arlington Unitarian Church, with a membership of 65. Today there are 117 members.

Japanese Says U. S. Is Liked Despite Bomb

By Martha J. Hall
Post Reporter

In spite of the atomic bomb, the people of Japan today have nothing but good will toward America, a Japanese Christian educator who survived the Hiroshima disaster said yesterday.

Dr. Takuo

He is Dr. Takuo Matsumoto, principal of the Hiroshima Girls High School and College. Dr. Matsumoto is in Washington with a group from the Methodist Board of Foreign Missions and has been speaking at many churches in the area. He will speak at Hamline Methodist Church at 11 a. m. Sunday.

Dr. Matsumoto was about to sit down at his desk at the school at the fatal moment when the bomb struck, illuminating the room with a strange purple flash, he said. Plunged into complete darkness, he found himself pinned under a fallen beam of the building. Another teacher in the same room with him was killed instantly.

The slight, graying man yesterday told of how he got free, then went to find his girls. Fifty of them had just assembled for their morning religious service—all were killed.

Three hundred girls from the high school were in the heart of the city working at clearing debris when the bomb struck. Many of them, fully exposed to the blast, were "blown away completely," Dr. Matsumoto said. Others wandered away, only to fall dead or dying in the streets.

For two months the school principal hunted the victims from his school in hospitals. Many were so severely burned, he said, that he could not recognize them, and had to call out to them before he could talk and pray with them.

In the confusion that reigned after the holocaust, Dr. Matsumoto's wife was killed, though she survived the immediate blast.

Of the school, which had once consisted of 25 buildings, "not a shred remained," he said. First the students used shabby temporary buildings, then built more permanent dormitory and class room buildings.

Seventh Commandment

The Seventh Commandment will be discussed by Dr. Harry L. Bell at 10:50 a. m. Sunday at Columbia Heights Christian Church, 1435 Park rd. nw.

Out of the Ruins . . .

AFTER THE BOMB—The Girls High School, Hiroshima, Japan, as it has been rebuilt under the direction of Dr. Takuo Matsumoto, its principal. The school's 25 buildings were completely demolished and 350 students killed when the atomic bomb struck the city on August 6, 1945

3-Day School Of Religion Set This Week

The thirty-second annual convocation of the School of Religion, Howard University, will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday on the college campus.

Theme of the three-day conference is "The Modern Use of the Bible."

Dr. Halford E. Luccock, professor of preaching at Yale University Divinity School, New Haven, Conn., will deliver lectures on "The Use of the Bible in Preaching" at morning sessions each day.

Also at the morning meetings will be Dr. Henry J. Cadbury, Hollis Professor of Divinity at the Harvard University Divinity School. He will speak on "the Origin of the Bible" on Tuesday, "The Meaning of the Bible," on Wednesday, and "The Relevance of the Bible" at the final session.

Dr. Mordecal W. Johnson, president of Howard University, will speak at the convocation dinner Wednesday at 8 o'clock in Frazier Hall Dining Room.

The Rev. C. Randolph Mengers, rector of St. Columba's Episcopal Church, Washington, will speak on the use of audiovisual aids in presenting the Bible on Tuesday afternoon.

Missionary Programs Get New Emphasis

Foreign missions have changed.

Once that term merely meant strange far-away people. It meant denominational competition for souls in Africa or China, in primitive cultures untouched by modern society. It meant individual church missionaries laboring against great odds in areas where church members never expected to go.

During the past week, Washington has witnessed denominational and interdenominational missionary rallies at which the change in the whole approach to foreign missions was evident.

There is a new urgency in the mission program, a new understanding of its meaning, and a new practicality and cooperation about the whole operation.

At a foreign missions conference in Columbus, Ohio, in October, leaders of 66 missionary agencies in the United States and Canada got together to discuss the total question of world missions.

What came out of the conference was a plan outlining a vastly expanded foreign missions program for all Christian denominations during the next few years.

It called for twice the number of missionaries overseas and the raising of about 100 million dollars to send ministerial, educational, medical services and personnel to the farthest corners of the world.

This program is based on the conviction of the Foreign Missions Conference that the secret of permanent peace is "One World in Christ," that the permanent structure of world peace can be built only upon the foundation of worldwide spiritual unity.

Emphasis in this new program of advance will be upon a practical spiritual level. It calls for rural rehabilitation, literacy campaigns, Christianizing youth and student life, city life, Christianizing home and family life, utilizing audiovisual aides, medical and public health work, and relief work.

Organized on a business-like basis, the advance program sets forth specific plans to meet the needs of Africa, Europe, the Near East, Asia, and the Pacific islands.

During the war our GI's came to know many of these areas. They met the natives who had been influenced by past Christian missionary workers.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur sent the following message to the Foreign Missions Conference during its Columbus meeting:

"The ministrations of our missionaries have infused knowledge and understanding of the democratic concept, and wherever they have gone they have sown the seeds of human dignity and left in their wake an enlightened appreciation of the basic tenets which govern our own free way of life."

He expressed the hope that the missionaries would "continue vigorously and faithfully to meet the challenging opportunities which lie ahead."

O'Boyle to Receive Insignia of Rank

To Guest Pastors

Ministers Yield Pulpits For a Day

Guest ministers are slated to appear in a number of Washington Churches on Sunday.

Dr. S. Ralph Harlow, professor of religion at Smith College, Northampton, Mass., will speak at Andrew Rankin Memorial Chapel, Howard University, at 11 a. m. His theme will be "Resources of the Spirit in an Age of Fears."

At Memorial Evangelical United Brethren Church, 1700 North Capitol st., Samuel Blattert, German industrialist, will speak at 11 a. m. Owner of three factories near Frankfurt-on-Main, he was in Stuttgart when it was bombed and resolved that he would devote his life to relief and rebuilding after the war was over.

Several of the speakers who have been in Washington for the three-day mission rally will also appear at Sunday services.

Miss Helen Kenyon, first woman moderator of the General Council of Congregational Christian Churches, will speak at 11 a. m. at Cleveland Park Congregational Church, 3400 Lowell st. nw.

At 9 and 11 a. m. at Atonement Lutheran Church, Rhode Island ave. and North Capitol st., the speaker will be Dr. E. Prakasam, president of Andhra Lutheran Church in India. This will be the annual Thank Offering Service sponsored by the Women's Missionary Society of the Church.

The Rev. G. Gerald Sias of Indianapolis, Ind., will speak at Wilson Boulevard Christian Church, Arlington, at 11 a. m. Mr. Sias is general director of the "Crusade for a Christian World," a three-year movement sponsored by the Disciples of Christ.

At Knox Orthodox Presbyterian Church, Granville dr. and Sutherland rd., Silver Spring, the speaker at 11 a. m. Sunday will be the Rev. Leslie A. Dunn, executive director of the Boardwalk Chapel and pastor of Calvary Orthodox Presbyterian Church, Wildwood, N. J.

The Most Rev. Patrick A. O'Boyle, Archbishop of Washington, will receive the sacred pallium, insignia of his rank, at ceremonies at St. Matthew's Cathedral, 1727 Rhode Island ave. nw., at 10 a. m. Wednesday.

Archbishop O'Boyle

The pallium, a circular band of white wool, is conferred on archbishops as a sign of their unity with and loyalty to the Pope. It will be placed on the shoulders of Archbishop O'Boyle by the Most Rev. Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic Delegate to the United States.

The Apostolic Delegate will sing the pontifical high mass which precedes the bestowal, and Archbishop O'Boyle will preach the sermon.

A procession of bishops and other prelates of the church and members of the clergy and religious orders will precede the service. Music of the mass will be sung by the Sulpician Seminary Choir.

A prayer for Pope Pius XII and a prayer for peace will be included in the solemn pontifical mass Presentation of the pallium to Archbishop O'Boyle will follow his suscribing to an oath of allegiance to the Holy See.

School to Hear Dr. Robinson

"The Church and the Disorder of Society" will be discussed by Dr. Orris G. Robinson, minister of Calvary Methodist Church, at the young adult School of Christian Living at Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church, 900 Massachusetts ave. nw. at 7 p. m. Sunday.

Other topics to be discussed this week are "The Significance of Jesus for Today," with Dr. Robert DuBose of the American Association of College, "The Selling Approach to Creative Writing" with Harold E. Christie, and "Getting Acquainted with the Church" with William T. Jobe, jr.

Stewardship Month At Luther Place Church

November will be stewardship month at Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas Circle. At 11 a. m. Sunday, Dr. L. Ralph Tabor, pastor, will preach the first of a series of three sermons. His subject is "He Has Given." The Rev. James M. Singer, assistant pastor, will preach on "Walking Worthily," at 9:45 a. m.

Sunday CHURCH EVENTS

Three choirs will join in a service commemorating the 100th anniversary of eighteenth century hymn writer Isaac Watts at 4 p. m. at the Washington Cathedral.

The choirs are from Metropolitan Memorial Methodist Church, Francis Asbury Methodist Church, and the Washington Cathedral. They will present a program of six hymns by Watts, and the Very Rev. John Wallace Suter, dean of the cathedral, will speak on the hymn-writer's life and work. Following the service, Klaus Speer, director of music at Lincoln Memorial University in Tennessee, will play a recital on the great organ.

"Should the Christian Church Expand Her Mission Program?" will be the subject of a "Church Meeting of the Air" given by the young people of Albright Memorial Church, 4th and Rittenhouse sts. nw., at 7 p. m.

The second in a series of sermons on personal problems in today's world will be delivered by Dr. J. Warren Hastings at 10:50 a. m. at National City Christian Church, Thomas Circle. The Rev. Myron W. Chrisman, associate minister, will assist in the service.

Episcopalians Set Annual Every-Member Canvass

The annual "Every-Member Canvass" of the Episcopal Church, during which funds are raised for the General Church Program and parish work, will get under way Sunday and continue through December 5.

During this period each member of the Episcopal Church will be visited and given an opportunity to make his annual pledge of funds for the church's work.

$3,650,000 Budget

The national budget for the General Church Program for 1949 is $3,650,000, to be used for missionary work, Christian education, social relations, laymen's work, training centers, women's work, promotion and administration.

The quota for the 90 parishes in the District and Southern Maryland, which comprise the Diocese of Washington, has been set at $101,500. The diocese has a membership of more than 31,000.

This year's local total is $3,500 more than was asked last year. Bishop Angus Dun said the increase "hardly does more than assure the maintenance of existing work" of the general church and in the mission field.

39 Cents to Diocese

According to a breakdown published in the Washington Diocese magazine, 39 cents out of each dollar will be used for diocesan work and 61 cents for the National Council. On both the national and local scenes, the largest portion of the funds will be used for missions work.

In preparation for the annual canvass, six regional vestry-clergy dinner conferences, with Bishop Dun as speaker, have been held. Each parish makes arrangements for bringing in funds for parish work at the same time as the canvass.

At Grace Church, Silver Spring, the drive will open Sunday with a tea and open house at 4 p. m. at the parish house. The Rev. and Mrs. Francis M. Hamilton will be hosts. Last year 30 per cent of the pledges were signed at a similar event.

At St. Columba's Church, the drive was launched by the Rev. C. Randolph Mengers with an annual parish dinner Wednesday.

Stay-at-Home Request

In some parishes all church members are requested to be at home on a certain afternoon when one of the volunteer canvassers will call and pick up the pledge card.

The Rev. Harold B. Sedgwick and the vestry of St. Thomas Church will participate in the canvass for the first time this year. The drive will be launched after the annual bazaar on November 13 and will conclude December 5.

Health Care Plan Upheld By Ewing

Peoria, Ill, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing tonight defended his proposed national health insurance program as the best means of providing adequate medical care for 68 million persons otherwise unable to afford it.

He told the fifty-third annual conference of the Illinois Welfare Association in a prepared address that there are at least that many people living in families with an income of less than $3000, and they "just cannot afford to pay for medical care on the present fee basis."

He said the chief drawback to voluntary health insurance is that the people who need it can't pay for it. Under national health insurance, he added, the cost varies with the amount of the beneficiary's income.

Apparently referring to the American Medical Association, he conceded that the proposal had bee nattacked as a "socialist experiment," but he added:

"Attacks on national health insurance could be summarily dismissed as ridiculous if they were not backed by powerful forces in the United States whose interest is to preserve the status quo in the medical profession."

Ewing said the insurance plan was the backbone of the 10-year national health program which he submitted to President Truman in September. He said there is an increasing number of "younger, more socially minded physicians, as well as many older and more thoughtful doctors, who see the problem clear in terms of national health."

But even if all doctors opposed it, he went on, "which is more important—the personal selfish business and professional values of some 180,000 to 190,000 practicing physicians . . . or the health and well-being of some 70 million of our population who cannot possibly afford their fees?"

'Camp Meeting' Saturday Night

A "Saturday Night Camp Meeting" for young people of the Greater Washington Area will be held at 7:30 p. m. today at Capitol Memorial Seventh-day Adventist Church, 5th and F sts. nw.

A feature of the program will be a panel discussion of "Why I Became a Christian," by four of the young people. Station WOL will carry a portion of the meeting at 8:30 p. m.

Rockville Laymen

The Rev. J. Harry Haines of China will address the Rockville Laymen's Association at 8 p. m. Sunday at Christ Episcopal Church. A native of New Zealand, Mr. Haines is now studying at Westminster Theological Seminary.

Examiner Rules

Quitting Jobs En Masse Held 'Strike'

Mass quitting of jobs constitutes a strike, a trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board ruled yesterday.

Examiner Arthur Leff, in a case in which 114 employes out of 115 quit individually within 36 hours, declared:

"The very fact of such mass quitting alone supplies persuasive evidence, sufficient in the absence of a plausible and adequate contrary explanation, to support an inference that thecessation of work was the outcome of strike or concerted action aimed at a common objective."

Union's Blame Must Be Proved

However, a union's responsibility for such a strike, if illegal, must be proved independently, he declared.

It was the first ruling on this question under the Labor Management Relations Act.

In accordance with these findings, the examiner held Local 760 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (AFL) guilty of conducting an illegal strike at Roane-Anderson Co. at Oak Ridge, Tenn. The company maintains and operate the electrical distribution system for the townsite and military reservation there.

All but one of the 115 electricians employed by Roane-Anderson left their jobs, most of them after turning in their resignations. One remained on the job at the town hospital.

Secondary Boycott Involved

Examiner Leff held that the union inspired the work stoppage in an effort to enforce a secondary boycott in violation of the act. The boycott was aimed at compelling Roane-Anderson to stop doing business with the Kiser Electric Co. of Knoxville, Tenn., a non-union sub-contractor, he found.

U. S. Will Talk To 11 Nations On Tariff Cuts

The State Department will begin negotiations at Geneva next April 11 with 11 nations seeking reciprocal tariff reductions, the State Department announced yesterday.

It also said the United States Tariff Commission and its committee for reciprocity information will hold hearings December 7 at which American manufacturers and others may express their reviews on the proposed changes.

The 11 nations are Denmark, the Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Finland, Greece, Haiti, Italy, Nicaragua, Peru, Sweden and Uruguay. They want to join the general trade agreement signed at Geneva last year by this country and 22 other nations.

The State Department said the 34 countries account for about two thirds of the United States exports and about three fourths of its imports.

All the trade agreements carry the so-called "escape clause," which permits this country to modify or withdraw a tariff concession if it is found to be hurting domestic industry.

The items listed for consideration at the April meeting ranged from clothespins and olive oil to electrical devices and musical instruments.

ALCOA to Share Patents, Buy Big Government Plant

By John W. Ball
Post Reporter

The Aluminum Co. of America will make all its alloy patents and its most important process and fabricating patents available to the entire aluminum industry, in an agreement signed yesterday with the War Assets Administration.

Under the agreement, WAA will sell the Government-owned aluminum plant at Massena, N. Y., to Alcoa for five million dollars. In return, WAA also will get, for a payment of $115,000, a license for all Alcoa's machine patents used in Government-built plants operated by Alcoa during the war.

The agreement also released the Government from responsibility for royalty payments for the use of Alcoa's fluoride patent at the Government's Hurricane Creek, Ark., alumina plant.

The commitments by Alcoa will make available to the entire aluminum industry not only the alloy patents but also its basic patent on the so-called "direct chill" process of casting aluminum and a number of other patents in the fabricating field.

The agreement was developed, after months of negotiation, by John Joss, general counsel of WAA, according to announcement by WAA Administrator Jess Larson. Larson emphasized that in the field of alumina production and aluminum smelting the operations of Permanente Metals Corp. (controlled by Henry Kaiser) and the Reynolds Metals Co. are now royalty-free.

Alcoa will spend an estimated $2,750,000 on the Massena plant. Alcoa agrees to maintain in a standby condition for national emergency uses, aluminum production capacity at other plants equal to the potential production at Massena.

The agreement was reached by WAA with cooperation of all Government security and defense officials.

417 Million In E Bonds Owned Here

By S. Oliver Goodman

A stored-up buying power of 417 million dollars is in the hands of Washington residents in the form of Series E Savings Bonds. The interest on this investment is adding 11 million dollars annually to the District's income.

This was reported yesterday by Thomas J. Groom, chairman of the D. C. Savings Bonds Division, in announcing a new drive for more bond buyers here. Groom said that in addition to the E bonds, local investors hold many millions more in F and G bonds.

The campaign, which has no dollar sales quota, opens November 11 and closes December 11. Aim is to increase substantially the number of bank depositors on the Bond-a-Month Plan and the number of regular bond buyers on the Payroll Savings Plan.

Support for the forthcoming drive, Groom said, has been pledged by the National Organizations Committee, which represents 38 leading Nation-wide groups. Members include financial, veterans, fraternal, civic, service and women's organizations.

WHO'S WHO TODAY: Allan Harvey has been named vice president in charge of sales and advertising of the Starrett Television Corp. . . . Arthur H. Georgetown Beats Out N. Y. U., 13-6

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

ANN ARBOR, MICH., NOV. 5.—A Michigan-Notre Dame game the dream contest of the Nation's football fans will continue as exactly that—a dream. The rising clamor for a meeting between the two powerhouses of college football is going unheeded here by Michigan's important people, who want no part of the Irish on the gridiron.

POVICH

The Wolverines are willing to let their superiority over Notre Dame, if any, remain in dispute and content themselves with beating their common opposition worse than the Irish do. Michigan's 49-0 walloping of Southern California in the Rose Bowl last season after Notre Dame beat the same team only 38-7 left the Wolverines quite smug about their position. And tomorrow they're shooting for a bigger score against Navy than the 41-7 victory of the Irish last week.

Athletic Director Fritz Crisler has already made it clear that there is no place for Notre Dame on the Michigan schedule until 1952 because of previous commitments, but those who know Crisler best say he will sidestep Notre Dame forever. As long as the Wolverines don't play the Irish and keep on winning Big Nine titles they can always boast that Notre Dame hasn't licked 'em.

CRISLER HAS PUT it on the basis of what Michigan is most interested in: winning Big Nine championships or playing Notre Dame. Michigan alumni are solidly back of him in that respect. The national title is secondary to the Big Nine championship. They want no repetition, they say, of what happened in 1942 when they beat Notre Dame and then lost the Big Nine title.

That was the year the Wolverines moved down to South Bend and licked the Irish 32-20, on the 100th anniversary of Notre Dame. It was the last time the Irish lost at South Bend. But what happened to Michigan the next week was painful. A heavy favorite over Ohio State, they lost to the Buckeyes 21-17, lost the Big Nine title and blamed everything on the fact that they had pointed for Notre Dame instead of Ohio State.

The one development that could upset Michigan's strategy of steering clear of Notre Dame is the State Legislature. Pressure could be brought to bear in the strongly Catholic State of Michigan under threat of cutting U. of Michigan's appropriations unless the Irish were put on the Wolverines' schedule. It might be a showdown between the State's Catholic voters and the alumni.

MEANWHILE THE Michigan football team, unbeaten in its last 20 games, remains the strongest citadel of single-wing football against the sweeping tide of the T-formation. Michigan's success with the single wing, under Crisler for 10 years and now coached by Bennie Oosterbaan, is regaining converts from the T-formation group, so smart has been the Wolverines' execution.

Crisler made of Michigan's single wing a more deceptive attack than even the T-formation whose chief charm was supposed to be deception. Certainly the Michigan and Notre Dame styles are in great contrast. The Irish quarterback handles the ball on every play except the punt. The Michigan quarterback doesn't do the passing and rarely handles the ball from center.

The Michigan style has more spectator-appeal with its tricky ball handling behind the line and on one of Crisler's favorite plays, his end-around maneuver, the ball changes hands no fewer than four times. Michigan teams aren't big, at least the offensive units aren't, but they are the fastest, and the key man is their fullback, in contrast to Notre Dame's quarterback.

TOM PETERSON, who understudied Jack Weisenburger last year, is Michigan's fullback, and he handles the ball on 80 per cent of the plays. That's when the faking starts, after he gets the direct pass from center. He fakes handoffs to the tailback, and the quarterback, and sometimes he spins, and sometimes he does handoff to the quarterback playing close behind center, and then evolves a two-handed pitch out to the tailback and the Wolverines are off.

Michigan's loss of Bob Chappuis by graduation hasn't been too painful a blow. Sophomore Charlie Ortmann at tailback is being hailed as even a better passer than Chappuis, and Sophomore Right Halfback Leo Koceski runs both inside and outside. Pete Elliott is the No. 1 quarterback. Osterbaan's offensive and defensive teams total only 21 men. Elliott is a 60-minute player, never replaced on defense.

Crisler's genius doesn't end with his offense. Defensively his Wolverines have been immense. At least they were before last week's Illinois game when the Illini passed to three touchdowns. In Michigan's first five games, they yielded only three touchdowns, one of them an outright gift, the other a disputed pass play and the third punched over by Minnesota from the 1-foot line.

Navy Given Guinea Pig Role Today At Michigan

By Shirley Povich
Post Reporter

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 5. — Navy's off-beaten but brave football team tomorrow finds itself in the unwilling role of guinea pig in Michigan's zest to regain national leadership from Notre Dame.

The Midshipmen will take the field here only dimly hopeful of averting their twelfth straight defeat against a Michigan powerhouse that has won 20 in a row and is shooting for better than the 41-7 victory of the Irish over Navy last week.

A 20-point underdog in their battle with Notre Dame, the Middies moved into Ann Arbor to learn that Michigan was favored over them by 27 points.

Despite the marked contrasts of the records of the two teams, a sell-out crowd of 85,938 will watch tomorrow's game with tickets at more of a premium than for any other Michigan game of the season. Navy will be returning to Ann Arbor for the first time in 21 years. Navy helped dedicate the Michigan Stadium in 1927 with a 27-12 victory for the Wolverines.

Navy Coach George Sauer had his Midshipmen working out in Dearborn today and there was no indication that the Middies had abandoned hope of an upset. "Our spirit was never better," Sauer said, "and we're as big as they are."

Sauer revealed that Walter Marquardt, the Milwaukee sophomore promoted from the junior varsity last week, may be in tomorrow's starting backfield. Marquardt was Navy's most consistent ground gainer against Notre Dame last week and may replace Al McCully at fullback.

Bob Horne will get the call at quarterback over Reaves Baysinger and Williams and Green will be at the halfbacks. Sauer has said that Bill Hawkins, best of his ground gainers who has been hospitalized for a month with a throat ailment may see some mild action, but there is a persistent belief that Hawkins may play as much as a half, thus sharpening Navy's offense considerably.

The Navy line took a blow, though, when it was revealed Capt. Scott Emerson would not start at his tackle post, because of a shoulder injury suffered against Notre Dame. Renneman is being moved up.

Against Michigan, Navy will be subjected to the tops in single wing attack in contrast to Notre Dame's powerful T-formation. The tricky ball handling of Michigan's backs, Charlie Ortmann, Leo Koceski and Tom Peterson has confused the opposition all season.

Navy coaches have been bearing down all week on the play of their ends, ordering a no-hesitation, crashing style of defensive end play against the ball-handling of the Michigan backs.

Tony Beyer, Benigni Get Touchdowns For Hoyas

Georgetown's supposedly scintillating sophs needed all the help they could get from two of the six seniors on the squad to score a lack-lustre 13-6 victory over New York University last night at Griffith Stadium before a slim gathering of 5892.

Brooke (Tony) Beyer and Elmer Raba, last-year men who both are local products, took things in their own hands late in the game and saved the 14-point favorites from being completely humiliated.

Beyer, after accounting for 32 of a 35-yard advance, bucked over from the 1 for the Hoyas' first score late in the third period. Raba, who played well all evening, pitched a 26-yard scoring pass to End George Benigni, who caught it on the 2 and stepped into the end zone for his third six-pointer of the season.

It was fortunate for Georgetown that Raba pitched that strike. Soph Jack Fogarty, NYU back who should have been exhausted after his 11 punts throughout the slow-moving game, broke loose for a dazzling 94-yard gallop in the waning moments. He sliced off tackle from his own 4, got into the clear and would have gone all the way if Joe Sullivan hadn't caught him by the shoestrings on the Georgetown 2.

Fullback Joe Novotny took it to the foot-marker and Jerry Eisenman went over on a quarterback sneak with just 35 seconds left in the game. The touchdown made NYU's moral victory highly moral.

Little Jack Kivus set up both Hoya scores when he forgot to be conservative on punt returns and showed himself to be a real ball-carrier.

In the third period, he took one of Fogarty's boots 17 yards to the NYU 35. At this point, Beyer made himself the man of the hour. Tony, Georgetown Prep Luminary, plunged for 13 yards and immediately made another first down on the Violet 12.

Again Beyer carried and he picked up four more to the eight. For some reason, he was yanked and it was only after rabid Hoya students sent up an effective chant that Coach Jack Hagerty put him back in. During the interim, Lou Miller was stopped and

Little Hoyas Held, 0-0, by St. John's Line

By Sy Fishbein
Post Reporter

A dogged St. John's Prep forward wall held three times in the shadow of its goal yesterday to hold bigger, favored Georgetown Prep, 0-0, at Central Stadium. It was the first taint on the Little Hoyas' record this year.

The heroes were Joe Cardaci and Frank Fannon and John Shannon and Maury Rhumont and a couple of line-backers, Tom Clark and Doonis Waldron, who reared up and took the ball over on downs three times inside the Cadet 10-yard line.

The big, rugged Georgetown backs, Ed Claxton, Bob O'Donnell and Billy Bidwell, gained 11 first downs to the Cadets' 6 and chewed up yardage consistently until the payoff.

And had not Ed Claxton's passes gone awry—he completed only four in 13—not even the Cadets' great line play would have kept the Little Hoyas from that last white stripe.

The Cadets, without any end run plays and not much of a passing attack had to sneak their little scatbacks through the line and for a time in the third period, they hit the right combination.

Starting on their own 18, Doonie Waldron, the St. John workhorse, and Little Tom Clark slithered alternately through the Georgetown middle for three first downs to the Little Hoya 40.

Here quarterback Locke Wallace switched signals and passed to Jack Daly who carried to the four, but the Cadet charge had spent itself and Georgetown took over.

Anacostia Defeats McKinley Tech, 6-0

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Anacostia's Indians advanced to within a half game of first-place Central yesterday with a 6-0 victory over McKinley Tech's Trainers in an Interhigh football game at Anacostia.

Anacostia was in control throughout, except for once in the closing moments. The Indians ground offensive netted them their touchdown on the first play of the second quarter after an advance of 55 yards. Bob Mitchell crossed the goal line after thrusting through right tackle from 2 yards out.

It was an old-fashioned slugging match between two single-wing teams which kept their attack on the ground until the last quarter.

Then Tech's Jerry Spindler took to the air and moved the Trainers 76 yards to Anacostia's six, where the stalwart Indians held. Tackle Bob Neal and Guard Bob Allwine were the boys who rallied Anacostia's final defense.

When Spindler's fourth down pass fell incomplete, the last hopes for a playoff berth by defending champion Tech vanished.

Tech mustered only one threat in the first half, that on a 39-yard pass play, Spindler to Randy Gaskell on the Anacostia 8. However, Ray Fox fumbled on the next play to put Tech's drive out of commission.

With Mitchell, Ed Burt and Pat Kober carrying the ball, Anacostia rolled all over Tech territory during most of the game. Tech's forward wall, led by Center Jiggs DeAtley and Tackle Earl Shields stopped Anacostia drives on the Tech 9, 20 and 29 yard lines.

Eastern Wins, 19 to 6

By Howard Flieger

Roosevelt worried heavily-favored Eastern considerably yesterday at Lincoln Park but finally went down to its sixth straight Interhigh League defeat, 19-6.

Inspired by a first-period score registered by End Weaver Merriam on a 45-yard pass interception, Roosevelt kept the Ramblers from rambling for the entire half.

It was only after a Roosevelt gamble failed that Eastern got under way. In the third period, the cocky Rough Riders tried to rush from their own 43 when they had a fourth down with inches to go.

Eastern stopped them and quickly capitalized on the play. Paul Magtutu tossed a 40-yard pass that Jerry Gill took into the end zone. Eastern failed to convert and Roosevelt still was in the ball game.

But opportunistic Eastern quickly applied the clincher when Bill Stevens intercepted a pass by Terry Huff on the Roosevelt 42 and returned 28 yards. Paul Asearo finally smashed through center from the 2 and this time Gill made the extra point.

Asearo scored Eastern's final six-pointer in the last quarter when he raced over on a 23-yard sprint.

Wilson Noses Coolidge, 6-0; Takes Third

By Bill Gilbert

Wilson's Green Tigers moved into third place in the Interhigh standings as they eked out a 6-0 victory over Coolidge before 2000 yesterday at Wilson. The triumph gave Wilson three wins against two defeats.

Held at bay during most of the game by a strong Coolidge underdog eleven. Wilson's only score came late in the second period. Morty Rudo punted to the Tiger 34. Leo Speros carried it to the Coolidge 48. On the next play, Nick DeLodovico went off the Colt left tackle for 48 yards and the score.

In the third quarter, George Pappafotris broke loose for 19 yards and a touchdown, but the play was nullified by an offside penalty against Wilson.

Coolidge's best scoring opportunity was in the second period. After taking a punt on their own 42, the Colts marched all the way to the Wilson 11. A pass, Arnie Tranen to Dan Richardson, failed there, however, and the drive was stopped.

Maryland Expects to Spoil Gamecocks' 'Homecoming'

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Columbia, S. C., Nov. 5.—Maryland, which has won every homecoming game this season except its own, arrived here this afternoon prepared to spoil South Carolina's homecoming tomorrow.

A capacity crowd of 22,000 Gamecock old grads will be on hand to see if Coach Rex Enright's footballers can crack their three-game losing streak. The odds-makers figure they won't. They've made once-beaten bowl-conscious Maryland a 13-point favorite.

This is Maryland's last test before its crucial head-bumping joust against unbeaten North Carolina at Griffith Stadium November 13.

Vic Turyn, the passing, running star of the Miami, Fla., game, will do most of Maryland's quarterbacking against South Carolina.

Turyn, a senior from Holden, W. Va., came into his own as a runner in the 26-13 decision over Miami last week, averaging 8 yards on each of his excursions. He also completed 10 of 18 passes to become the Nation's thirteenth man on total offense.

"Stop Turyn and Maryland is stopped," is the battle cry of the Gamecocks. Enright's scouts reported that Turyn is one of the country's better T-formation quarterbacks. "His passing is good, his running above par, but where he excels is with his deception and pitchouts and handoffs," the scouts told Enright.

Catholic U. Drubbed, 32-0

Newport News, Va., Nov. 5 (AP)—Newport News Apprentice School rang down the curtain on its 1948 grid season with a flourish here tonight by mauling Catholic University of Washington, 32-0.

Quarterback Buddy Bryant sparked Apprentice by throwing three touchdown passes and ripped the Cardinal line for repeated gains.

Citadel Refuses Resignation of Football Coach

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5 (AP).—The resignation of Citadel Athletic Director and Head Coach Quinn Decker today was refused by the college's athletic advisory committee.

The action was approved by Gen. Charles P. Summerall, president of The Citadel, on the direction of the board of visitors, it was announced tonight.

The news came as something of a bombshell on the eve of Citadel's game tomorrow with George Washington University's Colonials, coached by Decker's immediate predecessor at The Citadel, John (Bo) Rowland.

On the recommendation of the athletic advisory committee, Decker was offered a five-year extension of his contract, General Summeral announced. The Citaled coach said he had "no immediate comment."

The committee said many factors were involved in the showings of the 1946, 1947 and 1948 football teams. Its resolution commended "the coaches and the members of the team for their loyalty, perseverance and courage in putting forth their best efforts" and "improvement shown in recent games."

North-South Won by Penna

Pinehurst, N. C., Nov. 5 (AP). Toney Penna, smiling, happy-go-lucky little Cincinnati professional came from nowhere to win the $1500 top prize money in the Forty-sixth North and South Open Golf tournament today.

Overlooked while the big-guns of golf tried to tear the long No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club apart, Toney played steady and improving golf to card a 72-hole total of 285, three strokes under par for the distance.

Penna started today's 36-hole final four strokes behind the leaders and finished two strokes in front after firing a pair of 70s, each two under par.

Slamming Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., the favorite of the galleries, and Julius Boros, husky Bridgeport, Conn., amateur, tied for second place at 287 after each had blown a chance to take the undisputed lead.

Only 14-Point Favorites

'Skins Have Plenty of Players —And Bagarus—for Yankees

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

COACH TURK EDWARDS, grown accustomed to a short-handed squad, can enjoy an orgy of substitutions Sunday when the Washington Redskins play the Boston Yankees for the second straight week. . . . Thirty-two players leave for Beantown today, nine of them halfbacks. . . . Bob Nussbaumer's side injury is better, Howie Livingston can get around on his banged-up knee again, and the addition of Steve Bagarus and Tippy Madarik brings the club to within three, players of full strength.

In spite of their 59-21 whaling of the Yanks here last week, the 'Skins are mere 14-point favorites for Sunday's game. . . . The odds-makers apparently think Washington played over its head and that Boston will improve at home. . . . The Redskins are worried about an upset in their game, hoping for one in the Philadelphia-New York clash. . . . They need help like that to overcome the Eagles' eastern division lead.

IN THE FIRST GAME of his comeback, Buggsy Bagarus will be playing with 10 of the same men who helped him to stardom in 1945-46 . . . Sammy Baugh, Dick Todd and Dick Poillon are the only backs left over from that era . . . This observer's prediction is that Slender Steve, chastened by his experiences and trying his darnedest, will play the best football of his life the rest of this season . . . But he won't stand out like he did before because he'll have competition for the limelight from such stellar performers as Nussbaumer, Sandifer, Todd and Poillon . . . Later Eddie Saenz and Harry Gilmer will figure in the picture.

Ever stop to count the number of people making up a Redskin party on a road trip? . . . Besides the 30-odd players, there are two equipment men, a trainer, team physician, railroad representative, two movie men, mascot, business manager, general manager, newspapermen, Jack Tullock and George P. Marshall . . . Nineteen double rooms and 11 single rooms are necessary to house this retinue . . . Several cows must be slaughtered to feed it . . . Although the 'Skins travel exclusively by rail, six airline reservations are made for each road game . . . Injured players are rushed back to Washington as quickly as possible.

Longwood Prep Runs Out of Players, Quits

Olney, Md., Nov. 5.—The season-long fears of Longwood Prep's football coach, Ben Jones, materialized here today. He ran out of players.

It happened in the third quarter of a game against Devitt Prep with Longwood trailing, 40-0.

When the season opened, there were only 18 players on the squad, Longwood lost its first five games, scoring only one touchdown in the process.

Injuries cut the Longwood squad down to 14 going into today's game. One by one, Longwood players, with bruised knees, sprained ankles, etc., had to be assisted from the field. Finally, 4 minutes into the third quarter, Jones looked around and saw he had only 10 boys fit for action. He called the game.

None of the Longwood injuries were serious. Quarterback Lee Gray suffered a slight head concussion. Tackle Myles Olson temporarily dislocated his knee.

Before the game was halted, Francis Bates, Ralph Wilkns, Wes Wilken, Tom Hunt, Johnny Neumann and Ned Cox had scored Devit touchdowns. Don Firor had booted two extra points.

Giant Mikan Leads Lakers Against Caps

All the Caps have to do to remain undefeated in the young Basketball Association of America season is stop the Minneapolis Lakers, one of the best pro clubs ever assembled, tonight at Uline.

George Mikan, 6-foot-10 All-American center at DePaul, leads a skyscraping team that averages 6-4. And Mikan last year led the Lakers to the National League title and the Chicago National tournament championship.

The visiting league-jumpers made their BAA debut an 84-72 success over the Champion Baltimore Bullets Thursday night. Mikan scored 19 points in that one but had to give way to Hermna Schaeferm sharp-shooting forward, whose 23 points were high.

Red Auerbach's Caps, nosed out in league playoffs, have jumped off to two victories in two tries.

In their opener, the Caps stopped the Philadelphia Warriors, 77-70, and held Joe Fulks to a mere 24 points. Then, Thursday night, Providence was finally subdued, 99-95, in the first BAA game that ever went into three overtimes.

The Caps are going to let Kleggie Hermsen, 6:09 center, try to hold Mikan and will depend upon Bob Feerick, Bones McKinney and Freddie Scolari to do most of their scoring.

In addition to the veteran trio, Rookie Leo Katkaveck is expected to prove an ever valuable addition. Katkaveck, captain of North Carolina State's Southern Conference champions last year, notched 12 points against Providence — most important, five of them were made in that third overtime period.

Reds Easily Stop Lions, 7-2

The Providence Reds, Eastern Division leaders in the American Hockey League, entered Uline Arena last night with a two-game losing streak, and left rejuvenated by an easy 7-2 victory over the Washington Lions.

Playing a slow, deliberate game, concentrating on keeping the puck rather than fast breaks, the Reds plied a trio of goals past Lew Crowdis in each of the first and third periods and one in the second. The last three came without a Lion defenseman around to protect Crowdis.

The 2345 fans were treated to a rare sight in the second period. The Lions actually passed to each other. The strategy bore fruit when Ken Schultz scored past Harvey Bennett at 11:05. Win Mousseau put the score at 3-2 two minutes later, shooting successfully while wrapped around Michaluk. Crowdis' perfect period was marred with only six seconds left to go as Jack Stoddard again put the Reds 2-up.

Petrol Point 2d by Neck In Long Race

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Pimlico Race Track, Md., Nov. 5.—Henry L. Straus' Pilaster, a Maryland-bred son of Pilate and Air Cooled, once again proved his supremacy as a distance runner by clipping one and four fifths seconds off the track record to take the ninth running of the Exterminator Handicap, top event here this afternoon.

The homebred gelding traveled the two miles and a sixteenth in 3:39 2/5 over a track still slow from yesterday's rains to hang a neck decision over Mrs. Helene K. Haggerty's Petrol Point.

There were 12,000 fans present to witness Pilaster's victory. He was under highweight of 126 pounds to rack up his third consecutive stakes triumph and sixth straight victory.

Mill River Stable's Miss Grillo, winner of the event in 1946 and runner-up last year, fell back another notch taking down third money some six lengths away. Far in the rear of the four-horse field was Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark's Tea-Maker.

Pilaster was second choice to Miss Grillo in the event which was restricted to straight wagering only. He paid $5.

The "crapshooters" double of "11-7" made up the winning combination this afternoon. The winner of the first event was provided by John A. Manifuso, District resident whose silks were carried to victory in the first race by Astral. The erstwhile stake performer beat 11 $2500 platers to pay $9.60 straight. Coupled with Rough Ordy, winner of the second half of the double, the combination returned a $27.60 daily double.

Brookmeade Stable's Greek Flag won his third steeplechase event of the Maryland fall season by taking the third race. A $4 choice, the consistent 9-year-old gelding fenced faultlessly under Jockey Danny Marzani

IN CLASSIC—Oliver Ellis of Alexandria, Va., is one of the reasons West Virginia State has been going great guns this season. Ellis will be the Mountaineers' spark plug against unbeaten, untied and unscored on Virginia State College, national leader, in tonight's seventh annual Capital classic at Griffith Stadium before a crowd that may go above 20,000.

Va. State Risks Record Here Tonight

Undefeated Virginia State, fighting to stay in the running for the national colored collegiate title, renews a bitter rivalry with West Virginia State tonight at Griffith Stadium.

The seventh annual Capital Classic is expected to draw more than 20,000 spectators.

In three meetings the teams have each won once and tied. West Virginia State lost only to Union, 10-7, but recently routed Bluefield, 39-0. Virginia State beat Union, 7-0, but was able to gain only a 14-0 triumph over Bluefield.

Virginia State's squad includes 12 former area high school stars and the West Virginians will start Oliver Ellis, fullback from Alexandria's Parker-Gray High, and Jack Taylor, of Cardozo.

Ted Vassar, West Virginia State's All-CIAA end, is a dangerous offensive threat to the Virginians.

A sprightly halftime show, costing $2000, will pep up proceedings. Activity will include lighted musical units, ballet by dimout, drum majorettes, a huge Trojan horse, fireworks and a few surprise features.

Howard Plays At Hampton, Va.

Hampton, Va., Nov. 5.—Howard University's football team will be in its third homecoming game in as many weeks today when it plays Hampton Institute at Hampton, Va. The Bisons won their own homecomer last week after spoiling Shaw's homecomer the week before.

GW Favored Today Over The Citadel

Charleston, S. C., Nov. 5.—George Washington University assumes the novel role of favorite today when it meets the thrice-beaten Citadel at Hagood Memorial Stadium.

The Colonials, themselves, have lost their best three starts. But they've played in faster company than their Bulldog hosts. And they are in the sharpest physical condition since the season opened.

They'll be whipped along, no doubt, by the knowledge that a victory today would be especially precious to three members of the G. W. coaching staff.

Head Coach Bo Rowland and his line assistant, Bo Sherman, served a two-year coaching hitch at The Citadel beginning in 1941. Their brightest star there was Halfback Andy Victor, who is now backfield coach on the G. W. staff.

This is the fifth meeting of the two schools since 1934, G. W. having won three. The last time they met, G. W. won, 18-0, in 1946. The only time The Citadel prevailed was in 1942, when Rowland's team won, 4-2. Victor scored a touchdown and kicked two extra points against G. W. in that game.

Halfback Andy Davis, Washington, D. C., freshman, who ranks sixth in total offense across the land, will carry most of G. W.'s attack. He will be abetted by Joe Buell, a passer, and Dick Koester, Bill Spangler and Jimmy Kline, runners.

Back in the Colonial line-up after two weeks' absence due to injuries will be Tackles Joe Feula and Harvey Shipman, Guard Howie Deiderich and End Bill Szanyi, all regulars.

But Jayvees Lose

Middie 150's Romp, 33-0, Over Tigers

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 5 (AP).—Navy's Mighty Midgets dynamited Princeton today, 33-0, to seize an unchallenged lead in the Eastern intercollegiate 150-pound football league.

The Middie lightweights' perfect record over a three-year span was never imperiled as they won their fifteenth straight. The Princeton 150s, who enjoyed a spotless season until this afternoon, could penetrate no deeper than the Navy 37-yard stripe, and had to wait until the last time they had the ball to go that far.

Jayvees Lose

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 5 (AP).—Cashing in a long pass and two broken field runs, Penn's junior varsity football team trounced the Navy Jayvees today, 18 to 0.

Big Saturday

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 5 (AP).—Navys' promising Plebes put their undefeated football record on the line tomorrow when Admiral Farragut Academy sends its capable eleven down from Pine Beach, N. J.

In soccer, the Middie varsity and Plebe elevens face Yale, and the Plebe second team plays Mercersburg (Pa.) Academy. The Jayvee booters take on Salisbury Teachers College, and the Plebe cross-countrymen run against Mercersburg.

In the only other event away from home, nine Midshipmen will sail in the Schell trophy regatta on Boston's Charles River. Two crews will man 12-foot class B dinghies in each race of a two-day series for sailormen from East Coast colleges.

Little Generals Blank Danville

Jack Gilfillan had something to do with all three of Washington-Lee High's touchdowns last night as it rolled over George Washington High of Danville, Va., 20-0, on the nearby Arlington gridiron.

Approximately 3500 fans saw the Little Generals chalk up their fifth straight shutout and their sixth triumph in eight games this season.

A Gilfillan-to-Eddie-Fowler pass, good for 60 yards, opened the scoring in the first period. Gilfillan took a lateral and raced 56 yards for a touchdown early in the final stanza, then capped a sustained drive with a 1-yard plunge for a 6-pointer as the game ended.

Eppie Riddle kicked the extra point on the first two scores.

Warren County High

Front Royal, Nov. 5 (AP).—Warren County High School defeated Perry McClure High School of Buena Vista by a score of 28 to 12. It was Warren's fifth victory in eight games and third win in four conference contests.

Warren scored 7 in first quarter, 7 in second quarter and 14 in fourth quarter. Buena Vista's scores both came in third quarter.

G. W. 38-13 Victor

Upperville Horse Wins 4th Blue Ribbon

By Austin Bealmear

New York, Nov. 5 (AP).—Adventure, fast becoming the sensation of the sixtieth National Horse Show, won his fourth blue ribbon in five appearances tonight and took over the leads in the scramble for both the open and young hunter championships.

Only 4 years old, the chestnut gelding from the Llangollen Farms at Upperville, Va., whipped seven other middleweights in an event in which performance counted 60 per cent with the judges, conformation 40 per cent.

The star of Mrs. E. Cooper Person's Llangollen string thus moved to the front in the scoring toward the conformation title with 12½ points, 5 more than Copperfield.

A crowd of some 12,000 in Madison Square Garden watched Ellie Wood Keith ride Adventure to his fourth blue ribbon, two of which have been attained in competition with older, more experienced fox-chasers. He also holds the lead among hunters with 7½ points.

Third place went to Portmaker, the star of Dr. and Mrs. Albin I. Kay's Bethesda, Md., stables, who won the open jumper title in 1946 and was reserve champion last year. Portmaker and Bright Light now are tied for third behind Copperfield with 7 points each.

The day's major upset came when Icecapade, a 9-year-old grey mare from the Charlottesville, Va., barns of Mrs. Page Jennings, scored a surprise triumph in the lady's open hunter competition for the William F. Wharton Memorial challenge trophy.

Second place went to Her Time, a bay mare owned by August A. Busch, jr., of Afton Mo. Adventure, a 4-year-old exhibited by the Llangollen Farms of Upperville, Va., was third after taking blue ribbons on his three previous appearances.

Spain Paces B-CC's Win

"Hurlin' Herbie" Spain pitched four touchdowns as he paced undefeated, once-tied Bethesda-Chevy Chase to a 33-7 victory over Sidwell Friends yesterday at Friends.

Wally Young, Roddy Ware, Dick Beckwith and Robert Taylor were recipients of Spain's scoring heaves. Young added a fifth touchdown to Bethesda's total by intercepting a lateral and racing 70 yards in the fourth quarter.

It was a costly loss for Friends. Center Jack Stimson fractured his collarbone and will be out of the lineup for the rest of the season.

Montgomery-Blair Beats Frederick, 39-7

Frederick, Md., Nov. 5 (AP).—Montgomery Blair High School's aggregation rolled up a 32-point lead in the first two periods today to coast to a 39-7 triumph over Frederick High.

Frederick rallied in the final two period to hold Montgomery Blair on even terms, but the damage had already been done by Larrimore and Luckett, who got two touchdowns each. Larrimore, a speedy end, snagged two passes for dashes into the end zone and Luckett ran around the Frederick ends twice into pay dirt.

Frederick's lone tally came in the third period when Ed Hall climaxed a sustained drive by going 11 yards off tackle.

Frederick	0	0	7	0	7
Montgomery Blair	12	20	7	0	39

Touchdowns—Theobell, Larrimore (2), Luckett (2), Ness, Hall. Points after touchdowns—Luckett to Larrimore, 2 (passes); Luckett to Richards (pass), Cadle (placement).

Rockville Victor, 13-0

Richard Montgomery High of Rockville scored on two long runs in the first half to defeat Sherwood, 13-0, yesterday at Sherwood.

A 48-yard runback with an intercepted pass by Upton Grant in the first quarter, and a 40-yard sprint by Bobby Briscoe in the second netted the touchdowns. Dallas Cooper converted after the second touchdown.

Touchdowns—Grant, Brissoe. Conversion—Cooper.

Harper's Ferry Romps

Harper's Ferry, W. Va., Nov. 5.—Harper's Ferry High won, 33-0, today over visiting Herndon, Va. in a wild football game from which several players were banished for fisticuffs.

Jimmy Wiltshire, the Harper's Ferry fullback, accounted for 24 of his team's points, running for two touchdowns himself and passing for two others.

Harper's Ferry	0	6	13	14	33

Touchdowns—Wiltshire (2), D'Angelo, Moler, Morgan. Extra points—Morgan (3).

Lane Trips Fairfax

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 5.—Taking advantage of a Fairfax High fumble in the final period, Lane High gridmen tonight marched to a 7-0 victory in a Class A Conference game here.

The deciding play was Herring's pass to Shipp, good for 35 yards and the winning touchdown. Harvey kicked the extra point.

Georgetown Beats N. Y. U.

Dick Barba went for a first down on the NYU one.

Before Raba's paoff pitch, Johnny Hughes took a punt on his 28 and handed it off to Kivus. The Minnesotan cleverly went 41 yards to NYU's 31. Raba took over then and Benigni made his usual neat catch.

What little excitement there was in the first half was nullified by the zealous officials. NYU struck with a lightning 80-yard pass play from Jerry Eiseman to George Lorentz, a fleet end, in the first quarter. An offsides penalty made it just a pretty thing to watch.

Things evened up, though, in the second period when Soph Dick Barba, filling in for the injured Billy Conn, had a 74-year dash to the end zone recalled. Nobody laid a hand on Barba on that one, but the ref ruled that the Hoyas held before the thrilling run started.

Statistically, the game was practically even. N.Y.U's undermanned squad repeatedly stopped the Hoyas in a manner that makes it rather frightening to contemplate next Friday night's game with powerful Villanova.

Cancer Clinic May Be Built

A new, $1,250,000 cancer hospital and research center may be built and operated here by George Washington University and its affiliated Warwick Memorial Clinic, it was learned yesterday.

The structure, still in a "rough draft," planning stage, would be erected at 23d st. and Washington Circle, just across 23d st. from the university's new hospital opened last March.

Construction costs are to be financed largely by Warwick Memorial Clinic with the university contributing the land, its triangular block of ground on the site of the recently razed St. Ann's Infant Asylum, officials said.

The preliminary plans provide for construction of three separate or connected buildings on the tract. One would serve as new quarters for the clinic and its out-patient service; the second would be a hospital with beds, for specially selected cancer patients admitted for study, and the third would be an isotopes building.

Both the hospital unit and the isotopes building would be specially designed and constructed to minimize radiation dangers to patients, physicians and laboratory workers. Atomic-modern safeguards would include separate supply and sewage disposal systems, and scientifically protected isolation rooms and laboratories.

Planned more for research than hospitalization, the center would accomodate only a minimal number of cancer beds, it was said.

Although it had been announced previously that the Warwick Clinic would lease some of the ground and erect new quarters there, the overall project was not contemplated until recently, authorities said. Much of the planning hinges on availability of Federal grants, they said.

Rumors Confirmed

Rumors of the project were confirmed yesterday by Dr. Cloyd H. Marvin, GWU president, and Dr. Walter A. Bloedorn, dean of the university's medical school. Both stated, however, that the planning was in an early stage and any announcement would be premature. A special committee to facilitate the planning was only recently formed they said.

Any construction, Dr. Bloedorn said, would necessarily conform to the architecture of GWU Hospital, with which its activities would be coordinated.

Warwick Memorial Clinic now operates six examination rooms for out-patient cancer cases in quarters of the old University hospital, at 1339 H st. nw. Besides the examination rooms, two cancer beds for day care of patients under treatment are provided.

'Penny Kiss' Coaxer, 75, Slain in Jail

Sharpsburg, Pa., Nov. 5 (AP).—An aged ragpicker jailed for coaxing a 5-year-old girl into giving him a "kiss for a penny" paid with his life today in his cell. The child's enraged father shot him.

Police Sergeant Robert Antelli said William Moore, 75, one-legged ragpicker, was killed by Nicholas Antico, 37, ailing bartender.

Antelli gave this version of the tragedy:

Antico burst into the jail and asked brusquely:

Antelli nodded toward the cell block. Antico brushed by him and confronted Moore. The aged man lay on a bunk, his hands clasped behind his head.

"Are you the man who raped my little girl?" Antelli heard Antico ask.

"I didn't rape her. I only kissed her," Moore replied.

Then Antico called to the sergeant:

"Hey, Bob, come back here. I want you to witness this."

Alarmed, Antelli ran back. But he was too late. Two shots rang out. Moore fell dead of heart wounds. Antico calmly turned over the pistol to Antelli.

Johnston Wants U. S. to Pay Fourth or More of D. C. Costs

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

Senator Olin D. Johnston (D., S. C.) yesterday said the Federal Government should pay 25 per cent or more of the annual costs of District government.

While no such scale of Federal payments to the District has been seriously considered by any recent Congress, Senator Johnston declared, "I'm very much interested in having the District get a proper amount of help from the Federal Government. The Federal Government should bear at least 25 per cent or more of the burden of carrying on the city government."

Senator Johnston could become chairman of the Senate District Committee, although he may take the chairmanship of the Senate Civil Service Committee. He told a press conference he had not yet decided which to take. He was reported leaning to the Civil Service position.

Senator Spessard L. Holland (D., Fla.) is next in line for the District chairmanship.

On the question of Federal payments to the District, Senator Johnston pointed out that the District is now receiving a 12-million-dollar annual grant. Since the current budget is close to 100 million, a 25 per cent Federal payment would give more than twice as much as the District now gets.

Senator Johnston declared Republicans were to blame for having failed to give District employes the same pay raise this year that Federal employes got. He said District employes should have been given the raise, because they deserved it. The pay raise was tied to the sales tax last summer and both were rejected in the Senate after a sales tax passed the House.

Johnston said he favored giving the District employes their pay raises, retroactive to July of this year.

Senator Johnston said a 25 per cent Federal contribution toward District expenses should be the first approach to problems of District revenue. Before any new taxes are put on here, he said, there should be a thorough study of the revenue question.

On the question of home rule for Washington, Senator Johnston said, "I've always been against that. In this Congress, there is no chance of that ever coming up, as I see it."

He pointed out that the expected next chairman of the House District Committee, Representative John L. McMillan (D., S. C.) opposed home rule.

Whether he takes the Senate District chairmanship or not, Senator Johnston said he had decided to keep his membership on the District Committee.

Senator Johnston predicted there would be an improved chance in the new Congress for appropriations to finance a start on the long-stymied District slum-clearance and urban redevelopment program. The program was authorized by Congress two years ago, but appropriations to get it started were severely trimmed in 1947 and eliminated entirely this year.

He said, too, there might be a better chance in the next Congress to authorize Federal grants for improvement of Washington hospitals. A proposal along this line was sidetracked in the current Congress.

A question was raised about what should be done to finance the city government if Congress should decide against a 25 per cent Federal contribution. The Senator was asked about the idea of letting the city borrow for long-range improvements:

"I wouldn't object to that," Senator Johnston commented. "I think the Federal Government could lend to the District. All cities and States in the United States do have bond issues for permanent improvements, and I don't see why the City of Washton should not do the same thing to a limited degree. But I think certainly the District should have a smaller limit on borrowing than the usual limitation, and more help from the Government."

D. C. Divorcee Shot to Death

cinct responded in Scout Car 141 to the Lily Ponds dr. address. As they entered the house, Jackson dropped his driver's permit and they saw it and recognized his name as that of the man sought for murder.

Body Removed to Morgue

Mrs. Frei was pronounced dead at the scene by a Gallinger Hospital ambulance surgeon. The body was removed to the morgue.

Police said they understood the dead woman was a niece of Jackson through marriage, that he had been living in her house for the past few weeks during which time they quarreled continuously.

The son related, police said, that his mother had become frightened of Jackson and had completed plans to sell her house and move her furniture. She was all packed and was to have moved today. The son said he had come to the house to assist her.

Police were unable to gain much information from Jackson. He said he was 41, born in Casper, Wyo., in 1907—but police declared he looked to be more than 50.

Jackson is short and slender, has thinning hair and a prominent nose and wears glasses.

They were found slain April 14, 1946, on a road outside Texarkana.

Earlier, Richard Griffin, 29, and Polly Ann Moore, 17, had been slain. They were the first deaths in the grim series. In May, Virgil Stark, 36, was shot to death in his farm home and his wife was shot and wounded seriously.

Youth Held In Slaying

New York, Nov. 5 (AP).—A Canadian businessman was found beaten to death in the fashionable Waldorf-Astoria Hotel today and less than 12 hours later police said they had a confession from a 19-year-old salesman.

Assistant District Attorney George Monaghan said tonight the salesman, Ralph Edmund Barrows, had admitted "full participation" in the fatal beating of Cameron MacKellar, 56-year-old textile company official.

Barrows, 6 feet tall, dark-haired and well-dressed, was being held at a police station for further questioning.

Monaghan said there was "no question" that police had the right man.

Police said Barrows was traced by a match-book cover found on the floor of MacKellar's suite.

Weather Report: It Rained Confetti— As the clock in the tower of the old Postoffice Building, 11th st. and Pennsylvania ave., showed 11:45 o'clock, a rain of confetti descended on President Truman's victory caravan. Well-wishers stood eight-deep on the side walks to watch and cheer Mr. Truman and Vice President-elect Alb en W. Barkley, who rode in an open car, to acknowledge the ovation

Text of Mr. Truman's Talk At the White House

Speaking from the main White House entrance on Pennsylvania avenue, President Truman thanked Washington for an "overwhelming" welcome home. His text follows:

THANK YOU VERY MUCH. I can't tell you how very much I appreciate this warm and cordial welcome of the Capital City of the greatest Nation on earth. It is overwhelming. It makes a man study and wonder whether he is worthy of the confidence, worthy of the responsibility which has been thrust upon him.

I will say this to you, that I expect to work just at hard as I ever have, and to do it to the best of my ability.

I am happy to say that I will have cooperation and help, because we have got one of the greatest Vice Presidents the country has ever had, and a great leader in the Senate and in the House. One of the great legislators of all time is the Vice President. That is one of the luckiest things a man can have when he has this tremendous job.

I SHALL LOOK forward to the help and cooperation of all the people, because we are faced with great issues now, which I think we can bring to a successful conclusion. At least, we will do everything in our power to bring them to a successful conclusion.

I want to say that I thank the turn-out of the great many people here in this great Capital City. I have been in Mexico City and Rio de Janeiro, and Ottawa, Canada, nearly all the capitals of the United States, and all the great cities on this last campaign, and no turn-out has been better than this one, or more enthusiastic.

I can't tell you how much I appreciate it. I thank you from the bottom of my heart.

Home Again— After completing his "Thank you" address to the throng in Lafayette Square, President Truman (right) turned from the approving thousands, grasped Alben Barkley by the arm and walked into the White House with his running mate. On the steps of the Executive Mansion to applaud the Democratic victors were (from left) John Russell Young; Charles Stofberg, special assistant to Young; Melvin Hildreth, Democratic National Committeeman for the District, and Commissioner Guy Mason

Pay Offer 'Reluctantly' Accepted for Phone Union

3500 to Vote on Previously Rejected Increase; Second Group Holds Out

Representatives of some 3500 Washington area telephone plant, accounting and commercial workers reluctantly accepted a previously rejected company wage boost yesterday while the telephone operators' union here firmly rejected it again.

Acceptance of the offer by one segment of the phone employes broke a long stalemate in negotiations. While dubbing it "entirely unsatisfactory," Glenn Watts, president of Division 36, Communications Workers of America explained, "Under the present circumstances, we felt we could not do any better."

Mary Gannon, president of Division 50 (CWA), covering some 3000 area operators, said of the offer: "We're certainly not going to take it."

The agreement between representatives of Division 36 and the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co., was swiftly approved by CWA's international executive board here. It still awaits final approval of the membership, however. A meeting has been set for Tuesday in Turner's Arena for membership action.

Yesterday's agreement, overwhelmingly rejected by union officials at the close of a 30-day bargaining period October 14, provides an average weekly wage boost of $4.11 or about 10 cents an hour. A breakdown by wage groups:

Those earning up to $29, $1, 19 persons; $30 to $43, 2, 790; $44 to $57, $3, 931; $58 to $65, $4, 208; $66 to $73, $5, 340; $74 and over, $6, 1330.

Union President Watts called the settlement a 'shocking discrimination against low wage earners who have been hardest hit by the increases in the cost of living." He accused the company of passing up an "opportunity to enter an era of good employe relations by their stubborn determination to have their own way."

A company official said the agreement, reached under provision of a wage reopening clause in the current contract, will become effective after approved by the membership.

F. G. Macarow, vice president and general manager, said the agreement is "in line with the company's policy to pay wages that compare favorably with those paid by other businesses in Washington for work requiring similar skills and training."

Trade Board To Fete New Congressmen

The Washington Board of Trade yesterday sent congratulatory telegrams to more than 100 newly elected members of Congress, and announced plans for a "Welcome to Washington" dinner.

Newcomers to Congress and members of the congressional district committees will be guests of honor at the banquet, to be held January 4 at the Shoreham Hotel, the day after the 81st Congress convenes.

The message of congratulations was signed by Leon Chatelain, jr., president of the Board of Trade. It said:

"In behalf of the Washington Board of Trade, an organization of 8000 business, professional and civic leaders of the Nation's Capital, I send you congratulations upon your election. We look forward to welcoming you in Washington. If we can be of service, please advise us."

Chatelain also sent congratulatory telegrams to members of Congress who were reelected November 2, expressing thanks for "the opportunity for continued cooperation respecting District of Columbia affairs."

Man Struck By Bus Dies Of Injuries

D. C. traffic deaths this year 56
Deaths this date last year.. 62
Total deaths in D. C. last year 72

The District's traffic toll for 1948 mounted to 56 yesterday with the death of William C. Ridenour, 73, at Emergency Hospital.

Ridenour, who lived at 1417 Potomac ave. se., was struck by a Capital Transit bus the night of October 7 at 15th st. and Potomac ave. se. The accident happened as the bus turned left into 15th st. from Potomac ave.

Police have identified the operator of the bus as Henry N. Wynkoop, jr., 21, of 405 10th st. ne. He will appear at a coroner's inquest Monday at 11:30 a. m. in the morgue.

John B. Reed, 68, of 3000 39th st. nw., was taken to Georgetown University Hospital in undetermined condition with a fractured left hip at 1 p. m. yesterday after he was struck by an automobile in the 2100 block of Rhode Island ave. nw.

Police said the driver, John R. McCall, 33, of 1009 Rhode Island ave. nw., was charged with failing to yield the right of way to a pedestrian.

Bernard H. Snowden, jr., 27, of 4627 Benning rd. se., suffered chest injuries when the car he was driving collided with a parked truck in the 400 block of 4th st. sw. Police said Snowden fell asleep at the wheel. He was reported in good condition at Gallinger Hospital.

Several passengers were shaken up but none required hospital treatment when two southbound streetcars collided at 8:05 a. m. yesterday at Thomas Circle.

Police said a streetcar operated by Robert L. Wilkins, 33, of 1733 L st. nw., rammed the rear of one operated by Willard F. Marshall, 36, of 4608 Iowa ave. nw.

Police Private John E. Sobolewski, 39, of the Traffic Division, was injured last night when his motorcycle swerved into a tree at 26th st. and Virginia ave. nw. after the front wheel hit a stone in the street.

Man Is Acquitted In Fatal Stabbing

John Calvin, 38, of 1125 7th st. nw., was acquitted yesterday before Judge Richmond B. Keech of District Court of a charge of second-degree murder in the fatal stabbing of James R. Mills, 29, of 1023 8th st. nw. Calvin's attorney, Wesley S. Williams, presented a case of self-defense for his client.

$27,000 Theft

Spiritualist Is Convicted In Bank Case

Madame Yvonne, Washington spiritualist, last night was found guilty of grand larceny in the theft of $27,000 from the First National Bank of Alexandria in June 1947. She was sentenced to serve four years in the penitentiary.

A jury in the Alexandria Corporation Court brought in the verdict and recommended the four-year sentence after deliberating only 30 minutes.

A defense motion that the verdict be set aside as contrary to the law and the evidence will be argued November 15. The woman was freed on $7500 bond.

About $18,000 in cash has never been recovered, although police did recover $9000 in checks.

The money apparently has been passed around like a football.

David Briggs, former janitor at the bank, admitted stealing the money originally from a night depository. He is currently serving an eight-year term for the theft, in the Virginia State Penitentiary.

Briggs yesterday testified that after throwing the checks away, he hid the cash in his piano. He told the court the money disappeared and that a few days later Madame Yvonne suggested he go away and gave his wife $50 for his train fare.

Mrs. Briggs told the court she found the money package in the piano and that she told Madame Yvonne she had something she wanted to show her.

That night, she said, Madame Yvonne (Mrs. Eulalia Matthews, 3944 Benning rd. ne.) and Madam Yvonne's husband, James, went to Alexandria. Mrs. Briggs testified that the spiritualist visited neighbors, while Matthews took the money package from the piano and put it into his car. Mrs. Briggs said that was the last she saw of the loot.

(Matthews is now serving 30 years in Lorton Reformatory for rape—Editor's note.)

On the witness stand, Madame Yvonne admitted being present when her husband put the package in the car, but she claimed she didn't know what was in it.

She said when they arrived home, Matthews spread the money out on the bed. She said that, after reading of the bank robbery, she asked her husband about it, but that he told her not to worry. She denied she received any of the loot.

Commonwealth's Attorney Howard W. Smith, jr., brought out evidence to show the woman blossomed out in a period of prosperity after the robbery. She suddenly acquired a "large bank balance and new clothing," he said.

Man With 2 Wives Nearly Year Back to Simple Life With No.1

An undertaker's assistant who divided his time between two wives here for nearly a year before they found it out was back with Wife No. 1 last night.

The second wife of Robert Osborne, 55, was granted an annulment Thursday by Associate Judge Patrick M. Schnauffer in Equity Court at Frederick, Md., and Osborne was free to return to his first wife when the second wife refused to press a bigamy charge.

Osborne's first wife was Miss Dora Fox before their marriage in Baltimore August 30, 1941. She is 53, slender and gray haired. They have lived for some time at Apartment 109, 6020 13th pl. nw. Wife No. 2 was Mrs. Virginia Allen Fox, widow of Burke Fox, sr. Her natural auburn hair and blue eyes belie her 45 years and the fact she is a grandmother.

The former Mrs. Fox, who had never heard of the former Miss Fox until last July, married Osborne in Frederick, September 17, 1947. She lives at 1420 Girard st. nw., 3 miles south of the 13th pl. address.

Osborne, tall, heavy-set, wearing glasses and with a crescent of thin, white hair saving him from complete baldness, let Wife No. 1 speak for him last night in their tastefully furnished 13th pl. apartment.

"Mr. Osborne has been ill for a long time," said Mrs. Osborne. "He had been drinking heavily and didn't realize what he was doing when he married the second time. He was not responsible for what he did—he didn't know he was doing anything wrong. He works for an undertaker, but he is still a sick man."

Former Wife No. 2 indicated surprise when she learned Osborne was back living with Wife No. 1. She was indignant when told that Wife No. 1 said Osborne was drinking heavily at the time she married him.

"Drinking!" she said. "I never knew him to be a heavy drinker, or I would not have married him. I knew him as a decent gentleman. I have a position that's important to me, I have two fine children, I am even a grandmother, and I certainly would not marry a man who drank heavily.

"I had no idea, of course, he was already married. The annulment cost me considerable and I refused to prosecute because it would do no good and I wanted the whole thing dropped as quickly and quietly as possible. This has been a terrible embarrassment!"

Both wives told the court examiner at Frederick they learned of Osborne's dual marriage when wife No. 1 became suspicious over his nocturnal absences. He told her he worked nights for an undertaker. One night she phoned him there and was told he was not working. Later she followed him to the Girard st. residence, she testified.

The second wife testified she learned of her husband's previous marriage when wife No. 1 came to her and inquired about Osborne's attentions to her. Both said their husband had been unemployed over a period of time and finally, last spring, got a job with an undertaker.

Sneed Given 13 to 40 Years For Basement Rape Attempt

A 13-to-40-year prison term was given yesterday to Calvin J. Sneed, 21, of Oxon Hill, Md., who was convicted in District Court of breaking into the basement laundry room of a Southwest Washington apartment house and attempting to rape a 32-year-old housewife there.

The sentence was imposed by Judge Henry A Schweinhaut. He gave Sneed 5 to 15 years for the attempted rape, 5 to 15 years for housebreaking and another 3 to 10 years for assaulting the woman with a monkey wrench.

In another case, Cleveland Sheard, 22, of 321 Virginia ave. sw., was given 5 to 15 years prison for assault with intent to kill Fred J. Crenshaw, 66, of 1429 B st. ne. According to the evidence, Crenshaw, a Capitol policeman, arrested Sheard for disorderly conduct and the defendant drew a pistol from his belt and shot Crenshaw twice.

Mrs. Elizabeth Simmons, 38, of 742 50th st. ne., who pleaded guilty to operating a numbers lottery here, was given two to six months in jail by Judge David A. Pine.

Another numbers writer, Bessie J. Fields, of 1115 6th st. nw. was fined $50 and given a probation term. A third, Joseph Robinson, 43, of 1433 S st. nw., was found innocent in the case.

James A. Alford, 40, of 153 L st. se., was given 5 to 15 years prison for assault with intent to have carnal relations with a 6-year-old girl. Charged with attempted carnal relations with a 14-year-old girl, William Wright, 19, 334 I st. se., was given one to three years in prison.

Maurice Johnson, 25, of 1221 Wiley st. ne., was given three to nine years in prison for the $1687 robbery of Aaron A. Selis, junk dealer, of 1125 1st st. nw.

New Maneuver

Jury to Act In Numbers Cases Here

Defense attorneys' recent protests that the United States Attorney's office was violating defendants' rights in handling numbers cases backfired on them yesterday.

In eight Municipal Court cases the Government declined to request continuances to give the grand jury a crack at them first.

Yet the defense lost in each case.

The defense attorneys have claimed that the Government, in repeatedly asking continuances, has deprived the defendants of a right to a preliminary hearing determining validity of the arrest and whether there is cause to hold the defendants for the grand jury.

Defendants Listed

The defendants and disposition of their cases follow:

Carolyn C. Kelley, 35, 941 Westminster st. nw., and Oliva Cooper, 42, of 66 T st. nw., were held for the grand jury under $1000 bond in connection with alleged activity in a numbers ring operating out of Children's Hospital.

James R. Rivers, 31, 1828 T st. nw., and James C. LeSeur, 41, 1022 7th st. nw., were held under $1000 bond on lottery operation charges.

Jury trials on December 7 were granted the following who were charged with numbers slips possession:

John D. Worthey, 38, 2424 17th st. nw.; Schuyler Wilson, 29, 2655 41st st. nw., and Walter S. Lephfew, 43, of the 31st st. nw. address.

In the eighth case the defendant himself requested and received a continuance until November 9. He is Raleigh E. Walker, 30, of 3 K st. nw.

Arkansas Ave. Citizens Elect Mrs. Telford

Mrs. Mae Telford, of Olney, Md., has been elected president of the Arkansas Avenue Community Citizens Association, succeeding Frank H. Gauss.

Others elected at the meeting Thursday night at the Burdick School, 13th and Allison sts. nw., were: G. H. Collingwood, first vice president; Mrs. John Robbins, second vice president; Henry Rhodes, third vice president; Mrs. Frank Schertz, secretary; Mrs. Isabel Thompson, assistant secretary; George Berger, treasurer; Mrs. Betty Youngman, assistant treasurer; S. Gatti, Theodore Lewis and Mrs. Ruth Ivins, executive committee, and E. E. Brown and Clifford H. Newell, delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

New Entrance To Monument Being Studied

Redesigning of the entrance and interior of the Washington Monument is being studied, Gilmore D. Clarke, Fine Arts Commission chairman, disclosed yesterday.

Clarke, speaking at a closing session of the two-day annual meeting of the National Council for Historic Sites and Buildings in the National Gallery of Fine Arts, also described what is being done in official circles for preservation of the Capitol Building and Great Falls.

Must be "Completely Redesigned"

After describing plans of the Commission of Fine Arts and the National Capital Park and Planning Commission for improving the setting of the Washington Monument, Clarke said the memorial "will never possess the full dignity it deserves" until the entrance is completely redesigned.

"At present one passes through a commonplace bronze gate, thence through a wooden revolving door and, upon crossing the threshold, finds an enclosed elevator shaft which takes up a large part of the 25-foot square space within the thick walls of the monument," he said.

"At one side of the elevator shaft iron fire escape-type stairs indicate that stout-hearted souls may walk to the top of the obelisk, on the other side wooden benches line the walls where visitors await the next trip of the elevator," he said.

Clarke said "the space reminded me of a waiting room at Ellis Island or of the New York subway."

Like Great Falls As It Is

Redesigning of the entrance and interior was suggested by the commission's sculptor member, Lee Lawrie, Clarke said, and the commission as acting on it.

Clarke repeated the commission's wish that the Great Falls park be left in its present natural state and no dam be constructed on the Potomac that would threaten it.

He said plans for remodeling the legislative chambers of the Capitol have been completed and the treatment would be in keeping with "the architecture of the Early Republic."

In connection with the meeting of the National Council the Library of Congress has placed on exhibit photographs of early American building and historic sites by Miss Frances Benjamin Johnston, a pioneer woman photographer. The exhibit will close December 15.

Beloff Wins Divorce, Gets Custody of Daughter

Mrs. Beloff Denied Maintenance But Her Lawyer Will Receive $2000 Fee

Simon Beloff, 67, well-to-do Washington real estate dealer, yesterday was awarded an absolute divorce from his 31-year-old brunette wife, Mary, on grounds of adultery.

District Court Judge F. Dickinson Letts also gave Beloff custody of the couple's 4-year-old daughter, Sylvia.

Mrs. Beloff was not in court yesterday. She was suffering from a nervous breakdown and was confined to bed, her attorney, Edward J. Reamer, told reporters.

"It is always unpleasant to find a wife and mother guilty of adultery," Letts said, "but I have no other course. The charge has been proved by a preponderance of evidence and to the satisfaction of the court. That being so, custody of the child is awarded to Mr. Beloff."

The judge said that the mother may see the child at reasonable intervals and may intermittently take the little girl out of the presence of the father.

Judge Letts denied maintenance for Mrs. Beloff despite a comment by her attorney that the verdict taking away the child would probably "be the death of her."

Beloff smiled broadly when the verdict was announced. A chuckle, however, faded abruptly when the judge ruled that the real estate man would have to pay a $2000 fee due his wife's attorney, Reamer.

The men, who previously had clashed over policies at Tifereth Israel Congregation had been on frigid terms during the trial.

The seven-day trial was highlighted by testimony that Beloff had spread lime about the residence of his estranged wife at 1351 Spring rd. nw., to follow the footprints of her alleged lover, Leon Spivak, 40, of 1614 Longfellow st. nw., named as co-respondent.

Other testimony was that Spivak had visited her at her home and had given her gifts of a bottle of Chi-Chi perfume and a gold wedding band.

A suit brought previously by Mrs. Beloff charging cruelty had been dismissed.

Still pending is a $100,000 alienation of affections suit brought by Beloff against Spivak, who is also in the real estate business here. Also pending is a limited divorce suit filed by Mrs. Evelyn Spivak against her husband charging desertion.

Mental Care Recommended For Alexander

Commitment to a mental institution was recommended yesterday for Herbert D. Alexander, jr., 23, who strangled his wife and 18-month-old daughter October 22 in their apartment at 3908 Elbert ave., Alexandria.

The recommendation was made by a panel of three doctors who had been appointed by Judge James R. Duncan of Alexandria Police Court to examine the young Navy veteran.

In their report to Judge Duncan, Drs. James Gooch, Thomas Lucas and John S. Roberts said they were agreed that Alexander is now insane and was insane at the time of the murders. They recommended that he be placed in an institution for the criminally insane.

The recommendation was satisfactory to both the Commonwealth's Attorney's office and T. Reginald Dyson, attorney appointed by the court to represent Alexander. Judge Duncan said he would announce today at 9 a. m. whether he would accept the recommendation.

If Alexander is committed, he will be sent to the Southwestern State Hospital at Marion, Va.

Area News in Brief

Dog Bites 2, Runs Loose, Wounded

Residents of the Queens Chapel Manor area were alerted last night for a wounded Doberman pinscher dog, shot by police yesterday after it had attacked and severely bitten a woman and her 5-year-old son.

Hyattsville police said Mrs. Ira Farmer, 2805 Jamestown rd., and her son, Ira, jr., were "badly mauled" by the dog, which had been brought home as a pet by Mrs. Farmer's husband on Thursday.

The boy was attacked when he attempted to lead the dog into the yard of his home only a few minutes after his mother had been bitten, and while neighbors were attempting to treat Mrs. Farmer for her injuries.

After the attack on the boy, the dog ran to a heavily wooded area south of Queens Chapel rd., where a dozen Hyattsville and Prince Georges policemen tried to corner it for nearly an hour. The dog was hit once by a pistol shot fired by Prince Georges Police Chief Ralph Brown, but fled into heavy underbrush.

Hyattsville Police Chief Howard Holmes said it had not been determined whether the dog was mad, but cautioned residents of the area that its disposition might have been further affected by the pistol wound.

Man Gets 120 Days

Benjamin Lee, 38, 1070 30th st. nw., was sentenced yesterday to serve 120 days in jail by Judge Thomas D. Quinn for carrying a open knife. Lee was arrested after a dispute with his girl friend, Lillian Morality, 38, of the 30th st. address, who was cut in the abdomen.

Gets 60 Days

Ralph Lumpkin, 21, 1520 7th st. nw., received 60 days in jail yesterday for attempting procuring. According to testimony in Municipal Court he approached three policemen in the Washington Terminal and offered to get them women.

Horses From Peron

President Juan D. Peron yesterday said he would present two Argentine horses to Misses Margaret and Mary Paul Foskett of Washington, D. C. The girls are daughters of Rear Admiral James H. Foskett, head of the United States naval goodwill mission now visiting Buenos Aires.

The President, who had learned the admiral was looking for saddles, told him on receiving him Thursday the two horses will be saddled and ready to ride. They will be shipped to the farm of Mrs. John Kent Kane, West Chester, Pa. Mrs. Kane is the girls' grandmother.

2 Women Sentenced

Mary Mackey, 37, 2270 8th st. nw., and Eleanor Johnson, 36, 2008 Eighth st. nw., were sentenced yesterday to serve 45 days each after they pleaded guilty to stealing five cans of tuna fish and two cans of kippered herring from a Giant Food Store. Sentencing was by Judge Ellen K. Raedy of Municipal Court.

2 Face Charges

Police said another man, Warren New, 28, a cab driver of 9528 Sligo ave., Silver Spring, was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor in a separate incident involving the same girl.

Talbott was released under $1000 bond, and New under $100 bond pending the appearance of both men Tuesday in Silver Spring Police Court, police reported.

Rites Today

Annual Sousa Events Open With Concert

More than 300 persons last night attended a concert in memory of John Philip Sousa, the March King, in Central High School.

Tribute again will be paid the Washington-born band leader and composer, who died in 1932, at 1:30 p. m. today when the Washington Chapter, Sousa Band Fraternal Society, conducts its annual services at his grave in Congressional Cemetery.

Herbert E. C. Weber of the Navy School of Music, chairman of activities for the Washington Chapter, will lead today's memorial service; Oscar Short, soloist with the United States Navy Bands, will render taps, and Dana Garrett will deliver a short address. All three were members of Sousa's Band.

Garrett led the 47-piece band concert last night, which was sponsored by Local 161, American Federation of Musicians, through its recording and transcription and royalty fund. Paul J. Schwarz, president of Local 161, spoke briefly.

Tribute also will be paid to the March King at 8 p.m. Wednesday when the Junior Optimist Bank gives its sixth annual Sousa Memorial Concert at Kramer Junior High School, Andrew Bodnar will conduct and admission will be free.

Hyattsville Girl Crowned Queen Of Guard Carnival

Miss Kennedy

Miss Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donnie P. Kennedy, 6207 Queens Chapel rd., University Park, was crowned by Representative Lansdale Sasscer of Upper Marlboro, guest of honor at last night's "Coronation Night" program. She previously had been selected for the honor by members of the National Guard unit.

The carnival, under way since Monday night, is being staged by the guardsmen to raise funds for equipment and recreational purposes. Featuring a variety of games and entertainment features, it will close tonight with drawings for a television set and other door prizes.

Injured Horse Destroyed

Leroy Day, 41, produce merchant, who was driving the horse hitched to a wagon, was charged with failing to carry lights. Driver of the cab, Louis Macklin, 31, of 1662 40th st. se., was charged with failing to yield the right of way.

Road Opening To Be Marked Here Tonight

Opening of the first of nine modernized gateways leading from Prince Georges County to the District will be observed formally tonight—two weeks behind schedule, as the result of an earlier cancellation due to rain.

The delayed ceremonies are slated for 6:30 p. m. at Queens Chapel rd. and Eastern ave., where a new boulevard-type road link was completed about two weeks ago. The program will be sponsored by the advisory board to the Prince Georges County commissioners, which recently completed plans for beautifying all entrances to the District from the adjacent Maryland county.

The program will include a variety of entertainment and talks by a number of State officials, including Maryland Governor William Preston Lane, jr., State Senator L. Harold Sothoron and Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer. Among other participants will be members of the county legislative delegation, representatives of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and Prince Georges County officials.

Musical entertainment will be provided by the Washington Gas Light Co. band, the Justin Lawree Singers and choral groups from the University of Maryland.

Trio Is Thwarted In Break Attempt At Rockville Jail

The unarmed prisoners were identified by Montgomery County police as Paul R. Dunagan, 23, Glen Echo Heights, Md.; Junior B. Shahan, 28, 2403 Pennsylvania ave. nw., and Thomas S. Carter, 21, Montrose, Md. All were awaiting trial in the November Circuit Court, the former two for housebreaking and larceny, and Carter for larceny.

The escape from the bullpen was accomplished, police said, by prying off a cell door with a hinge from an upper bunk and then forcing a window with the door. The men then dropped 2 feet to the roof.

Five New Cases Of Polio Boost Area Toll to 244

Five new polio cases were reported in Greater Washington yesterday by the health department, raising the year's total of 244, compared with 55 for this date last year.

Three of the cases were in the District. They were a 6-year-old boy from the 400 block 8th st. sw.; a 3-year-old boy from the 300 block of 50th st. ne., both at Gallinger Hospital, and a 26-year-old man from the 4300 block of Lily Ponds dr. ne., at Mount Alto Hospital.

The other two cases were a 24-year-old woman of the 3200 block of N. Albemarle st., Arlington, Va., at Gallinger, and a 24-year-old woman of Fort Belvoir, Va., at Walter Reed Hospital.

Ex-Policeman And 30 Others Given Paroles

Paul L. Barbour, 23, former Hyattsville town policeman who last year pleaded guilty to forgery charges, was one of 31 prisoners paroled yesterday by Maryland's Governor Lane.

Barbour, who forged the name of a friend to checks totaling more than $700, was given an interminate sentence of not more than two years in the Reformatory for Males last December.

Also paroled was Thomas J. Loy, 32, of Chevy Chase, Md., who was convicted in November 1946 in Montgomery County of stealing a ring from his employer.

At the time of his conviction, Loy drew a three-year term in the House of Correction but was placed on probation. The probation was stricken and Loy imprisoned after he was arrested on a drunk driving charge February 20, 1947.

Russell Baldwin, 38, who was convicted last November in Prince Georges County on a charge of indecent exposure. Less than 10 months of his sentence remained.

William E. Bishop, 24, convicted last January in Montgomery County for burglary and sentenced to two years in the House of Correction. He had about 10 months to go.

Charlie B. Helton, 26, convicted last December in Montgomery County of larceny and assault with intent to rob and sentenced to two years and six months in the House of Correction.

Two Apartment Houses Affected By Rental Request

Tyson recommended a 6.55 per cent rise on 93 units at 1301 Vermont ave. nw. Present rents range from $50 a month for two rooms and bath to $82.50 for four rooms and bath. Proposed rents are from $53.50 to $88.

He also proposed a 6.91 per cent rise on 79 apartments at 2101 New Hampshire ave. nw. Present rents range from $41.50 a month for two rooms and bath to $92.50 for five rooms and two. Proposed rents are from $44.50 to $99 a month.

Advance Notice Of Rent Actions Given All Tenants

Notice is given to all tenants in cases where the landlord applies for rent adjustment, Walter R. Heath, area rent director of the Baltimore office of the Housing expediter announced yesterday.

This procedure has been adopted to correct the impression that tenants know nothing about requests for rent increases until they are granted to their landlords, Heath said.

King George Votes On Bonds Today

King George Courthouse, Va., Nov. 5 (Spl.).—King George voters will decide Saturday whether to spend $150,000 toward equalizing Negro and white school facilities in the midst of heated controversy over the issue on several fronts.

If the bond issue is passed, the money will be spent for a new building and other facilities at the county's Negro high school.

The referendum will come on the heels of indications that the Virginia State Supreme Court of Appeals will be asked to review the county school board's action Thursday curtailing the curriculum of the white high school.

Horace T. Morrison, King George Commonwealth's attorney, said he would request a mandamus of the high court next week "if it goes much further." He would not elaborate on the statement.

Morrison did say, however, he was "vigorously opposed to the action of the school board and the circuit judge in dropping subjects from the white school curriculum."

The county school board Thursday dropped four courses from the white high school on advice of Circuit Judge Leon M. Bazile. The move apparently was aimed at equalizing the curricula of the King George Training School (Negro) and the white high school. Morrison said yesterday he thought the judge had taken over the Commonwealth's attorney's function as counsel to the school board. Courses in physics, chemistry, biology and geometry were dropped from the white high school.

Preceding Judge Bazile's recommendation to the school board were these events:

Federal Judge Sterling Hutcheson ordered the school board to bring Negro educational facilities to a par with those of whites in the county. The injunction followed an action by counsel for a group of Negro pupils.

A show-cause order was then issued by the Federal District Court in Richmond, charging the board was in contempt of the injunction after a contempt citation was entered by counsel for the plaintiffs.

Morrison, acting for the board, filed an answer Thursday. In it, the board denied a series of allegations brought by plaintiffs. Morrison asked that the citation be dismissed or the case set for hearing.

Along with dropping the four courses at the white high school, the school board Thursday ordered creation of a ninth grade at the Negro school. It would require promotion of half the present eighth grade pupils. Thus, both white and Negro high schools would have grades 8 through 12.

Gov. Tuck Releases $27,000 For 90 Teacher Scholarships

Richmond, Va., Nov. 5 (AP).—Governor Tuck today released an emergency appropriation of $27,000 to pay for 90 additional teacher scholarships during the current school year.

The Governor said a request for this sum from G. Tyler Miller, State superintendent of public instruction, was one plea for funds he was "especially happy to approve."

After the first 500 applicants for 1948-49 had been cared for, there remained 90 qualified applicants who expressed their willingness to meet the program's requirements—that they enter the Virginia school system as teachers on their graduation.

Virginia Increases State Share in Hospital Funds

Richmond, Va., Nov. 5 (AP).—The State Health Department today revised its figures on State fund allocations for hospital construction, as Governor Tuck gave the program a million dollar shot in the arm.

Acting on the urgent recommendation of a delegation which called on him late yesterday, the Governor released a conditional appropriation of one million for State aid under the Hill-Burton hospital construction plan. The effect of the Governor's action is to raise the State's share of construction costs from 11.5 to 19.27 per cent.

The Health Department's hospital division already had approved applications for construction of 11 hospital projects and three health centers under the previous unconditional appropriation of $1,500,000 made by the 1948 General Assembly. Today the division prepared to notify the affected localities that their shares of total cost will be less, and the State's allocations proportionately higher.

The Governor's action will mean that these sums in State money now will be sent out:

House of Mercy Bazaar Guests Take Tour of Social Agency

By Elizaberth Maguire

CUT flowers, plants, handwork, cakes, candies, antiques and a wide selection of crisp aprons filled tables at the House of Mercy Bazaar held yesterday from 11 to 3 o'clock. Luncheon was served at small tables and a tour of the house was made by the different shoppers.

Members of the Junior Army, Navy Guild Organization served the luncheon tables.

Upstairs were cheerful nurseries, with rows of tiny cribs for babies under a month old—there were twins in one corner—and rows of larger cribs for babies over a month old. The rooms are tastily decorated in pretty colors, and bedrooms for the mothers are similar to rooms in a nice college.

Bishop Attends

The House of Mercy is a charitable institution for unwed mothers. It is under the Episcopal Diocese of Washington, and girls of all denominations are cared for. The Bishop of Washington and Mrs. Angus Dun attended the bazaar early yesterday, staying for luncheon as the guests of Mrs. Arthur MacArthur.

Mrs. Truman was unable to attend the bazaar, as she did not reach the White House until lunch time, and then she had "a thousand things to do," as Mrs. Helm, her secretary, said. The First Lady is greatly interested in the House of Mercy, and yesterday is the first time since she has been in the White House that she has been absent from the opening of the sale at 11 o'clock in the morning. At that hour yesterday, Mrs. Truman was being welcomed at Union Station with the President.

One of the most popular spots at the bazaar was the candy table in charge of Mrs. Donald Bingham. She was assisted by Mrs. Chester Flather and Mrs. William Blair, the new president-elect of the board of the House of Mercy. Mrs. Dwight Chandler was in charge of food and Mrs. Robert Hinckley was vice chairman. Others on the food committee included Mrs. Robert Stead, Mrs. Vance Chapline, Mrs. William E. Chandler, Mrs. Lawrence Jones, Mrs. John F. Shafreth, and Mrs. Arthur Tirrell.

'White Elephants' Sold

At the white elephant table were Mrs. Richard Johnson, Mrs. Philip Israel, Mrs. Harold Wild, Mrs. Russell Jansen and Mrs. William Elliott. Mrs. McCook Knox was in charge of the antique table. Mrs. Roderick Cox and Mrs. Andrew Brown worked at the handwork table, and Mrs. Curtis Steuart was in charge of aprons.

Food for luncheon was taken care of in the kitchen by the ladies from All Souls' Church, under the supervision of Mrs. Julius A. Furer. Mrs. William Blair, Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, Mrs. Donald Bingham and William Blum were among those who gave luncheon parties at the bazaar.

Mrs. Christopher Sargent was in charge of tours of the house, Mrs. Walter Heiberg told fortunes, Mrs. H. H. Sloat chairmaned the flower committee, and Mrs. Wayne Wirgman was in charge of publicity.

. . . former Miss Patterson

Miss Patterson Is Married to L. B. Pusey, Jr.

Mrs. Lewis Barron Pusey, jr., was Miss Charlotte Deal Patterson before her marriage last evening in Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Robert Nelson Patterson of Washington.

She was given in marriage by her uncle, Walter B. Patterson of New York and had her sister, Miss Priscilla Patterson as her maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. William L. Berry and Miss Mary Anne Brown. Charles S. Pusey was best man for his brother and ushers were Rees Gillespie, William Berry, William Stewart and Thomas McKnight.

Mr. Pusey is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Pusey of Bethesda, Md. He and his bride will live in Bethesda.

Mr. Blanchard, Miss Rhodes Repeat Vows

Miss Carolyn Elaine Rhodes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Marion Rhodes of Arlington, Va., was married last evening to Dudley Ferrell Blanchard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carleton W. Blanchard of North Haven, Conn. The Rev. Seth R. Brooks performed the ceremony at the Universalist National Memorial Church and Mr. Rhodes gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride was costumed in an off-the-shoulder gown of white slipper satin, the net yolk edged in Chantilly lace and seed pearls. A headdress of white satin and seed pearls held her veil and she carried gardenias.

The bride was attended by Mrs. James A. Marsteller, matron of honor; Miss Mary Charlotte Duvall, maid of honor, and Mrs. C. Theodore Krug, Mrs. Donald Stevens, Mrs. William Goodman and Mrs. Chester Sepulski, bridesmaids. Edward T. Jones was best man and the ushers were C. Richard Mellor, Donald Stevens, Norman Maconi, Benjamin F. Perkins, Frederick Killam and Richard Malloy. A reception followed at 2 Scott circle.

The newlyweds will make their home in Philadelphia, Pa., on return from their honeymoon through eastern Pennsylvania. Mrs. Blanchard attended Shenandoah College and Conservatory of Music. Her husband, an ensign in the Naval Reserve, is a graduate of Yale University.

Hattie Carnegie Wins Critics' Award For Dress Design

Hattie Carnegie, one of this country's best known fashion designers who began her career as a messenger at Macy's, was given the sixth annual award of the American Fashion Critics Committee on Thursday in New York.

Mayor William O'Dwyer presented the award to Viennese born Miss Carnegie "for her distinguished contributions to the long range development of good taste," in American dress design.

The fashion trophy—a 15-inch figure—was accompanied by a $1000 Government bond. Miss Carnegie said she would contribute the equivalent of the bond to the costume institute of the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Fairway Hills Guild Plans Country Fair

Supper will be served from 5 to 7 p. m., and at 7 an auction is scheduled.

Mrs. Rawley Heads Women For Bond Sale

Mrs. Lindsey P. Rawley, prominent District clubwoman, has been appointed chairman of the Women's Committee of the District of Columbia Savings Bonds Division, U. S. Treasury, according to an announcement this week by Thomas J. Groom, division chairman.

Mrs. Rawley, a Treasury Department volunteer since early in the war, has contributed more than 12,000 hours of her time in promoting the sale of U. S. Savings Bonds. To date sales credited to her activities are estimated by Treasury officials to be in excess of 15 million dollars.

MRS. RAWLEY

A number of Treasury citations have been awarded Mrs. Rawley in recognition of the distinguished service she has rendered the Savings Bond program. The most recent award acknowledged her outstanding efforts in organizing and directing the Washington Women's Bond-a-Month League. The league spearheaded the Security Loan Campaign among women's organizations.

She is a member of the Business and Professional Women's Club, chairman of public relations for the League of Republican Women, D. C., and a board member of the Homeopathic Hospital, Wesley Heights Circle and Florence Crittenton Home.

Princess Margaret's Bare Shoulders Set New Style

London, Nov. 5 (U.P.).—The royal shapely and bare shoulders of pretty Princess Margaret Rose started a lot of talk and a new fashion rush today.

She showed up Monday night at American Comedian Danny Kaye's command performance in a dress which could only be described as low-cut.

"The most spectacularly elegant dress she has ever worn," said a columnist.

"Somewhat daring! shocking!" exclaimed the blue stockings.

While this debate on propriety raged, many a British grl didn't wait for the decision. She rushed to West End shops to catch up with the new low-cut look now sanctioned by royalty.

For Margaret at 18 is Britain's princess of fashion. Court circles say that the Duchess of Kent is grooming her to take over the crown now held by the duchess as the nation's best-dressed woman.

"I am not a leader of fashion and do not want to be," the Queen was quoted as saying when she and Margaret were choosing dresses.

Thanksgiving Dance to Be Nov. 13

By Nicha Soure

CELEBRATING Thanksgiving a wee bit early will be the Illinois State Society with a dance at the Shoreham Hotel November 13. The evening fete will begin at 10 o'clock in the West Ballroom with Dave McWilliams and his orchestra providing the music.

The Thanksgiving flavor will be furnished by the committee on decorations who are Miss Charlotte Marr, Clarence Lahde, Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Karl and Joseph Stonesifer.

Mr. and Mrs. George Jones will be the host and hostess for the evening. Miss Albertina Amizich, who will be assisted by Miss Elsie Green and Mrs. Pauline Randal, is general chairman in charge of the dance.

PENNSYLVANIANS will meet Pennsylvanians by way of the Paul Jones at a dance on November 12. The ever-popular means of changing partners—couples in a circle with gentlemen walking one way and ladies the other, and joining their partner when the music stops—will be featured at the dance.

Dave McWilliams will furnish the music for the Keystone State get-together in the west ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel, 10 p. m. to 1 a. m.

Taking their cue from the success of the past season, the executive board has again authorized limitation of admission to those in formal or evening dresses.

SYRACUSE University music and colors will welcome the alumni and members of the New York State Society at the dance November 13 in the Shoreham Hotel. At the "Syracuse Night Ball" the alumni will be guests of honor.

Formal dress is preferred, though not required, and enlisted men in uniform will be admitted free. Dancing will begin at 9:30 p. m. to the music of Dave McWilliams Orchestra.

For further information, call Miss Dorothy M. Gollinger, secretary, at Kenmore 5004 in the evenings.

THE CONFERENCE of State Society Officers will meet with David Adkins, assistant to the director of the District of Columbia Sesquicentennial, the first part of the week to discuss plans in which the State societies can aid the celebration of the 150 year anniversary of the establishment of Washington as the Capitol City to be held in 1950.

Mt. Holyoke Club Gives Tea Party At British Embassy

The British Ambassador, Sir Oliver Franks, yesterday proved his merit as a top-notch diplomat, when for some two hours he kept 250 women entertained at an all-feminine function. Occasion was the Mount Holyoke Club's benefit tea held at the British Embassy with Lady Franks as hostess.

Sir Oliver and Lady Franks received with the club president, Mrs. Evelyn J. Rowell, in the drawing room lit by mammoth crystel chandeliers. After the alumnae gathered in the dining room, Sir Oliver joined the ladies for chats and a cup of tea. Near the end of the tea Leon Truesdell, father of a couple of Mount Holyoke alumnae, dropped in for a brief stay.

Mrs. Lew Coit was chairman for the tea which was held for the purpose of raising funds in the current Mount Holyoke College drive in which the local group is participating.

In town especially for the occasion was Mrs. William A. Jones of East Orange, N. J., whose daughter, Dona Jones, married Lady Franks' brother, Thomas L. Tanner. Mr. Tanner was killed during the war and Mrs. Tanner is living in England with her two children.

Beethoven, Brahms Open Friday Club

By Paul Hume

The Friday Morning Music Club opened its 1948-49 season yesterday with piano and vocal music of Beethoven and Brahms.

Fanny Ross Henbest played works of both composers, with the comprehensive insight that marks her reputation in modern music. It was good to hear the B Minor Rhapsody understandingly handled in tone color and tempo gradations. Brahms writes for piano on a large scale, and only breadth of conception conveys his meaning properly. Mrs. Henbest managed this well.

Hazel Arth, contralto, was soloist in an interesting performance of the Alto Rhapsody of the same composer. Presented in chamber music manner, the rhapsody was given with male quartet in place of the larger male chorus specified and accompanied by string quartet, piano and flute.

In spite of these limitations, the essential spirit of the work emerged clearly. This was due to the spacious line of the soloist, who knew the work from within. Hazel Arth delivered the opening phrases with proper balance between questioning, and knowledge of answers which faith imparts.

The work as a whole lacked the motility which a conductor might have brought it, but achieved a highly satisfying mood. As the dramatic tension of the score grew, the soloist heightened her own style to match. Then, as when one emerges from a shadowy forest into a clear space of sunlight, the final section opened in broad assurance.

Here, Miss Arth did her most persuasive singing, with the men's voices to back her. As long as our symphony orchestra neglects to bring us such staple beauties as this, we are grateful for those individual performers who feel an artistic responsibility and are able to discharge it so adequately.

The Friday Morning Music Club has an unusual opportunity in Washington. We wish they would cross the line from occasional fine recitals such as yesterday's, to the point where they present only the best in performance and repertoire, as a model for those who attend or participate in their programs.

How to Mix Paint to Match

MIXED TO MATCH: Paint that will exactly match a sample of material is mixed for you in the color bar of a Washington department store. It saves a lot of messy mixing, work and time for you and guards against later disappointments

How would one mix paints to get an attractive pale shade of aqua? All walls, ceilings and woodwork will be the same throughout the entire apartment.

H. O.

Trying to mix paint at home is such a job—particularly when you have to make up enough for an entire apartment—that I'd advise your either buying ready-mixed paint or having it mixed at the "color bar" in a local department store. The ready-mixed kind costs very little more and comes in a wide variety of shades in the various types of paint you might use—water-mixed paint, interior enamel, flat-drying wall paint, etc. If you can't find just the shade you wish on any of the color charts provided in paint stores, a good clerk in the store will be able to tell you what to buy to mix with the nearest shade to make it exactly as you wish. At the color bar mentioned above you can show the clerk a sample of material and get the paint mixed to match it exactly, or you can simply describe the shade you wish. The telephone number of this store is District 5300.

Attention V. W. M.: Donald E. Bennett, president of the Capital Dairy Goat Association, has sent us the names of several persons in your general vicinity from whom you may be able to purchase fresh goat's milk. These are being forwarded to you. We have also been advised by another reader, L.F., that evaporated milk of this type can be purchased in most drug stores. If they do not have it in stock, they can usually obtain it for you. This goat's milk is canned in California. Mr. Bennett tells us goat's milk is also sold in dehydrated form now, though this isn't obtainable locally. We are sending you the name of an out-of-town firm from which it can be ordered.

Is there a store in Washington where I can purchase dry skim milk? It is also known as nonfat dry milk solids. I am not interested in powdered whole milk.

E. P.

Some of the health food stores sell dry skim milk. One such store can be reached by calling Columbia 2980. Also, the cooperative grocery stores sell it. For the one nearest you, look for them listed under "Grocers-Retail" in the yellow pages of the telephone book.

Churning a Bit o' Butter

Home-churning of butter now is pretty much a thing of the past, since such good butter today can be bought in stores. But even if you never lived on a farm and never had the chance to make butter, it's very simple. Here are directions:

Take half a pint of whipping cream that has been thoroughly chilled and put it in a mason jar. You may cover the jar tightly with its cover and get butter by shaking it vigorously. Or you may use an egg beater for the same results. After the lumps of butter have appeared, put them together, wash the pat with ice water, salt it if you don't like the taste of sweet butter and you will have a sense of achievement—you've made real butter.

But don't become so enthusiastic that you don't substitute the words, "the youngsters" for most of the 'yous" above. They should have a major part in the job. And how proud they will be to be able to spread bread or toast with their own butter!

T-H Repeal May Be Tough, Survey Shows

By Norman Walker
Associated Press Staff Writer

A study of the membership of the new Congress shows that any proposal to repeal or substantially change the Taft-Hartley Act may be due for tough sledding. Because:

1. The Senate will have 55 members already on record as favoring the law at the last session of Congress. That is six more votes than the necessary majority when all 96 Senators vote.

2. The House will have 226 members back who voted or were recorded as favoring the act at the last session. This is eight more than the needed 218 members for a majority of the 435-member House.

Some Backers May Switch

But these seeming majorities for Taft-Hartley may not hold up. A prime reason is that many returning Taft-Hartley backers may consider the voters gave them a mandate to change the law.

Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.), for instance, who voted for the law, said in response to a question last night: "After the overwhelming expression of the American people as to the Taft-Hartley law, I believe that law should be repealed or modified in accordance with the expressed will of the people as shown by the vote on last Tuesday."

The attitude of the more than 100 new members of the House and Senate still is to be recorded. It seems likely that more of the new members will be for changing the law than for not changing it, because of the way the election went and because many of them defeated Taft-Hartley backers.

Because of the return of so many Taft-Hartley supporters a tight vote on almost any labor proposal coming before the new Congress is indicated.

But because of the influx of new members, it is indicated that any bills opposed by labor and vetoed by the White House will stand a smaller chance of mustering the necessary two-thirds vote to overcome the veto than in the Eightieth Congress. The Taft-Hartley law was passed over a veto.

84 T-H Backers Gone

Altogether eight Senators and 62 House members who voted for the Taft-Hartley law were defeated in Tuesday's election; 16 others, including two Senators and 14 House members, lost out in primaries.

A breakdown of how those who voted for and against Taft-Hartley in the Senate fared:

Voting for the Bill (68): 12 reelected, including six Republicans and six Democrats; 9 retired or defeated in primaries, including 5 Republicans and 4 Democrats; 8 defeated in Tuesday's election, all Republicans; 39 holdovers whose seats were not up for reelection in 1948, including 30 Republicans and 9 Democrats.

Senators Against the Bill (25): 4 reelected, all Democrats; none defeated; 21 holdovers, including 3 Republicans, 18 Democrats. Two Democratic holdover Senators did not vote but were announced as opposed to the bill.

For the Bill (331): 223 reelected, including 138 Republicans, 85 Democrats; 62 defeated, all Republicans; 39 retired or defeated in primaries or deceased, including 22 Republicans, 17 Democrats; 4 elected to Senate including 2 Republicans, 2 Democrats; 3 defeated for Senate, 1 Republican, 2 Democrats. Three reelected House members did not vote on Taft-Hartley but were recorded as paired favoring the bill.

Against the Bill, (83): 72 reelected, including 63 Democrats, 8 Republicans, and Marcantonio (ALP); 3 defeated, all Republicans; 8 retired.

Roundup By States

Reelected House members (223) who voted for the Taft-Hartley law come from these States: Alabama 7, Arkansas 6, California 11, Colorado 1, Connecticut 3, Delaware 1, Florida 4, Georgia 9, Idaho 1, Illinois 11, Indiana 2, Iowa 5, Kansas 6, Kentucky 3, Louisiana 6, Maine 2, Maryland 4, Massachusetts 6, Michigan 9, Minnesota 5, Mississippi 6, Missouri 1, Montana 1, Nebraska 3, New Hampshire 2, New Jersey 9, New Mexico 1, New York 19, North Carolina 10, Ohio 9, Oklahoma 3, Oregon 3, Pennsylvania 14, South Carolina 3, South Dakota 1, Tennessee 7, Texas 13, Vermont 1, Virginia 6, Washington 2, Wisconsin 6, and Wyoming 1.

Defeated House members (62) who voted for Taft-Hartley came from these States: California 3, Colorado 2, Connecticut 3, Idaho 1, Illinois 3, Indiana 5, Kentucky 1, Massachusetts 1, Michigan 2, Minnesota 3, Missouri 8, Nebraska 1, Nevada 1, New Jersey 1, New York 5, Ohio 7, Oklahoma 1, Pennsylvania 8, Utah 1, West Virginia 4, Wisconsin 1.

8 Die, 67 Hurt As Gales Rip Four States

New Orleans, Nov. 5 (AP).—Eight persons were killed and 67 others injured when small tornadoes and heavy windstorms ripped through sections of Louisiana, Mississippi, Kentucky and Georgia early today and tonight.

A tornado smashed through Cedartown, in northwest Georgia, tonight, injuring five persons, wrecking several buildings, and leaving the town in darkness and confusion.

Tornadoes struck early this morning at Ripley, Miss., close to the Tennessee line; near Benton, Miss., in the central area not far from Jackson; and in rural Catahoula Parish, La., about 38 miles northwest of Natchez, Miss. A tornado also lashed a community 8 miles south of Vicksburg, Miss.

Most casualties were in the Benton, Miss., area where the Red Cross reported 6 killed and 30 injured. Dead were 6-year-old Georgia White and five Negroes. The child's parents and seven brothers and sisters were among the injured. Their plantation home was blown into a field.

The Corinth, Miss., Daily Corinthian reported Mrs. M. E. Young, 89, died in a Ripley hospital of storm injuries. Thirteen persons received hospital treatment. Six houses were reported demolished.

Sheriff Fred W. Fairbanks of Catahoula Parish, La., said Mrs. J. C. Evans, about 30 of Harrisonburg, was killed. About 25 houses were destroyed or damaged.

First General Clinic Set Up In Arlington

Arlington Hospital will open the first out-patient clinic for indigent patients ever to operate in the county next Tuesday at 12:30 p. m.

Hospital Administrator John Anderson called the new general medical and surgical clinic a "community service for Arlington residents," and said it long had been desired by the hospital.

Present tentative plans, Anderson said, also call for the setting up of a prenatal clinic and an eye clinic "in the near future."

The medical and surgical clinic, to operate under direction of Dr. Andrew J. Welebir, will be able to handle daily 20 to 30 patients unable to afford a visit to a private doctor's office.

For their first clinic visit, Anderson said, patients will be asked to pay a $2 fee. Once they are certified as eligible by the Hospital Service Agency, a Community Chest organization, or by the Arlington Welfare Department, the $2 cost of future clinic visits will be paid by those groups.

In addition to Dr. Welebir, an Arlington Hospital resident physician and a nurse will be present to handle the Tuesday out-patient clinic.

60 Navy Officers Graduated From Dental School

Principal speakers were Rear Admiral Clifford A. Swanson, chief of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, and Dr. Clyde E. Minges, president of the American Dental Association. The certificates were presented by Rear Admiral Morton D. Wilcutts, commanding officer of the Center.

Graduates included 44 who completed the Reserve Officers Postgraduate Training Course, 10 from the General Postgraduate Course, four from the Specialized Prosthodontia Course, and two from the Specialized Oral Surgery Course.

How to Mix Paint to Match

MIXED TO MATCH: Paint that will exactly match a sample of material is mixed for you in the color bar of a Washington department store. It saves a lot of messy mixing, work and time for you and guards against later disappointments

How would one mix paints to get an attractive pale shade of aqua? All walls, ceilings and woodwork will be the same throughout the entire apartment.
H. O.

Trying to mix paint at home is such a job—particularly when you have to make up enough for an entire apartment—that I'd advise your either buying ready-mixed paint or having it mixed at the "color bar" in a local department store. The ready-mixed kind costs very little more and comes in a wide variety of shades in the various types of paint you might use—water-mixed paint, interior enamel, flat-drying wall paint, etc. If you can't find just the shade you wish on any of the color charts provided in paint stores, a good clerk in the store will be able to tell you what to buy to mix with the nearest shade to make it exactly as you wish. At the color bar mentioned above you can show the clerk a sample of material and get the paint mixed to match it exactly, or you can simply describe the shade you wish. The telephone number of this store is District 5300.

Attention V. W. M.: Donald E. Bennett, president of the Capital Dairy Goat Association, has sent us the names of several persons in your general vicinity from whom you may be able to purchase fresh goat's milk. These are being forwarded to you. We have also been advised by another reader, L.F., that evaporated milk of this type can be purchased in most drug stores. If they do not have it in stock, they can usually obtain it for you. This goat's milk is canned in California. Mr. Bennett tells us goat's milk is also sold in dehydrated form now, though this isn't obtainable locally. We are sending you the name of an out-of-town firm from which it can be ordered.

Is there a store in Washington where I can purchase dry skim milk? It is also known as nonfat dry milk solids. I am not interested in powdered whole milk.
E. P.

Some of the health food stores sell dry skim milk. One such store can be reached by calling Columbia 2980. Also, the cooperative grocery stores sell it. For the one nearest you, look for them listed under "Grocers-Retail" in the yellow pages of the telephone book.

Churning a Bit o' Butter

Home-churning of butter now is pretty much a thing of the past, since such good butter today can be bought in stores. But even if you never lived on a farm and never had the chance to make butter, it's very simple. Here are directions:

Take half a pint of whipping cream that has been thoroughly chilled and put it in a mason jar. You may cover the jar tightly with its cover and get butter by shaking it vigorously. Or you may use an egg beater for the same results. After the lumps of butter have appeared, put them together, wash the pat with ice water, salt it if you don't like the taste of sweet butter and you will have a sense of achievement—you've made real butter.

But don't become so enthusiastic that you don't substitute the words, "the youngsters" for most of the 'yous" above. They should have a major part in the job. And how proud they will be to be able to spread bread or toast with their own butter!

By Paul Hume

The Friday Morning Music Club opened its 1948-49 season yesterday with piano and vocal music of Beethoven and Brahms.

Fanny Ross Henbest played works of both composers, with the comprehensive insight that marks her reputation in modern music. It was good to hear the B Minor Rhapsody understandingly handled in tone color and tempo gradations. Brahms writes for piano on a large scale, and only breadth of conception conveys his meaning properly. Mrs. Henbest managed this well.

Hazel Arth, contralto, was soloist in an interesting performance of the Alto Rhapsody of the same composer. Presented in chamber music manner, the rhapsody was given with male quartet in place of the larger male chorus specified and accompanied by string quartet, piano and flute.

In spite of these limitations, the essential spirit of the work emerged clearly. This was due to the spacious line of the soloist, who knew the work from within. Hazel Arth delivered the opening phrases with proper balance between questioning, and knowledge of answers which faith imparts.

The work as a whole lacked the motility which a conductor might have brought it, but achieved a highly satisfying mood. As the dramatic tension of the score grew, the soloist heightened her own style to match. Then, as when one emerges from a shadowy forest into a clear space of sunlight, the final section opened in broad assurance.

Here, Miss Arth did her most persuasive singing, with the men's voices to back her. As long as our symphony orchestra neglects to bring us such staple beauties as this, we are grateful for those individual performers who feel an artistic responsibility and are able to discharge it so adequately.

The Friday Morning Music Club has an unusual opportunity in Washington. We wish they would cross the line from occasional fine recitals such as yesterday's, to the point where they present only the best in performance and repertoire, as a model for those who attend or participate in their programs.

8 Die, 67 Hurt As Gales Rip Four States

New Orleans, Nov. 5 (AP).—Eight persons were killed and 67 others injured when small tornadoes and heavy windstorms ripped through sections of Louisiana, Mississippi, Kentucky and Georgia early today and tonight.

A tornado smashed through Cedartown, in northwest Georgia, tonight, injuring five persons, wrecking several buildings, and leaving the town in darkness and confusion.

Tornadoes struck early this morning at Ripley, Miss., close to the Tennessee line; near Benton, Miss., in the central area not far from Jackson; and in rural Catahoula Parish, La., about 38 miles northwest of Natchez, Miss. A tornado also lashed a community 8 miles south of Vicksburg, Miss.

And in Arkansas last night a small-scale twister concentrated on the municipal airport at Searcy, wrecking two hangars and demolishing nine planes.

Most casualties were in the Benton, Miss., area where the Red Cross reported 6 killed and 30 injured. Dead were 6-year-old Georgia White and five Negroes. The child's parents and seven brothers and sisters were among the injured. Their plantation home was blown into a field.

The Corinth, Miss., Daily Corinthian reported Mrs. M. E. Young, 89, died in a Ripley hospital of storm injuries. Thirteen persons received hospital treatment. Six houses were reported demolished.

Sheriff Fred W. Fairbanks of Catahoula Parish, La., said Mrs. J. C. Evans, about 30 of Harrisonburg, was killed. About 25 houses were destroyed or damaged.

First General Clinic Set Up In Arlington

Arlington Hospital will open the first out-patient clinic for indigent patients ever to operate in the county next Tuesday at 12:30 p. m.

Hospital Administrator John Anderson called the new general medical and surgical clinic a "community service for Arlington residents," and said it long had been desired by the hospital.

Present tentative plans, Anderson said, also call for the setting up of a prenatal clinic and an eye clinic "in the near future."

The medical and surgical clinic, to operate under direction of Dr. Andrew J. Welebir, will be able to handle daily 20 to 30 patients unable to afford a visit to a private doctor's office.

For their first clinic visit, Anderson said, patients will be asked to pay a $2 fee. Once they are certified as eligible by the Hospital Service Agency, a Community Chest organization, or by the Arlington Welfare Department, the $2 cost of future clinic visits will be paid by those groups.

In addition to Dr. Welebir, an Arlington Hospital resident physician and a nurse will be present to handle the Tuesday out-patient clinic.

T-H Repeal May Be Tough, Survey Shows

By Norman Walker

Associated Press Staff Writer

A study of the membership of the new Congress shows that any proposal to repeal or substantially change the Taft-Hartley Act may be due for tough sledding. Because:

1. The Senate will have 55 members already on record as favoring the law at the last session of Congress. That is six more votes than the necessary majority when all 96 Senators vote.

2. The House will have 226 members back who voted or were recorded as favoring the act at the last session. This is eight more than the needed 218 members for a majority of the 435-member House.

Some Backers May Switch

But these seeming majorities for Taft-Hartley may not hold up. A prime reason is that many returning Taft-Hartley backers may consider the voters gave them a mandate to change the law.

Senator McKellar (D., Tenn.), for instance, who voted for the law, said in response to a question last night: "After the overwhelming expression of the American people as to the Taft-Hartley law, I believe that law should be repealed or modified in accordance with the expressed will of the people as shown by the vote on last Tuesday."

The attitude of the more than 100 new members of the House and Senate still is to be recorded. It seems likely that more of the new members will be for changing the law than for not changing it, because of the way the election went and because many of them defeated Taft-Hartley backers.

Because of the return of so many Taft-Hartley supporters a tight vote on almost any labor proposal coming before the new Congress is indicated.

But because of the influx of new members, it is indicated that any bills opposed by labor and vetoed by the White House will stand a smaller chance of mustering the necessary two-thirds vote to overcome the veto than in the Eightieth Congress. The Taft-Hartley law was passed over a veto.

84 T-H Backers Gone

Altogether eight Senators and 62 House members who voted for the Taft-Hartley law were defeated in Tuesday's election; 16 others, including two Senators and 14 House members, lost out in primaries.

A breakdown of how those who voted for and against Taft-Hartley in the Senate fared:

Voting for the Bill (68): 12 reelected, including six Republicans and six Democrats; 9 retired or defeated in primaries, including 5 Republicans and 4 Democrats; 8 defeated in Tuesday's election, all Republicans; 39 holdovers whose seats were not up for reelection in 1948, including 30 Republicans and 9 Democrats.

(Four House members who voted for the bill were elected to the Senate.)

Senators Against the Bill (25): 4 reelected, all Democrats; none defeated; 21 holdovers, including 3 Republicans, 18 Democrats. Two Democratic holdover Senators did not vote but were announced as opposed to the bill.

For the Bill (331): 223 reelected, including 138 Republicans, 85 Democrats; 62 defeated, all Republicans; 39 retired or defeated in primaries or deceased, including 22 Republicans, 17 Democrats; 4 elected to Senate including 2 Republicans, 2 Democrats; 3 defeated for Senate, 1 Republican, 2 Democrats. Three reelected House members did not vote on Taft-Hartley but were recorded as paired favoring the bill.

Against the Bill, (83); 72 reelected, including 63 Democrats, 8 Republicans, and Marcantonio (ALP); 3 defeated, all Republicans; 8 retired.

Roundup By States

Reelected House members (223) who voted for the Taft-Hartley law come from these States: Alabama 7, Arkansas 6, California 11, Colorado 1, Connecticut 3, Delaware 1, Florida 4, Georgia 9, Idaho 1, Illinois 11, Indiana 2, Iowa 5, Kansas 6, Kentucky 3, Louisiana 6, Maine 2, Maryland 4, Massachusetts 6, Michigan 9, Minnesota 5, Mississippi 6, Missouri 1, Montana 1, Nebraska 3, New Hampshire 2, New Jersey 9, New Mexico 1, New York 19, North Carolina 10, Ohio 9, Oklahoma 3, Oregon 3, Pennsylvania 14, South Carolina 3, South Dakota 1, Tennessee 7, Texas 13, Vermont 1, Virginia 6, Washington 2, Wisconsin 6, and Wyoming 1.

Defeated House members (62) who voted for Taft-Hartley came from these States: California 3, Colorado 2, Connecticut 3, Idaho 1, Illinois 3, Indiana 5, Kentucky 1, Massachusetts 1, Michigan 2, Minnesota 3, Missouri 8, Nebraska 1, Nevada 1, New Jersey 1, New York 5, Ohio 7, Oklahoma 1, Pennsylvania 8, Utah 1, West Virginia 4, Wisconsin 1.

60 Navy Officers Graduated From Dental School

Principal speakers were Rear Admiral Clifford A. Swanson, chief of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, and Dr. Clyde E. Minges, president of the American Dental Association. The certificates were presented by Rear Admiral Morton D. Wilcutts, commanding officer of the Center.

Graduates included 44 who completed the Reserve Officers Postgraduate Training Course, 10 from the General Postgraduate Course, four from the Specialized Prosthodontia Course, and two from the Specialized Oral Surgery Course.

ANALYSIS

Ed Hart, the radio reporter, says that two old dowagers left Republican headquarters at the Statler early Wednesday, still unable to comprehend Mr. Dewey's defeat. Ed heard this conversation:

One: I just can't understand it.

Two: Neither can I. Isn't it awful?

Two: There's only one answer, Helen; there are just too darn many Democrats.

HOW'S THAT AGAIN?

Mrs. Donald Shook of 6403 Oakridge ave., Chevy Chase, Md., is still trying to figure out what a neighbor's maid really meant when she reported for work after the election with a cheerful:

"Well, I sure am glad to see that Mr. Truman got the chair."

"THE BEST-LAID PLANS"

All unaware of what lay in store
Was Candidate Thomas E. Dewey.
White House ahead—one foot in the door;
Then everything just went kerflooie.
"Four Gals."

VAGRANT THOUGHT

Republicans who drowned their election sorrows in drink probably wound up seeing pink donkeys.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Adorable puppies, part German police, 6 weeks old." (Sligo 2804).

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

Calm yourself. If you push in the ring through which your car door handle is fitted into the upholstery, you will find a hole in the shaft into which a small tool (or hairpin) can be inserted to push out a small pin lodged there.

Roshan W. Dyar,
Glenn Dale Sanatorium,
Glenn Dale, Md.

Dear Roshan:

Do you realize what you're suggesting, man? Do you know what happens when I get tools in my hands?

In five minutes I'll have that handle and door knocked down into so many pieces I'll have to call Carl, and Carl will probably have to call Smith to haul them into the shop.

Giving me a screwdriver is like letting a pyromaniac play with an atomic bomb. Heaven perish the forbid! Bill.

OLD BUT STILL GOOD

It's been a full week since I've heard the gag: "I call her my

'oomph' girl because every time she sits down on the sofa it goes 'oomph.'"

JUST ABOUT WHAT MOST OF US CAN AFFORD

One of our afternoon contemporaries recently ran a classified ad which offered for sale "1 lot, 20x00." H. D. Bernard of 321 Massachusetts ave. ne. observes:

"What a wonderful homesite that would make for a tightrope-walker."

PIED TYPE DEPT.

Olin V. Mapes, AD3, of the Naval Air Station at Patuxent River, Md., suspects that the Pennsylvania Railroad isn't nearly as sadistic as would appear from a Philadelphia newspaper story which stated:

"At last 13 persons have been injured as a Pennsylvania Railroad freight train hit a bus."

STREET SCENE

(Our reporter for this one is Mrs. E. S. Mossey of 1909 West Rhodes st., Arlington, Va.)

It was one of those subs which advertises "We Go Anyplace, Any Time." The taxi pulled over to the curb and the driver called out to a passerby:

PERSONAL NOTES.

Betty Hughes, 711 32d st. se.: Thanks a lot. Since two heads are usually better than one, I sometimes change the wording of contributions when I think they can be improved (or shortened) a bit. W. Shakespeare said a mouthful when he observed that "Brevity is the soul of wit."

QUICKIE QUIZ DEPT.

OVERHEARD

One: "He's his own worst enemy."

Two: "Maybe. But I'll bet I rank second."

NEW YORK.—Dewey once asked the reporters covering him not to quote him directly. One of them suggested that Dewey appoint an official spokesman for his office. "No, that was tried by another man, much more important than I am," said Dewey. The reporter repeated: "More important than you?" then turned to his colleagues and said, "What a story—'Dewey Slipping.'"

Tallulah Bankhead approached a Broadway producer she dislikes and asked him, "Are you going to vote for Truman?" The producer told her: "I'm staying home on election day." Miss Bankhead glared at him and said, "You should always stay home."

Lennie Kent, who bought the Playgoers Club, has made long strides since the war days when he first hit Broadway. When Kent first started, another comic told him: "George Jean Nathan has an article in Esquire in which he calls you the worst comic in America." Kent shrugged: "So what? It makes no difference, as long as they write about you" . . . The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Size-up of Some New Senators

By Drew Pearson

Here is a bird's-eye view of some of the new men chosen for the Senate this week in one of the most historic elections in recent years:

KERR OF OKLAHOMA—The voters have swapped one oil man for another with former Gov. Bob Kerr, Democrat, a wealthy oil man, succeeding multi-millionaire Republican Ed Moore in the Senate.

Kerr

However, except for the fact that they are both oil men, the two are miles apart. Scrooge-like 77-year-old Ed Moore was a Senate spokesman for the big corporations, and made no secret of it. If a liberal idea ever entered his head it died from solitary confinement.

But Kerr was born in a log cabin near Ada, Okla., and has never lost the common touch, despite his considerable wealth.

"Whenever I am tempted to think like a rich man," says Kerr, "I remember the time I worked in a cement mill for 15 cents an hour."

When FDR was asked who should keynote the 1944 Democratic Convention, when he was nominated for a fourth term, he replied, "I don't care, as long as it's Bob Kerr."

When Europe was clamoring for aid in the fall of 1947, Kerr didn't wait for Washington to act, but helped organize his own wheat relief committee.

Kerr fought in the First World War as an artillery lieutenant, is a churchgoing family man, the father of four children. He doesn't drink, smoke or chew.

GILLETTE OF IOWA—White-haired, never-say-die Guy Gillette is remembered for his battle to expedite the synthetic rubber program which Jesse Jones let lag so disastrously during the war and for the Roosevelt purge.

Gillette

Now 69 years old, Gillette was a buck sergeant in the Spanish-American War and an Infantry captain in World War I. He has been a battler from the time he first set foot in Washington in 1932 as a rookie Congressman. He battled against food profiteers, for soil conservation, for reclamation, and for rural electrification. His most publicized battle was the 1938 primary contest with Otha Wearin, selected by the White House in the unsuccessful purge attempt.

HUMPHREY OF MINNESOTA—Hubert Humphrey, who toppled Joe Ball in the Minnesota senatorial race, is a proverbial giant killer.

Humphrey

Less than four years ago, Humphrey literally wore his voice out at the 1944 Democratic Convention in Chicago screaming for Henry Wallace. In fact, Humphrey was such a rabid Wallace man that he refused to vote for Truman after Truman won and the convention chairman moved to make the nomination unanimous.

Few who watched the Democratic Convention closely will ever forget the sight of Humphrey and Barney Allen, a Red River Valley farmer, their clothes half torn off their backs and their voices gone, racing through the Chicago Stadium carrying an American Flag and a Wallace banner, begging and pleading with the delegates to support their man.

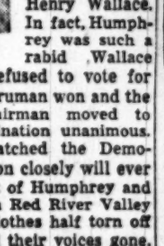
But that was four years ago. One year later, Humphrey, by wrapping up practical politics with a clever doorbell-ringing campaign, managed to become Mayor of Minneapolis.

The trigger-tongued Humphrey will bring to the Senate a clamorous voice for civil rights and social reforms. As Mayor of Minneapolis, one of his first acts was to set up a council on human relations. He founded it on dreams, but made it work. Again at the Philadelphia convention, it was Humphrey who split the Democratic Party wide open by demanding a strong civil rights platform. In retaliation, the Dixiecrats poured money into the Republican campaign in Minnesota and even sent former Gov. Sam Jones of Louisiana up to try to help reelect Senator Joe Ball.

A professor-politician, Humphrey taught his classes at MacAlester College to take an active part in politics; then he, himself, went out to practice what he preached. He brought a truce between labor and management, brought quarreling Sister Kenny and the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis together to fight the crippling polio epidemic.

His ambition in the Senate will be a position on the Education and Labor Committee.

NEELY OF WEST VIRGINIA—Friends of Matt Neely boast that he has run for more offices and been elected more times than any man in West Virginia politics. He began as a $45-a-month school teacher, resigned to try his luck at politics, served five terms in the House of Representatives, three times as United States Senator, once as Governor of West Virginia, and once as mayor of his home town, Fairmont.



Neely

Matthew Mansfield Neely is best known as a crusader for an air-tight Federal mine inspection law to prevent tragic mine accidents.

Always a colorful figure, Neely is addicted to snappy suits of pistachio green, is noted for his frankness, but is secretive about one thing—his age. There's been a lot of guessing about this, and Matt refuses to tell even his close friends exactly how old he is. However, one week from tonight, November 9, the Senator-elect will be 74 years old. But many men 20 years younger would like to have Neely's health and stamina.

Overcome The Causes of Baldness—ACT NOW!

RAY W. PLASTERER
Trichologist

Washington, Nov. 6, 1948. You don't have to accept baldness. Scientists agree that if your scalp is properly treated when the first signs of approaching baldness appear, you can save your hair. You will surely become bald, however, if you ignore increased hair fall, itching, dandruff, excessive dryness or oiliness. These are the first symptoms that your hair needs attention and when you notice them you should visit the Hair and Scalp Clinic for a Free, Private Examination. They will tell you exactly what can be done for your hair, how long it will take and what the reasonable cost will be. If you are accepted for treatment, modern scientific methods will eliminate the causes of your hair loss, your hair will thicken, your scalp will feel healthy and alive. The appearance of your hair will improve, and you will learn how to care for hair—how to keep it healthy and strong. Come in today for your free Examination. THE HAIR & SCALP CLINIC, INC. office is located at 606-609 Bond Bldg., S.W. Cor. 14th St. and New York Ave. N.W. Hours: 9:30 A. M. to 7:00 P. M. Saturdays, 9:30 to 4 P. M. Phone EXecutive 3832.

GOOD BUY, MRS. CHIPS

A Column of Shopping Advice

By PRISCILLA C. KLINE

Anniversaries have a way of rolling around. Some bring a feeling of nostalgia, some a sense of achievement, but all are milestones of a kind. Except for the very young, anniversary dates land with a sort of surprise. (Has it really been a whole year—or ten—or fifteen?) This is the feeling that many folks will undoubtedly experience when they hear that the Hecht Company of Silver Spring is observing its first anniversary. Can it really be a whole year since they opened their doors? Let's take a look backward, month by month, and see whether it could possibly be true.

Looking Backward

In looking backward, we might as well start where we are, which is October, 1948. October will be well remembered because it was during this month that the Children's Barber Shop was opened. Of course, if you don't have a little shaver to take to the barber shop every too often, this new service is of little consequence—unless, of course, you have a sense of humor and like to watch the antics of some of the small patrons.

But if you are the proud owner of a little contortion expert, you'll appreciate the convenience of running in and leaving him briefly in the chair to be shorn, while you run down to the first floor to buy those much needed buttons or elastic by the yard. There may even be time to dash over to the cosmetic counter and get a new lipstick before the last locks are combed into place! Yes, the opening of the children's barber shop is quite a convenience, and a landmark for October.

Remember September

How do you remember September? We recall being caught short just before school opened, because the children were without school shoes. The little girl wears shoes of a narrow width, so we were delighted to find that The Hecht Company carries children's shoes in A and AA widths. September was the month, too, when every kid in the neighborhood seemed to have a birthday party, and we found a number of inexpensive gifts in the toy department—children's records, electric scissors, books and games—which we rushed right over to the service desk for free wrapping. Then upstairs for the birthday card, and I-guess-we'll-make-it-after-all!

Cause and Effect

Remember the hot spell back in August? After all that griping, you could hardly forget it! Well, the heat sometimes has strange effects, but did you ever hear of its being responsible for the complete redecoration of a living room? This is how it happened. A friend of Mrs. Chips (let's call her Mrs. Jones) admitted quite frankly that during those five sweltering days she found all kinds of excuses to stay in The Hecht Co.'s air-cooled store to beat the heat. She admitted buying everything from kitchen gadgets to artificial flowers, just to salve her conscience about staying in the store so long, and so that store officials wouldn't regard her as a suspicious character.

When that 100-degree Saturday afternoon came, she was about stocked up on all the small items she could think of. It was then that she wandered up on the third floor and saw a sign about Interior Decorating Service. The lady at the desk looked very pleasant and attractive, so Mrs. Jones went over and made a few casual inquiries. After all, it was another excuse for staying in the cool store a little longer.

Well, Miss Arn, the decorator, brought out color charts, graciously took her over to the rug department to show her how to choose rugs to go with her favorite color scheme. Then over to the drapery department they went, and Mrs. Jones was delighted to find that

PRISCILLA C. KLINE

The Hecht Co. would make her draperies for the lowest figure you ever heard of ($2.25, even for the lined ones!) if she bought the material there. She found also, that she could order Venetian blinds, cornices, and traverse rods.

"Just imagine," said Mrs. Jones, as she told all of this to Mrs. Chips, "I expected to take a couple of weeks this fall doing all of these things as soon as the weather was cool, and here I did all of it in one afternoon while my friends were home groaning on their sofas." You really should see Mrs. Jones' handsome living room. She's beat all the rest of us to it, (and we think she's paying on a budget account, though we didn't ask). And to think it was all because of that heat wave in August!

Sundaes and Brides

July was a lazy month — no music lessons to run to—no lunches to pack. The children ran wild like a couple of little barbarians, but they did enjoy getting dressed up several days a week and going to the Silver Spring Room in The Hecht Co. for chocolate sundaes or strawberry milk shakes. Some of our friends told us that a cup of coffee and a sandwich in the Silver Spring Room in late afternoon gave them just the lift they needed in order to face going home to cook for the rest of the family. It's something like the refreshing relaxation of the English "tea hour."

In June, a "cute little trick" around the block was married. She was the one who told us about the Hecht Company's Bridal Bureau. Her comment was: "All you have to know nowadays is how to get the man. The Hecht Company's Bridal Bureau does all the rest." She seems to be right, too, because upon inquiry we found out that Audrey Mason, in the Bureau, will help shop throughout the store for any or all items in the bride's trousseau. In case the bride is too busy to come in, she will even do personal shopping for her for items not included in the trousseau.

She advises the bride on all matters of etiquette in connection with the wedding, and the wedding reception from the simplest to the most elaborate. She will furnish, upon request, a list of photographers and caterers, and offers the use of the photography room at the store, which may be used by any photographer. She has the gown all ready for the bride to put on when she comes in to have her picture taken before the wedding, helps her arrange her veil, and all that. Each bride receives a copy of the Bride's Book which includes space for a complete record of the whole ceremony—invitation list, gift record, customs and costumes, list of basic home furnishings needed, and even a detailed housekeeping budget. But here, if we spend all the time on the Bride's Bureau, we'll never get back beyond June.

Parade of Shows

Perhaps you can help us. Was it in May that the adorable Alice in Wonderland Puppet Show attracted scores of delighted kids from all over the area? We should remember, because we saw it three times, but there have been so many outstanding exhibits and shows at the Hecht Company during the last year that the dates are a bit confusing at this point. For instance, remember the exhibit of the Kensington Sketch Class for Amateurs, the watch exhibit, the fashion show, the exhibit by the National School of Photography, and, more recently, that wonderful Ravca Doll Exhibit? There have been others, too, all of which have been a constructive public service.

Springtime and a Caller

It must have been in April—because we were cutting daffodils at the time—when a friend from across country dropped in to call. She had been to the Hecht Company, she explained, and just thought she'd drop by. Her news was of another stocking to be hung under the tree by next Christmas, and her trip to The Hecht Co. was to visit the Kay Collins Maternity Bureau. She proudly showed the little book on "Baby and Child Care" which she had received as a gift, and was full of advice on what she would need to buy for this brand new experience.

In fact, she had a check list of everything, from her own walking shoes to what she would need to put in baby's suitcase to take home from the hospital. "Do you know," she said, "that while I was talking to Kay Collins, the telephone rang, and a mother of a new baby asked her to buy an enameled pan for cooking baby's cereal. Mrs. Collins told the mother that she would go to the lower level and get her one, asked the approximate size she wanted, and told her she would call her back about the price."

It seems that Mrs. Collins shops not only for the expectant mother, but will do any personal shopping requested by mothers of children under a year. She also gives the mother a postage-paid card to drop in the mail at the time of baby's arrival, and writes baby his first personal letter. In addition, she keeps a record of all layette items purchased, so that if any one who wishes to give a gift wants to know what baby already has, she can advise them on a practical gift.

Shortest Days of the Year

My, the brides and babies have taken a lot of time (as usual), so all we can say about March is that Brer Rabbit delighted both the parents and the children in his Briar Patch on the second floor. February was that horrible slushy and icy month when it was so hard to get out that we almost forgot to buy our sweetheart a Valentine gift. In a last-minute frenzy on Saturday afternoon, we raced to The Hecht Co.'s lower level and bought him a volume of records of "Songs of Our Times" for the year we were married. Rushing up the stairway with it under our arm we nearly bumped into him at the candy counter on the first floor, also buying a last-minute token!

January was the month when everybody we knew had Virus X, and we were so glad that the store was open two evenings a week so we could shop for flannel pajamas and heating pads. Not a very happy recollection, so we'll skip along backward to December, when our Christmas shopping was made so much more convenient because of the Martha Jean Gift Wrapping Service, and the free wrapping of packages for mailing at the regular service desk in the basement. Remember the reindeer on the roof, and the beautiful windows of "The Greatest Christmas Package Ever Opened?" Yes, and it was in November, on the opening day, that we ran in to get some warm gloves to wear to a football game.

So it really has been a year, hasn't it? Happy Anniversary to The Hecht Company. Once again their windows tell us that it's time to do our Christmas shopping, so let's be about it, and
